U.N., Katanga Agree To Prisoner Exchange

Broad New Cease-Fire Pact Signed

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP) — The U. N. Command announced Saturday the signing of a new cease-fire agreement with the Congo's secessionist Katanga Province that provides for an exchange of prisoners and a mutual surrender of strong points.

Katanga President Moise Tshombe claimed the agreement represented a victory for his province and declared: "This (Katanga) is a free nation, where blacks and whites can live together, and which will last for ever."

EXTEND PACT

U.N. officials described the agreement as an extension of the provisional cease-fire concluded Sept. 20 at Ndola in Rhodesia after eight days of fighting between U.N. and Katangan forces.

Tshombe, speaking at a memorial ceremony for Katangans killed in the fighting, said: "The war is not yet over. We shall defend out independence to the last drop of our blood."

"The army, the police, the administration and civilians will defend their right to self-determination," he added.

Tshombe signed for Katanga and Mahmoud Khiara, chief of U.N. civil operations in the Congo, signed for the United Nations at a table draped with the red and green Katangan flag.

One of the most far-reaching of the 13 provisions seemed in effect to pledge U.N. neutrality should the central Congo government of Premeir Cyrille Adoula attempt to recapture secessionist Katanga

2 Negroes Die In Blaze; Woman Booked For Fire

By SARAH LITTLE World Staff Writer

A pre-dawn fire raged through a two-story rooming house on Adams Street Saturday killing two Negroes and burning five others, leaving one in serious condition. A Negro woman was booked for murder and arson in the incident.

Twenty-five-year-old Mattie B. Cannon died in the inferno at 608 Adams St., while William Harris, 26-year-old Negro, died later Saturday morning at E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital.

Charlie Roe Jr., age unknown, was reported in serious condition at Conway while other occupants of the rooming house were treated and released. They include Earnest Moy, Ella Richardson, Willie Mae Pollard and John Pollard, all Negroes of 608 Adams St.

WOMAN BOOKED

Monroe police have booked Alice Faye Washington, 24, Negro of 807 Calypso St., on counts of murder and aggravated arson following investigation as to the cause of the fire. However, the investigation was incomplete last night, and she is being held without bond in the parish jail.

A Monroe policeman on patrol noticed the smoke and blaze, notifying the fire department at 3:50 a.m. Saturday.

Trucks one and three and ladder two responded to the call fighting the blaze for more than an hour and a half before bringing it under control.

The flames ate through the kitchen and lower floor of the frame structure and swept onto the second floor into the bedrooms.

Sleeping tenants in the building were forced to leap from windows and landings on the second story to the ground, many of them receiving minor injuries in the jumps.

The Cannon woman's body was found near a bedroom door close to the front porch of the house.

West Berlin Meet Plans Strike Snag

French Contend Agreement Not Reached As Yet

LONDON (AP) — Plans for a meeting of senior Western diplomats next week on the Berlin problem appeared to have hit a snag Saturday night after a French spokesman announced that Allied officials had not yet reached preliminary agreement.

The announcement by the French spread some confusion in Western capitals where it had been assumed that the meeting—intended to design a common Western approach to Russia's Berlin demands—would start in London next Thursday.

UNCERTAIN NOW

The British Foreign Office declined official comment but diplomats here privately admitted that agreement for the meeting now looked uncertain.

The West German government appeared unaware that the meeting was now in doubt. A spokesman in Bonn said that Deputy Foreign Minister Karl Carstens would leave for London Wednesday as planned.

In Washington, a State Department spokesman, asked to comment on the French announcement, said plans for the meeting had been "tentatively agreed," with such details as exact meeting time still to be worked out.

The U.S. Embassy in Moscow announced that Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson had postponed his return from the United States in order to attend the London talks. Thompson had originally planned to return Tuesday, the opening day of the Soviet Union's

Kansan May Face Greek Firing Squad

Death Sentence For Murder Of Seamen Decreed

PIREAUS, Greece (AP) — A Greek court Saturday sentenced a young Kansan to death before a firing squad as the result of a mysterious Aegean voyage from which two Greek seamen never returned.

The charge was willful murder. The three judges fixed the penalty despite a plea for clemency by the jury of seven men and three women that found the American guilty.

Roger Ranney, 26, of Chanute Kan., who said he came here last year as a tourist-photographer, turned pale, gripped the rail of the prisoner's dock and shook his head in disbelief as he heard the sentence.

"I am innocent," he said in a statement. "The jurors of Piraeus have found me guilty, but their decision will not break me. Sooner or later my innocence will be proven."

Defense attorney Dimitrios Pouleas, in his final plea, declared, "I repeat again and again that you cannot convict a man on circumstantial evidence."

Ranney has 20 days to appeal, and his lawyers already have said they would do so if he were found guilty.

If there is no appeal, or an appeal is rejected, the sentence probably will be carried out in about seven months at the small prison island of Aegina, 16 miles off Pireaus.

The crowd in the court room appeared surprised by the death sentence. Only one woman — a juror—showed any emotion. She wept silently as she walked away.

Presiding Judge John Psilopoulos actually sentenced Ranney to die twice, once for the murder of George Manteleros and again for the murder of Dimitrios Efstathiou.

The two seamen have been missing since last Nov. 21 when Ranney hired them to sail with him on the rented 39-foot yacht Delos from Piraeus. Their bodies never were found.

Ranney testified he acquiesced in Manteleros' plans for a watch-smuggling deal and was tricked into narcotics smuggling. But he declared he had left the two seamen safe and well on the small Aegean island of Milos.

He was found guilty also of two lesser charges, scuttling the yacht Delos and the Falconet, a small motorless launch the Delos was towing.

But he was found innocent of forging ship's papers. Another charge of carrying and using firearms was dropped.

The small boat was found submerged off Milos, and the yacht was sunk off Seriphos Island about 20 miles away. A diver found a holster and cartridges but no gun on the yacht.

Ranney said he left the two seamen with the small boat at Milos, and that the yacht went down in a storm after he had picked up the supposed watches at Seriphos and found the package contained heroin. He said he was frightened and tried to get back to Piraeus.

NEW 'SUPER-ROCKET'

First Test Slated For Giant Saturn

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Saturn, a monster representing a new dimension in U.S. rocket power, is scheduled for its first test launching within a few days, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced Saturday.

The long-awaited firing of the huge vehicle, whose thrust of 1.3-million pounds is three times more powerful than any previous American rocket, will ignite this nation's drive to land a man on the moon by 1967.

Saturn itself is not ticketed for the manned lunar mission. That is for the more advanced Nova rocket. But by 1965, Saturn is expected to whirl a three-man spaceship around the moon and land tons of machinery on the moon's surface to prepare for the disembarking of American astronauts.

The space agency did not pinpoint the date of the first Saturn launch, but if all goes right it will be before the end of next week.

The shot will not work miracles, nor will it close the big booster gap between the United States and the Soviet Union. Officials say frankly there is a chance of failure.

Only the first stage will be fired. This is a mammoth cluster of eight powerful engines standing 82-feet high. Two dummy upper stages will be filled with tons of water to simulate weight of the operational rocket. Over-all height is 162 feet.

The entire flight is programmed to end eight minutes after launch with the huge vehicle bubbling to the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean 225 miles downrange after a 95-mile-high ballistic trip.

The primary purposes of the flight, NASA reported, are to test the propulsion system of the first stage, verify the design of the entire vehicle, and prove the func-

City Infant Has Rare Operation

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Heart specialists successfully corrected a rare heart ailment in a 2-month-old Louisiana girl, The Houston Chronicle said Saturday night.

The condition was so rare doctors at the Texas Children's Hospital said they had seen only two other such cases, the paper said.

The baby, Mona Tarver, has returned to her Monroe La., home in good condition. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tarver.

Hospital officials said they know of only one other such operation that has been successful in the United States.

Mona's pulmanory veins had coalesced, which means blood that should empty from the lungs into the left side of the heart was being pumped into the vein leading to the heart's right side.

That overworked the right side of the baby's heart and most of the bood returned to her lungs instead of spreading itself through her body.

A hole between the sides of the heart was closed. This hole, which usually closes by itself after birth,

Plane Makes Sixth 'Catch' Of Capsule

HONOLULU (AP) — An Air Force flying trapeze attached to the rear of a cargo plane plucked the 300-pound gold-plated capsule of Discoverer No. 32 from the sky near Hawaii Saturday. The capsule had been orbiting in outer space for a day.

The trapeze of steel poles, hooks and nylon rope caught the big capsule as it parachuted back after 18 polar orbits about the earth.

SIXTH SUCCESS

The aerial recovery in an area called the "ballpark" was the sixth in the long Discoverer series. Three other capsules have been fished from the sea.

Captain of the four - engine turboprop JC130 was Capt. Warren C. Schensted, 32, of Glenwood, Minn., doing a repeat performance. He also skippered the C130 which snagged the Discoverer No. 30 capsule on the fly Sept. 13.

IN MOCK WAR

U.S. Jets Battle Aerial Invaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — The early stages of North America's aerial defense exercise, Sky Shield II, were carried out successfully Saturday, Air Force officials said, with new detection and communications systems getting a major share of the credit.

Officials of the North American Air Defense Command — NORAD — and the Strategic Air Command — SAC — praised the efficiency of U.S. and Canadian air personnel, who flew more than 6,000 missions in an effort to turn back "enemy" bombers who followed up a mock atomic missile attack on North America.

But the defenders had the advantage of two new ballistic missile early warning sites in Alaska and Greenland. And NORAD officers made use of the new SPADATS electronic system. SPADATS is the Space Detection and Tracking System which carries reports of airborne objects from the distant radar stations in Alaska, Greenland, Iceland and picket ships at sea.

BETTER UNITS

"We're a better unit than we were a year ago," said a NORAD spokesman at Colorado Springs, Colo., one of the three main headquarters of the defense system.

"The incorporation of these new electronic units is tremendously important," the spokesman said. "But the efficiency of our men throughout the system is comforting and gratifying."

At noon the simulated missile attack theoretically destroyed

FROM RECONSTRUCTION

Centurian In Area Succumbs At 104

Death came at his residence in the Lone Cherry Community at 7 p.m. Friday for the Richland Parish resident who had lived at the same place since 1890, and who was born in Alabama on May 3, 1857, four years before the beginning of the War Between the States.

Mr. Banks' wife died 60 years ago.

The centurian recalled in an interview some time ago that Reconstruction "was the toughest time in the history of the United States."

"We were not even allowed to vote for awhile. Finally the Ku Klux Klan got together and the carpetbaggers had the devil to pay.

"Our president, Lincoln, would have done pretty good if he hadn't been killed. He wanted to build a strong union."

Mr. Banks had a healthy appetite, with breakfast consisting of two links of sausage, two scrambled eggs, hot biscuits, a bowl of cereal and coffee. Lunch and evening meals were light.

He was a farmer all his life, except for a span of seven years when he operated a saloon at Mangham, the community's first.

He sported a long white beard, and said he was "nothing but an old farm boy."

He was a long-time member of the New Light Baptist Church.

Funeral services were held Saturday at the New Light Baptist Church near Mangham with interment in Lone Cherry Cemetery under direction of First National Funeral Home.

Surviving are three sons, Jesse Banks, of Winnsboro; Charlie Banks, of Mangham; Joseph Banks, of Mangham; a daughter, Mrs. Mary Barnette, of Mangham; a brother, W. J. Banks, Mangham; seven grandchildren; 17 great - grandchildren and 12 great-great-grandchildren.

Conway Crossland, United Givers campaign president, said "The United Fund helps those who help themselves, meaning that it is in the public interest to make the United Fund agencies as effective as possible. These agencies serve the entire community, not just the handicap and hardship cases."

Crossland went on to say, "It is the purpose of the United Fund agencies to offer a helping hand, rather than a handout. Agencies that deal with welfare problems, such as neglected children, are combating juvenile delinquency. This also applies to the recreation agencies that serve the young people, and the health agencies in which teaching and research are vital parts of their programs.

"Each year 300 volunteers from different professions in the Twin Cities join forces to make the United Fund a success. These volunteer workers are aware of what it would mean if these agencies were unable to provide the many services that they offer the community."

Included in the many volunteers for this years drive is Fred Petty, general agent for Franklin Life Insurance Company of Monroe, chairman of the drive; Conway Crossland, president of Central Savings Bank of Monroe, president of the drive; and E. L.

City Infant Has Rare Operation

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Heart specialists successfully corrected a rare heart ailment in a 2-month-old Louisiana girl, The Houston Chronicle said Saturday night.

The condition was so rare doctors at the Texas Children's Hospital said they had seen only two other such cases, the paper said.

The baby, Mona Tarver, has returned to her Monroe La., home in good condition. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tarver.

Hospital officials said they know of only one other such operation that has been successful in the United States.

Mona's pulmanory veins had coalesced, which means blood that should empty from the lungs into the left side of the heart was being pumped into the vein leading to the heart's right side.

That overworked the right side of the baby's heart and most of the bood returned to her lungs instead of spreading itself through her body.

A hole between the sides of the heart was closed. This hole, which usually closes by itself after birth,

Broad New Cease-Fire Pact Signed

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP) — The U. N. Command announced Saturday the signing of a new cease-fire agreement with the Congo's secessionist Katanga Province that provides for an exchange of prisoners and a mutual surrender of strong points.

Katanga President Moise Tshombe claimed the agreement represented a victory for his province and declared: "This (Katanga) is a free nation, where blacks and whites can live together, and which will last for ever."

EXTEND PACT

U.N. officials described the agreement as an extension of the provisional cease-fire concluded Sept. 20 at Ndola in Rhodesia after eight days of fighting between U.N. and Katangan forces.

Tshombe, speaking at a memorial ceremony for Katangans killed in the fighting, said: "The war is not yet over. We shall defend out independence to the last drop of our blood."

"The army, the police, the administration and civilians will defend their right to self-determination," he added.

Tshombe signed for Katanga and Mahmoud Khiara, chief of U.N. civil operations in the Congo, signed for the United Nations at a table draped with the red and green Katangan flag.

One of the most far-reaching of the 13 provisions seemed in effect to pledge U.N. neutrality should the central Congo government of Premeir Cyrille Adoula attempt to recapture secessionist Katanga

Plane Makes Sixth 'Catch' Of Capsule

HONOLULU (AP) — An Air Force flying trapeze attached to the rear of a cargo plane plucked the 300-pound gold-plated capsule of Discoverer No. 32 from the sky near Hawaii Saturday. The capsule had been orbiting in outer space for a day.

The trapeze of steel poles, hooks and nylon rope caught the big capsule as it parachuted back after 18 polar orbits about the earth.

SIXTH SUCCESS

The aerial recovery in an area called the "ballpark" was the sixth in the long Discoverer series. Three other capsules have been fished from the sea.

Captain of the four - engine turboprop JC130 was Capt. Warren C. Schensted, 32, of Glenwood, Minn., doing a repeat performance. He also skippered the C130 which snagged the Discoverer No. 30 capsule on the fly Sept. 13.

The plane and its precious sky cargo were to return to Hickam Air Force Base, near Honolu. The capsule was to be transferred to

The third man in the race, C. C. Breland, received 153 votes and carried one precinct by a single vote.

This was the first political race for Nugent and Breland and the second for Huffman.

IN MOCK WAR

U.S. Jets Battle Aerial Invaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — The early stages of North America's aerial defense exercise, Sky Shield II, were carried out successfully Saturday, Air Force officials said, with new detection and communications systems getting a major share of the credit.

Officials of the North American Air Defense Command — NORAD — and the Strategic Air Command — SAC — praised the efficiency of U.S. and Canadian air personnel, who flew more than 6,000 missions in an effort to turn back "enemy" bombers who followed up a mock atomic missile attack on North America.

But the defenders had the advantage of two new ballistic missile early warning sites in Alaska and Greenland. And NORAD officers made use of the new SPADATS electronic system. SPADATS is the Space Detection and Tracking System which carries reports of airborne objects from the distant radar stations in Alaska, Greenland, Iceland and picket ships at sea.

BETTER UNITS

"We're a better unit than we were a year ago," said a NORAD spokesman at Colorado Springs, Colo., one of the three main headquarters of the defense system.

"The incorporation of these new electronic units is tremendously important," the spokesman said. "But the efficiency of our men throughout the system is comforting and gratifying."

At noon the simulated missile attack theoretically destroyed

Father Of 12, Son Leave For Military Duty

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — A 44-year old father of 12 children leaves for military duty Sunday, confident that his wife and children can handle the home front in his absence.

"She's a good top kick," said A. T. Holton Jr. "She can run this outfit all right."

Holton is taking one of his sons with him. He and A. T. III, 19, are both members of the 111th Signal Battalion of the Army National Guard, which has been called to active duty at Ft. Meade, Md.

The oldest son, Donald, has served four years in the Navy and one in the National Guard. He also awaits a possible callup.

Mrs. Holton and the 10 younger children, who range from 4 to 17, say they aren't worried about the future, even with their breadwinner gone.

FROM RECONSTRUCTION

Death came at his residence in the Lone Cherry Community at 7 p.m. Friday for the Richland Parish resident who had lived at the same place since 1890, and who was born in Alabama on May 3, 1857, four years before the beginning of the War Between the States.

Mr. Banks' wife died 60 years ago.

The centurian recalled in an interview some time ago that Reconstruction "was the toughest time in the history of the United States."

"We were not even allowed to vote for awhile. Finally the Ku Klux Klan got together and the carpetbaggers had the devil to pay.

"Our president, Lincoln, would have done pretty good if he hadn't been killed. He wanted to build a strong union."

Mr. Banks had a healthy appetite, with breakfast consisting of two links of sausage, two scrambled eggs, hot biscuits, a bowl of cereal and coffee. Lunch and evening meals were light.

He was a farmer all his life, except for a span of seven years when he operated a saloon at Mangham, the community's first.

He sported a long white beard, and said he was "nothing but an old farm boy."

He was a long-time member of the New Light Baptist Church.

Funeral services were held Saturday at the New Light Baptist Church near Mangham with interment in Lone Cherry Cemetery under direction of First National Funeral Home.

Surviving are three sons, Jesse Banks, of Winnsboro; Charlie Banks, of Mangham; Joseph Banks, of Mangham; a daughter, Mrs. Mary Barnette, of Mangham; a brother, W. J. Banks, Mangham; seven grandchildren; 17 great - grandchildren and 12 great-great-grandchildren.

'Your Help Is Hope' UG Guide

"Your help is hope" is the slogan for the 1962 United Givers Fund campaign which started Oct. 3 with a goal of $254,87[illegible].

Conway Crossland, United Givers campaign president, said "The United Fund helps those who help themselves, meaning that it is in the public interest to make the United Fund agencies as effective as possible. These agencies serve the entire community, not just the handicap and hardship cases."

Crossland went on to say, "It is the purpose of the United Fund agencies to offer a helping hand, rather than a handout. Agencies that deal with welfare problems, such as neglected children, are combating juvenile delinquency. This also applies to the recreation agencies that serve the young people, and the health agencies in which teaching and research are vital parts of their programs.

"Each year 300 volunteers from different professions in the Twin Cities join forces to make the United Fund a success. These volunteer workers are aware of what it would mean if these agencies were unable to provide the many services that they offer the community."

Included in the many volunteers for this years drive is Fred Petty, general agent for Franklin Life Insurance Company of Monroe, chairman of the drive; Conway Crossland, president of Central Savings Bank of Monroe, president of the drive; and E. L.

The space agency said this would be the first of 10 research and development flights in the Saturn C 1 program, leading to an operation rocket by 1964.

The Saturn has been carefully groomed at NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala., which is directed by Dr. Wernher von Braun

Cautioning against over-optimism on the first try, they noted that Saturn's development "has presented a multitude of unprecedented problems related to its size. Rocket technology is being extended by a considerable margin."

"While the development group is optimistic as to the outcome of this and subsequent tests," an announcement said, "a new development of this magnitude is not normally carried out without temporary setbacks. Considering these circumstances, Saturn program officials think its is reasonable to expect a total of five successes in the 10 research and development launchings."

The largest operational U.S. rocket now being fired is the Atlas E, with about 400,000 pounds of thrust. Experts estimate the power of the Soviet Union's biggest at between 800,000 and one-million pounds.

another plane and flown to space scientists at Sunnyvale, Calif., for study

The tracking aircraft fixed the position of the capsule, and Schensted's plane and six other recovery aircraft began patrolling an area where it was figured the capsule would fall.

Schensted visually plotted a collision course with the falling capsule, bored in and passed directly over the capsule.

The sharp cracking noise of hundreds of feet of stout nylon rope playing out of the plane in an aluminum channel signalled success. Slowly the prize package was reeled in on a drum aft in the plane. The catch was made at 1:07 p.m.

The capsule contained a variety of experiments to determine the effect of exposure to space radiation. Samples of gold, iron, magnesium, titanium and nickel were used as targets for evidence of energetic particles which cause changes in the material

An experiment was included to provide data concerning effectiveness of various metals in shielding space radiation. A nuclear track plate, cannister, dosimeter and silicon were also used in the capsule to help determine the effects of radiation of solar cells and electrical components

The genetic effect of radiation on a sample of seed corn also was studied. Remaining in orbit with the Discoverer vehicle is an experiment to study radio propagation variation through the ionosphere

Discoverer No. 32 was lofted into space Friday from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif. It was the 100th successful launch of a Douglas-built Thor rocket out of 129 firings

One of the objects of the Discoverer series is to perfect a method of recovering information gathered by satellites as they whirl around the globe. Camera-toting Samos satellites are expected to return film from outer space in this way.

India Minister Leaves Hospital

NEW YORK (AP) — Indian Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon left Montefiore Hospital late Saturday just a week after a skull operation to remove a blood clot from a covering of the brain.

He was taken to the Beekman Hotel, where he had been staying. He is chairman of the Indian delegation to the U.N. General Assembly.

A delegation spokesman said Menon might go to U.N. headquarters Monday afternoon to speak before the assembly's Political Committee.

India is seeking to have the committee hold its first debate on a subject that country got on the agenda — suspension of nuclear tests.

by force. The provision said Katangan resistance to an attack from outside would not be considered a violation of the cease-fire

Previously the United Nations had appeared to give a green light to Adoula's army by saying a movement against Katanga would be considered a "police action"—an internal matter in which the United Nations would not interfere

The United Nations explained its military action against Katanga on Sept. 13 was taken at the request of the central government because white mercenaries hired by Tshombe were undermining efforts to restore the province to the Congo. The action was widely interpreted as an effort to forestall a possible attack by the central government

U.N. forces were surprised by the resistance encountered. U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold was killed in an air crash en route to meet Tshombe at Ndola to negotiate the cease-fire.

The extended agreement provides for Katanga to hand over the 191 prisoners—mostly Irish troops captured at Jadotville—and for the United Nations to exchange the 200 prisoners it is believed to be holding.

The United Nations agreed to hand back to Katangan authorities the radio station, post office, Lido swimming pool, a hospital and an underpass controlling several main roads — strongpoints U.N. forces seized in fighting in Elisabethville.

The Katangans also will be allowed to restore their garrisons at Nyunzu, Albertville and Niema in northern Katanga.

In turn the United Nations will re-establish a garrison at its base at Jadotville where 157 irish surrendered after a five-day battle and siege.

The agreement provided for the neutralization of the hospital, swimming pool and underpass. But the Katangans presumably will be allowed to station soldiers at the post office, scene of most of the fighting. The United Nations, however, will maintain technicians there.

active pro-Castro organizations, including the July 26 Movement and the Fair Play for Cuba committee.

He said the FBI's findings after investigating the July 26 Movement resulted in a requirement that the organization register with the attorney general in July 1960, under provisions of the Foreign Agents Registration Act.

The FBI director, in his report covering the fiscal year ended last June 30, said the Fair Play for Cuba Committee has many United States nationals among its members and "is one of the main outlets in this country for pro-Castro propaganda."

"FBI investigations also have shown that the Fair Play for Cuba Committee has been heavily infiltrated by the Communist party and the Socialist Workers party, and that these parties have actually organized some chapters of the committee," Hoover said.

Other sections of the report detailed the FBI's participation in tracking down record numbers of criminals in several fields, including automobile thefts, bank robberies and embezzlements.

Bureau agents investigated 1,813 complaints involving civil rights, compared with 1,398 for the preceding year

These did not include 745 reports of violations of federal election laws

West Berlin Meet Plans Strike Snag

Communist party congress.

Britain's ambassador to Moscow, Sir Frank Roberts, also had expected to go to London for the meeting.

British sources said the meeting was tentatively decided upon during discussions in Washington earlier this week between the State Department and ambassadors of the three other Western powers.

Objections arose when the ambassadors met again Friday, the sources, said. Exact nature of the objections was not clear. But officials privately indicated that they came from the French side.

Throughout the Berlin crisis, French President Charles de Gaulle has shown a lack of enthusiasm for rushing into any negotiations with the Russians.

His attitude has been that the West should stand firm against Soviet threats and wait until the heat dies down before considering any proposals.

The French Foreign Ministry spokesman described reports that the London meeting had been defitely set as "premature."

The West German government evidently did not share this view. Its spokesman said the proposal for the London meeting had been accepted by all four governments.

British sources said the French seemed unsatisfied that the ambassadors' discussions in Washington had reached a point where the matter could satisfactorily be turned over to a higher level meeting.

But, these sources said, conditions for the London meeting could be agreed upon when the ambassadors resume their meetings with the State Department in Washington Monday.

many of the NORAD and SAC bases.

In almost instantaneous response, the signal was flashed for a declaration of war and counteraction. Radar points in Greenland and Iceland and picket ships at sea located the invaders and flashed the word to the mainland. Jet fighter squadrons "scrambled" and went up to look for the invaders.

"Gentlemen, we shot down our first 'enemy' over the Boston sector," an Air Force colonel reported at 1:02 p.m. EST—one hour and two minutes after the giant operation began. The plane which theoretically had been knocked down was one of 15 British Royal Air Force Vulcans coming in from the north. The "kill" was made in the vicinity of Goose Bay, Labrador.

A similar aerial exercise was held in Belgium, Britain, Denmark, France, the Netherlands and Norway to coincide with the North American defense test

Except for a few mercy flights and two planes which inadvertently stayed in the air past the deadline, no civilian planes were aloft during the mass military operation. Two airliners were trying to land at deadline time and they came down a few minutes later.

Thousands of persons jammed roadways, hangars and terminals at the three airports in the New York metropolitan area, taking advantage of the 12-hour interruption of air travel to visit open house field installations and climb aboard some of the grounded airliners.

The first of the U.S. and Canadian jet interceptors in the NORAD command screamed into sudden life, wheeled out to runway end, thundered away as afterburners boomed sharply and vanished quickly into the distant sky. This was the beginning. The peak of battle would come as night moved westward across the continent.

The "enemy" the interceptors sought rode bombers of the Strategic Air Command and the British Royal Air Force. The latter, a unit understood to have included up to 15 aircraft, were V-bombers which had taken off from Britain to join in the attack.

SAC put its B52 heavies and B47 mediums into the battle.

In turn the United Nations will re-establish a garrison at its base at Jadotville where 157 irish surrendered after a five-day battle and siege.

The agreement provided for the neutralization of the hospital, swimming pool and underpass. But the Katangans presumably will be allowed to station soldiers at the post office, scene of most of the fighting. The United Nations, however, will maintain technicians there.

FBI Warns Cuba Threat To Security

active pro-Castro organizations, including the July 26 Movement and the Fair Play for Cuba committee.

He said the FBI's findings after investigating the July 26 Movement resulted in a requirement that the organization register with the attorney general in July 1960, under provisions of the Foreign Agents Registration Act.

The FBI director, in his report covering the fiscal year ended last June 30, said the Fair Play for Cuba Committee has many United States nationals among its members and "is one of the main outlets in this country for pro-Castro propaganda."

"FBI investigations also have shown that the Fair Play for Cuba Committee has been heavily infiltrated by the Communist party and the Socialist Workers party, and that these parties have actually organized some chapters of the committee," Hoover said.

Other sections of the report detailed the FBI's participation in tracking down record numbers of criminals in several fields, including automobile thefts, bank robberies and embezzlements.

These did not include 745 reports of violations of federal election laws.

West Berlin Meet Plans Strike Snag

Communist party congress.

Britain's ambassador to Moscow, Sir Frank Roberts, also had expected to go to London for the meeting.

British sources said the meeting was tentatively decided upon during discussions in Washington earlier this week between the State Department and ambassadors of the three other Western powers.

Objections arose when the ambassadors met again Friday, the sources, said. Exact nature of the objections was not clear. But officials privately indicated that they came from the French side.

Throughout the Berlin crisis, French President Charles de Gaulle has shown a lack of enthusiasm for rushing into any negotiations with the Russians.

His attitude has been that the West should stand firm against Soviet threats and wait until the heat dies down before considering any proposals.

The French Foreign Ministry spokesman described reports that the London meeting had been defitely set as "premature."

The West German government evidently did not share this view. Its spokesman said the proposal for the London meeting had been accepted by all four governments.

British sources said the French seemed unsatisfied that the ambassadors' discussions in Washington had reached a point where the matter could satisfactorily be turned over to a higher level meeting.

But, these sources said, conditions for the London meeting could be agreed upon when the ambassadors resume their meetings with the State Department in Washington Monday.

many of the NORAD and SAC bases.

In almost instantaneous response, the signal was flashed for a declaration of war and counteraction. Radar points in Greenland and Iceland and picket ships at sea located the invaders and flashed the word to the mainland. Jet fighter squadrons "scrambled" and went up to look for the invaders.

"Gentlemen, we shot down our first 'enemy' over the Boston sector," an Air Force colonel reported at 1:02 p.m. EST—one hour and two minutes after the giant operation began. The plane which theoretically had been knocked down was one of 15 British Royal Air Force Vulcans coming in from the north. The "kill" was made in the vicinity of Goose Bay, Labrador.

A similar aerial exercise was held in Belgium, Britain, Denmark, France, the Netherlands and Norway to coincide with the North American defense test.

Except for a few mercy flights and two planes which inadvertently stayed in the air past the deadline, no civilian planes were aloft during the mass military operation. Two airliners were trying to land at deadline time and they came down a few minutes later.

Thousands of persons jammed roadways, hangars and terminals at the three airports in the New York metropolitan area, taking advantage of the 12-hour interruption of air travel to visit open house field installations and climb aboard some of the grounded airliners.

The first of the U.S. and Canadian jet interceptors in the NORAD command screamed into sudden life, wheeled out to runway end, thundered away as afterburners boomed sharply and vanished quickly into the distant sky. This was the beginning. The peak of battle would come as night moved westward across the continent.

The "enemy" the interceptors sought rode bombers of the strategic Air Command and the British Royal Air Force. The latter, a unit understood to have included up to 15 aircraft, were V-bombers which had taken off from Britain to join in the attack.

SAC put its B52 heavies and B47 mediums into the battle.

VIET NAM CRISIS

JFK Reluctant To Send Troops

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy is reported to be extremely reluctant to send troops to fight in South Viet Nam. But officials say he is prepared to consider urgently any recommendation for military intervention which he gets from Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor.

Taylor, the President's military adviser and specialist on cold war strategy problems, is scheduled to leave Sunday for the strife-torn Southeast Asian country. He is taking a staff of military, diplomatic and economic experts.

Taylor will return to Washington in about two weeks. His recommendations probably will be decisive with Kennedy. Highly placed officials said privately Saturday if Taylor advocates sending U.S. forces into South Viet Nam, the President very likely will act speedily and favorably on the proposal.

At the moment, however, these informants said the burden of thinking within the administration is running against interventon. Kennedy himself was described by aides as being very reluctant to make a commitment of troops in Southeast Asia. Despite this, he has not made any decision pending Taylor's report.

Kennedy announced Wednesday that the general, a former Army chief of staff, would make the survey and give him an "educated military guess" on what the prospects are and what new steps the United States may take to support the government of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Taylor, it was learned, has broad instructions to look into the whole range of dangers and difficulties in the Viet Nam situation. Kennedy wants a full report on the working relationships among the U.S. Embassy, the U.S. Military Assistance Group, and the Diem government.

The President also seeks a sharper impression than he has so far received of how much of the Communist threat in South Viet Nam is a result of external Communist pressures and how much is a result of internal social and political conditions. In a sense, this poses the question why Diem has not been able to combat the Red guerrilla menace more effectively with the forces he has.

A third aspect of Taylor's mission will be to evaluate requests by the Diem government and by U.S. officials stationed in the country for help in various fields, including military assistance.

Specifically on the possibility of U.S. military intervention, Taylor's report should go into the question—if he thinks intervention should be recommended—of how large a force would be required to do the job and with what weapons. He is also expected to give the President his judgment of whether any kind of U.S. intervention would in the long run be decisive.

Apart from the report Taylor brings back, Kennedy's final decision must also take into account the availability of U.S. forces and the effect on the Berlin crisis of actions which the United States takes in some other part of the world.

There is concern in high quarters here for using every opportunity to demonstrate to the leaders of the Sino-Soviet bloc that the United States is in deadly earnest about Berlin and the Kennedy administration has the will to use force when necessary to protect the people of a Red-threatened area.

E. A. PORTER JR.

Porter Named Officer In Realtor Group

He is E. A. Porter Jr. E. A. Porter Real Estate has been in Monroe since 1928.

Other officers elected were Darrell V. Willet, Pineville, president; Louis V. Hufft, New Orleans, vice president; and C. H. Farrier, Baton Rouge, Treasurer.

Doctor B. G. Gross, Chicago, one of the major speakers at the convention told realtors that citizens of the country have come to a point where they put a price on everything.

"I think this is an age of moral bankruptcy," Gross said. "I think we have lost our sense of values."

Gross went on to say, "The senseless labor turnover in the United States cost industry 10 billion dollars annually, absenteeism cost 4.5 billion and accidents from people cost 150 billion."

Howard Parrish, a former realtor and now head of classified advertising service in Miami, Florida, said, "There is no medium as effective or which begins to equal the classified section of a newspaper to sell real estate."

He said, "Surveys have shown that 17 per cent of the adult males and females read the classified section."

Parrish cautioned realtors against thinking they save money by not advertising and gave instances where manufacturers of cigarettes and breakfast products have pushed competitors products off the counters with top advertising.

Republican FPC Chief Resigns Post

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—The Cape Cod White House Saturday announced the resignation of the last Eisenhower-appointee holdover on the Federal Power Commission, one of the government's major regulatory agencies.

Jerome K. Kuykendall, a Republican who had tried in vain to hold his post as commission chairman last summer, resigned effectve next Jan. 1. President Kennedy accepted with thanks for Kuykendall's "fine public service."

As of New Year's Day, the commission, which regulates the natural gas and other interstate power supply industries, will consist entirely of Kennedy appointees. The President will have to name a Republican to succeed Kuykendall in order to maintain the 3-2 party balance required for the commission.

Chairman Joseph C. Swidler is a Democrat, as are Howard Morgan and Lawrence J. O'Connor. Charles R. Ross, the other member, is a Republican. All were named by Kennedy.

O'Connor, a Texan who has been associated with gas companies, was confirmed by the Senate over the opposition of critics who charged he would be more of an industry than public representative.

Kuykendall and his fellow commissioners at the time were called before a House subcommittee investigating possible backdoor influences on federal agencies last year. He insisted he had not been influenced by any industry contacts.

This year Kuykendall resisted when Kennedy named Swidler to the commission and designated his chairman. Peace was finally made, and Swidler now heads the agency.

Kuykendall, who had been chairman since 1953, said he felt obliged after years of government service to re-enter private law practice but would stay on until Jan. 1 to help stabilize work of a commission which has experienced "rapid changes" in membership. His term normally would expire next June.

Kuykendall has practiced law in Seattle and Spokane, Wash., and once headed the Washington Public Service Commission.

U.N. SECRETARY-GENERAL

U.S. Rejects All Soviet Proposals For Advisers

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The United States publicly rejected Saturday every formula the Soviet Union would take on the number of principal advisers the U.N. interim secretary-general should have. It came out for five—the only number the Russians have ruled out.

In a statement issued by a spokesman, the United States also turned down the Soviet demand that before the acting secretary-general is chosen, he should promise to name some principal advisers from among his under-secretaries, to consult these advisers and to seek mutual understanding with them on major questions arising in his work.

In so doing, the U.S. delegation took issue with two of the three essential Soviet positions that Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin made public at a news conference on the whole subject here Friday.

An informant familiar with the U.S. view said the United States also quarreled with Zorin's third point—that the General Assembly could not name an acting secretary-general without the prior consent of the Security Council.

That meant that the deadlock over selecting a temporary successor to the late Dag Hammarskjold was almost certain to persist into a fifth week since his death Sept. 18 in a plane crash in Northern Rhodesia.

At his news conference, Zorin said he was willing for the acting secretary-general to have three, four, six or seven principal advisers — at a maximum, one each from the Soviet Union, the United States, Africa, Latin America, Western Europe, Eastern Europe and Asia.

He said he would not agree to any number that would include Western Europe and exclude Eastern Europe. It was obvious he did not name the number five simply because that formula would have that effect.

But the statement from the U.S. spokesman gave the impression that five was the only number the United States would accept. An informed source explained that these five would be from the Soviet Union, the United States, Africa, Latin America, and Western Europe.

This is on the assumption that the interim secretary-general himself would be an Asian—U Thant of Burma, who is acceptable to both the United States and the Soviet Union.

The U.S. statement said that in negotiating over a temporary successor to Hammarskjold, the United States had sought only to "preserve the integrity of both the office of the secretary-general and the Charter of the United Nations."

"The Charter," it went on, "prescribes that the secretary-general shall be free to select his principal assistants and that he shall make these appointments on the basis of ability, with due regard to geographical distribution.

"An equitable geographic distribution would in our view be the secretary-general and five under-secretaries drawn from the six main geographical areas of the world.

"The Soviet Union wants to compromise this principle by forcing the new secretary-general to select his assistants on a political basis. This is obviously the reason for proposing a second Eastern European in addition to a Soviet national.

"The Soviet Union also insists that the secretary-general shall, in advance of his election, make certain public declarations of intent. Any attempt, prior to appointment, to bind or prescribe this official's relations with his subordinates is clearly contrary to the Charter."

Sources acquainted with U Thant's thinking said he was willing to make such a statement beforehand but wanted to avoid doing it in such a way as to tie his hands for the job ahead.

They said he was insisting that the Security Council resolution recommending him should not be worded in such a way as to make it appear that he had to make the statement to get the recommendation.

Stunt Man Will Fight Bull With Only His Hands

TIJUANA, Mex. (AP) — A Hollywood stunt man, who uses his muscles to earn his living in such feats as lifting cars and elephants, says he will fight to death a 1,000-pound Mexican bull with his bare hands Sunday.

Jack Walsh, 32, of Philadelphia says he will try to catch the bull on the first pass, throw him down and break his neck at the Plaza Monumental bull ring near Tijuana.

"Once I get him down, he's mine," said the 5-foot, 10-inch, 204-pound strongman. "If I can't break his neck, I'll try karate." Karate is a deadly form of judo.

Britain, West Europe Stage Defense Alert

LONDON (AP)—About 40 imaginary atomic bombs fell on Britain and five West European countries Saturday in a 22-hour civil defense exercise coinciding with the similar "Sky Shield" alert in the United States.

The exercise in Belgium, Britain, Denmark, France, the Netherlands and Norway amounts to a testing of civil defense in the nuclear age in an essential sector of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Civil defense authorities in Britain said about 20 "bombs" including some in the megation or million tons of TNT range, had been "dropped" over Britain by nightfall and another 20 over the five continental countries. The exercise, known as "Seven Pillars," ends Sunday morning.

Observers opened envelopes at specified times and handed instrument monitors the supposed readings on their instruments. This is the equipment which would instantly detect the dropping site and intensity of a real bomb.

Scientists in defense nerve centers deduced from the readings the location of the drop and probable area affected by the fallout.

Nixon Says Kennedy On Powder Kegs

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Saturday President Kennedy now is riding high politically but is sitting on twin powder kegs — one international, the other domestic.

Nixon issued a statement a spokesman said was designed to answer many questions Nixon has received on his views about the political situation in 1964.

The Republican presidential nominee of last year, who was defeated by Kennedy, recently announced his candidacy for the GOP nomination for governor of California next year. At that time he said: "I shall not be a candidate for president in 1964."

Saturday Nixon said polls indicate Kennedy would win by a decisive margin if the election were held now, "but anyone would be foolish to assume that this will be the situation in three years."

Nixon said all Americans hope neither the international nor the domestic powder keg explodes.

He continued: "But realistically, the prospects for trouble for Mr. Kennedy cannot be underestimated.

"For example, if Mr. Kennedy makes another blunder like Cuba, the Republican nominee will be a shoo-in in 1946.

"The great majority of economists believe that the Kennedy administration's economic policies, based on deficit spending, are unsound and if continued will catch up with him inevitably. The only question is when.

"Some believe that by massive government spending, Mr. Kennedy will be able to see that the economy reaches a peak in November 1964, but an increasing number believe that the inflationary bubble will break late in 1963 or early in 1964. This would mean disaster for the country and for the Kennedy administration politically."

Strikes At Ford Plants Continue

DETROIT (AP)—A backlog of unsettled local union demands Saturday left in doubt how soon Ford Motor Co. will be able to get back into full production and end a strike now in its 12th day.

The United Auto Workers Thursday approved a new three-year labor contract with Ford, halting a national strike. But the union's executive board authorized a score of local unions to continue on strike until they reach agreements on working conditions at the plant level.

Ford and UAW negotiators, in separate meetings with leaders of the holdout locals, hoped to complete local settlements over the weekend. Progress was slow.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther's executive board will meet here at 10 a.m. Sunday to review the local situation and decide what further action to take The executive board has announced it will authorize continuation of strikes at plants where there are valid issues.

Ford has notified approximately one-third of its 120,000 production workers to report for work Monday at more than 20 plants. These include six assembly plants.

The company's production, however, will be crippled until settlements on working conditions are made at plants which make the components that go into building cars.

Local unions which represent more than 40,000 of Ford's hourly workers are still bargaining on working rules at individual plants, including an important group of units at the big Rouge industrial complex in Dearborn, Mich.

Ford and the UAW have agreed in their national contract on overall rules for working conditions. But nearly 20 plants still have a wide range of local problems to be settled with plant management. They include parking lot and cafeteria facilities, washup time, posting of job openings, overtime rotation and application of seniority.

Ford and the UAW agreed before the start of the strike on a contract covering wages and extra benefits. It followed lines of the General Motors Corp. settlement last month, with the exception of some slight improvements in supplemental unemployment benefits, pensions and insurance.

The economic contract provides auto workers a yearly wage increase of six cents an hour, or 2½ per cent, whichever is greater. It continues the cost-of-living wage increase based on the government's consumer price index. Extra benefits include expanded layoff pay and fully company paid hospital-surgical-medical insurance. The union estimates the money package amounts to an increase of more than 12 cents an hour in takehome pay.

The average hourly gross rate of pay was $2.80 before the new contracts were written.

The union will ask Chrysler Corp. to settle along the same lines. Reuther is waiting on settlement of the local issues at Ford before showing up at the Chrysler bargaining room.

The Ford contract — like that with GM—has for the first time an agency shop provision. Ford's employes in states which have right-to-work laws barring compulsory union membership will be required to pay dues to the UAW even though they aren't members.

The UAW announced two local settlements at Ford plants Saturday.

Eddie Beard Wins Civitan 4-H Heifer

Eddie Beard, 15-year-old 4-H Club member of West Monroe High School, has been named winner of a registered dairy heifer in a recent records contest held in conjunction with the Ouachita Valley Fair.

The Civitan Club of Monroe sponsors this activity and each year awards an animal to a 4-H boy or girl who submits records kept on their activities and Valley Fair.

To compete for the dairy heifer the club member must be at least twelve years old and have completed at least one year of 4-H Club work, must have at least two years of club work left after current fair and must have at least three acres of good pasture or its equivalent. Club member may be either a boy or girl but cannot win this award more than once.

The judging was based on thirty points for project activity, fifteen points for leadership activity and fifty-five points based on participation in the Ouachita Valley Fair.

Judges for the contest were: F. H. Holdeman, associate professor of agricultural engineering, and Dr. J. G. Hammons, associate professor of agronomy at Northeast Louisiana State College. Both Holdeman and Dr Hammons are former Extension Agents who did 4-H Club work.

Camel Driver Gets London Welcome

LONDON (AP)—A gray-haired camel driver with a flowing black moustache stepped hesitantly from a giant jet airliner at London Airport Saturday. With great dignity he shook hands and said goodby to the stewardess.

Bashir Ahmad was wearing his fur cap, a long, high-buttoned coat, flowing baggy trousers and an unaccustomed pair of shoes. For he was on his way from Pakistan to visit America as guest of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Last May he was just a face in a crowd of thousands of faces greeting Johnson on his arrival for a visit to Karachi. Shaking hands with people at random in the crowd, the vice president shouted to Bashir: "Come over and see me in America."

Bashir yelled, "I will," smiled and thought no more about it. But local newspapers picked up the story, diplomatic machinery, mutual assistance and people-to-people programs went into action. An airline paid his round-trip fare.

A representative of the U.S. Embassy in London, who met the Pakistani at the airport, said: "We haven't worked out the full details of Bashir's visit but he will have a good tour around and stay for two weeks. He will be the guest of Mr. Johnson at his cattle ranch in Texas."

Bashir was given VIP treatment at the airport and was driven in a black limousine to a plush chrome-and-glass hotel nearby to spend the night.

The overnight stop was made necessary by the American "Sky Shield" exercise grounding civil flights.

Representatives of the U.S. Embassy, the Pakistan high commissioner in London and the airline met him at the airport.

Said Bashir to newsmen: "I am shy of all these greetings and people. I am really just a simple man. But I want to see all the beautiful things in America. To go to America has been my lifelong wish. I much admire Vice President Johnson and when I meet him I shall ask after his family's health."

He lives in a tiny hut in Karachi with his wife, three sons and one daughter.

"I shall buy them presents," he said; "toys for my children and something for my wife — but I don't know yet what that will be."

He also had a present for Johnson but did not say what it was.

Bashir met considerable opposition to his visit from his wife and jealous members of his clan who fear he will become a "big man" on his return from America.

His wife is afraid he will marry a white woman in America. Bashir is a Moslem and may have up to four wives if he can support them.

He swore on the Koran before his wife and children that he would not even look at a girl during the trip.

SEALING OFF BERLIN

Reds Continue Mass Evictions

BERLIN (AP) — The Communists resumed the forcible evictions Saturday of East Berliners living close to the Concrete Curtain.

Moving men accompanied by armed Vopos — people's police — appeared at Bernauerstrasse and other border streets and displaced families from numerous apartments facing West Berlin.

It was a continuation of the Red German regime's relentless program for sealing off West Berlin and baring the way to East German refuges.

Hundreds of small houses and garden plots have been wrecked on the outer perimeter of Berlin to create an escape-proof "death strip."

In the city center, there have been no demolitions. But hundreds of families have been moved from apartment blocks on the border, and windows facing the West have been bricked up.

West Berlin police say until now only trusted Communist families were allowed to stay in apartments where they could see the glossy, neon-lit temptations of West Berlin by looking out their windows.

Nevertheless escapes from these apartments are reported almost daily, despite the identity checks by police of every person entering the houses from the East Berlin side.

The new evacuations indicated that not even the most reliable Communist family would be trusted to resist the temptation of living within too easy reach of free West Berlin.

A Communist newspaper said they were moved to save them from "provocation by revenge-seeking troublemakers."

But West German police in Brunswick said the Communists temporarily suspended evictions along the border with West Germany.

My Answer

QUESTION: I thought maybe you could help me because I have gotten to the point where I don't care any more. I have nothing to live for. I have a feeling of insecurity and absolutely no confidence in myself. Will I ever change?

B. N.

ANSWER: Your question reflects the despair and boredom of so many people these days. Your question has no mention of God, but I counted nine personal pronouns. The trust is, you like so many, have been likely wrapped up in yourself, and like the prodigal, 'coming to one's self' can be disillusioning.

Yes, you can be changed—but you can't change yourself. You, like every other person alive, were made for fellowship with God. But you can't fellowship with Him, until you become reconciled to Him. You must be born of the Spirit. The new birth will make you alive unto God, and give you a whole new area of awareness. You have come to a dead end, but the end of 'self' can be the beginning of a new life with God.

LOCAL ISSUES UNSETTLED

Strikes At Ford Plants Continue

DETROIT (AP)—A backlog of unsettled local union demands Saturday left in doubt how soon Ford Motor Co. will be able to get back into full production and end a strike now in its 12th day.

The United Auto Workers Thursday approved a new three-year labor contract with Ford, halting a national strike. But the union's executive board authorized a score of local unions to continue on strike until they reach agreements on working conditions at the plant level.

Ford and UAW negotiators, in separate meetings with leaders of the holdout locals, hoped to complete local settlements over the weekend. Progress was slow.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther's executive board will meet here at 10 a.m. Sunday to review the local situation and decide what further action to take The executive board has announced it will authorize continuation of strikes at plants where there are valid issues.

Ford has notified approximately one-third of its 120,000 production workers to report for work Monday at more than 20 plants. These include six assembly plants.

The company's production, however, will be crippled until settlements on working conditions are made at plants which make the components that go into building cars.

Turkey Votes On Replacing Ruling Junta

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Turkey votes Sunday to replace the ruling military junta with a civil government and the Peoples' Republican party of former President Ismet Inonu appeared to be the favorite of the four parties in the race.

It was the opposition party in the 10-year regime of ousted Premier Adnan Menderes. The junta that overthrew Menderes last year hanged him last month for crimes against the constitution.

Newspaper surveys and reports from correspondents indicate a growing trend among Turkey's population for the Republicans. Nearly 13 million of the 28 million Turks are eligible to vote.

The Republicans are the best organized of the four competing parties. The others are the Justice party, the New Turkey party and the Republican Peasants Nation party.

Voting for the 450 seats in the new Parliament and the 129 seats in the Senate will be on a promotional basis. Each party will get the exact percentage of seats it gets in the public vote.

If Inonu, 78, is elected he is expected to step aside in favor of the party general secretary, Isamail Rhustu Aksal, 50, for the premiership.

Gen. Cemal Gursel, head of the junta ruling Turkey for the past 17 months, is the most likely prospect for president, who will be chosen by both houses before Oct. 29.

Child Dies Of Beating, Pair Held

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — A teen-age mother and her boy friend, sharing a home while her husband served in the Navy, were held on preliminary murder charges Saturday after the woman's 3-year-old daughter died of a beating.

Karen Janet Dodd, 19, and James D. Hutchinson, 19, were arrested after Karrie Hansine Dodd was found dead on arrival at Community Hospital Friday night from what a detective called a "vicious beating."

Police said Mrs. Dodd and Hutchinson had shared a home for three months. They said her husband, Leonard F. Dodd, is in the Navy and stationed at Nantucket, Mass.

Detective Sgt. William E. Kaiser said Hutchinson admitted hitting the little girl with his hand and a belt, because she had rebelled at taking a bath.

Kaiser said the severity of bruises on the child's body and the injuries which caused her death indicated she might have been kicked or struck with some object.

An autopsy showed the girl died of a ruptured liver and a brain hemorrhage.

Sonarman Leonard Dodd, 22, husband of the accused woman, said at Nantucket, "They told me Karrie died of pneumonia."

Yugoslavia Aid Review In Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Criticism of the sale of 135 U.S. Sabrejet fighters to Communist Yugoslavia brought from administration officials Saturday a report that President Kennedy already has ordered a review of U.S. aid to Yugoslavia.

These officials said the policy review was ordered immediately after the Belgrade conference of nonaligned countries early last month. At that conference Yugoslav President Tito made a speech tending to support Soviet policy.

The White House and State Department also have been irritated with Yugoslavia's steady support of the Soviet line on East Germany.

Pending the policy review, which Kennedy ordered the National Security Council to undertake, officials said there is little likelihood of any new aid agreements being entered into with Yugoslavia.

They said commitments already made, however, will be carried out.

In this connection it was disclosed that deliveries are still being made of 70 Navy T2 aircraft sold to Yugoslavia under a deal made in 1959.

State Department officials who reported the TV2 plane sale did not give out any cost figured but presumably all the planes have been paid for. The TV2 is a two-seater jet trainer.

Officials said the F86D Sabre jets, which were declared surplus last year, were sold to Tito for $10,000 each. Their original cost was $343,000 apiece.

Since direct military aid to Yugoslavia was halted in 1957, officials said the Yugoslavs have been buying military items from this country on a cash or short term credit basis.

The State Department said the Sabrejet purchase agreement was completed last Jan. 15, five days before Kennedy succeeded Dwight D. Eisenhower as president. Kennedy could have canceled the contract, but chose to let it stand.

Officials said they believed all the Sabrejets had been delivered and paid for by now.

Still outstanding as part of this deal was an agreement to train eight Yugoslav air force men in this country. Four of these are now being trained as pilots and four as maintenance men at Perrin Air Force Base, Tex. The Pentagon said three Yugoslavs also will receive training at Lowry Air Force Base in Colorado.

Disclosure of the Sabrejet-training deal Friday brought sharp criticism from some Congress members. Rep. Otto Passman, D-La., said the transaction "borders on treason." Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said the Yugoslav airmen should be sent home and all aid to Tito halted, and Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said the arrangement should be canceled because of Tito's stand at the Belgrade conference.

Thurber Still On Critical List

NEW YORK (AP) — A Doctors Hospital spokesman said Saturday James Thurber's condition had improved "slightly" overnight but that the humorist was still on the critical list.

Thurber, who has been blind in recent years, collapsed in his hotel room and underwent brain surgery Oct. 4 for removal of a blood clot.

Assassin Slays Urundi Premier

USUMBURA, Ruanda-Urundi (AP)—A gunman lurking in the bushes fired a single shot and killed Prince Louis Rwagasore, 32, first premier of Urundi, as he dined on a terrace on the shore of Lake Tanganyika Friday night.

Authorities, who announced the assassination Saturday, feared the killing would provoke serious political difficulties in the Urundi half of this Belgian-administered trust territory.

Both Ruanda, the other half, and Urundi, are expected to get their independence and go separate ways at the end of next year unless the U.N. General Assembly decides otherwise.

Rwagasore was the son of Mwami (King) Mwambusta IV, whose prestige was believed responsible for the victory of the Uprona party led by the prince in general elections last month. After the selection the prince was chosen as Urundi's first premier.

Rwagasore was sitting with friends and Cabinet members at a lakeside restaurant when the single shot rang out from bushes about 60 feet away.

The prince fell over with a wound in his throat and died at once. The killer leaped into an automobile and escaped in the confustion.

Judicial authorities in this joint capital of the trust territory offered a reward for information leading to the arrest of the assassin or others responsible.

Belgian Resident General J. P. Harroy in a special broadcast pledged every effort to find and punish those guilty.

No motive was advanced for the assassination. Such actions in this part of Africa often are blamed on tribal rivalries. But the tribal tensions between the giant Watutsi and their former slaves, the Bahutus, never have been as deadly in Urundi as in the sister trust territory of Ruanda.

Hundreds were killed in Ruanda in 1959 when the Watuts chiefs allegedly sent agents to murder Bahutu leaders and the Bahutus started a counterslaughter. The Watutsis feared the rising political strength of the Bahutus, who make up 85 per cent of the Ruanda population, in a new era of independence and parliamentary government.

Ruanda-Urundi formerly was part of German East Africa but was ceded to Belgium as a mandate under the League of Nations after World War I. The mandate became a trusteeship under the United Nations in 1946. The native population of the two territories is about five million.

Solon Offers New School Aid Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new approach to federal aid to education designed to lessen the emotional impact of the issue and clear the way for congressional action next year was proposed Saturday.

In effect, the plan would shift the emphasis from helping school children to helping taxpayers.

It was offered by Rep. Cleveland M. Bailey, D-W.Va.

Instead of allocating federal funds on the basis of the number of school children in a state, as in past bills, Bailey would grant each state a sum equal to 2 per cent of its expenditures on public education.

The money would go directly into a state's educational funds and be distributed through the regular channels for use as the local school authorities decide.

Bailey thinks his plan would eliminate at least two of the controversial issues that have helped defeat all past school bills: Local vs. federal control, and public vs. private school aid, with its corollary, aid for church schools.

He outlined the plan in a recess edition of the Congressional Record, along with an explanation of what he hoped it would accomplish.

"I have come to the conclusion that what we are really trying to do is use the broader federal tax base to help state and local taxpayers finance the cost of improved education," he said.

"When we look at the proposition from this standpoint we find that every citizen is a taxpayer whether he sends his children to public or private schools," he said. "Since we intend to encourage and stimulate education in all the states, and since there are pockets of need in every state, we would assist taxpayers in efery state."

In addition to the 2 per cent allocation to each state, Bailey would give poorer states a bonus based on the percentage their per capita income falls below the national average. Hewouldalsoprovide for cutting the federal allotment to any state that cuts the amount of its own school expenditures.

IN BATON ROUGE CASE

U.S. High Court To Hear Appeals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court comes to grips with the "sit in" issue next week in appeals by 16 young Negroes who engaged in lunch counter demonstrations in Baton Rouge, La., last year.

The court will hear arguments in mid-week by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which represents the Negroes, and by Louisiana. A decision will be announced later in the term.

The Justice Department, which supported the demonstrators in a "friend of the court" brief, will not participate in the arguments.

The Negroes were all students at Southern University, a Negro school, when they were arrested in March, 1960, for taking seats at "white" lunch counters in Kress' variety store, Sitman's drugstore, and the Greyhound Bus station.

Capt. Robert Weiner of the Baton Rouge police, made the arrests. The students were later convicted of disturbing the peace.

Louisiana law makes it a crime to commit any act "in such a manner as to unreasonably disturb or alarm the public."

The Negroes were sentenced to four months in jail, three of which might be suspended upon payment of a fine of $100 and costs. The Louisiana Supreme Court affirmed the convictions Oct. 5, 1960.

The central question in this and other sit-in cases is: May a state, through its police and courts, enforce racial segregation in private establishments which open their doors to the general public? Many sit-in demonstrators throughout the South were convicted under local trespass laws. The Louisiana case is considered legally more favorable to the students because of the absence of trespass charges.

Other cases before the court where trespass does figure stem from incidents in Glen Echo amusement park in Montgomery County, Md.; and in Gwynn Oak amusement park, Baltimore; and from lunch counter demonstrations in a Howard Johnson restaurant in Arlington County, Va.; Thalhimer's department store, Richmond, Va.; Jones drugstore, Monroe, N. C.; McCrory-McLellan store, Raleigh, N. C. and Kress in Durham, N. C.

The court has not taken any action whatever on these appeals.

In the Sitman's drugstore case in Baton Rouge, neither the owner nor any employe called police. The officer on the beat called Weiner and an assistant when he noted two Negroes at the counter. The arest was made when the students refused to leave. One of them said he had bought an umbrella in the store and did not understand why he could not sit at the lunch counter.

At the Greyhound Bus station a driver sitting in a nearby booth telephoned police that "several colored people were sitting at the lunch counter."

Kress' manager telephoned police when Negroes continued to sit at a counter in his store. The students had been told they could be served at another counter where, "by custom," Negroes ate.

The Justice Department took the position that the court does not need to decide the broad constitutional issue presented by the NAACP. The cases, according to U. S. Solicitor General Archibald Cox, can be disposed of on much narrower constitutional grounds.

In the first place, the government's brief said, there is no evidence that the students were disturbing the peace. The brief also claimed that the state law on this subject is so vague that it fails to give fair notice as to the kind of conduct forbidden.

Either of these contingents, if accepted, would throw out the convictions as unconstitutional.

The government argued further that the state itself was actually imposing the segregation, rather than enforcing it on behalf of an owner or manager. The brief said the state determined that the elements of a disturbance are automatically present whenever there is racial integration in public places.

Apart from this, the government said that at least the bus station case is governed by last term's decision outlawing segregation in interstate bus station restaurants as a violation of the Interstate Commerce Act. The brief said one does not need to be a bus passenger to benefit from the act's protection.

Monarch Still Rules In Yemen

ROME (AP)—The ailing Imam Ahmed is still ruling Yemen, a spokesman for Crown Prince Saif al Islam al Badr Mohamed said Saturday. And the crown prince, he added, is stilll going to a doctor in Rome daily for treatment of an ear ailment.

The spokesman said radio reports that the 68-year-old monarch abdicated Friday in favor of the son were erroneous. As he explained the situation:

"It all happened because the imam, in a speech reported by the radio (of San'a, the little kingdom's capital), called on his subjects to give the crown prince their loyalty and support as usual.

"This apparently was misunderstood or misinterpreted outside the country as indicating that the imam was turning over the throne to his son.

olon Offers ew School id Proposal

ASHINGTON (AP) — A new roach to federal aid to eduon designed to lessen the emoal impact of the issue and ar the way for congressional on next year was proposed urday.

n effect, the plan would shift emphasis from helping school ldren to helping taxpayers.

was offered by Rep. Clevebd M. Bailey, D-W.Va.

nstead of allocating federal ds on the basis of the number school children in a state, as past bills, Bailey would grant h state a sum equal to 2 per nt of its expenditures on public ucation.

The money would go directly o a state's educational funds d be distributed through the gular channels for use as the al school authorities decide.

Bailey thinks his plan would minate at least two of the conoversial issues that have helped feat all past school bills: Local . federal control, and public vs. ivate school aid, with its corolry, aid for church schools.

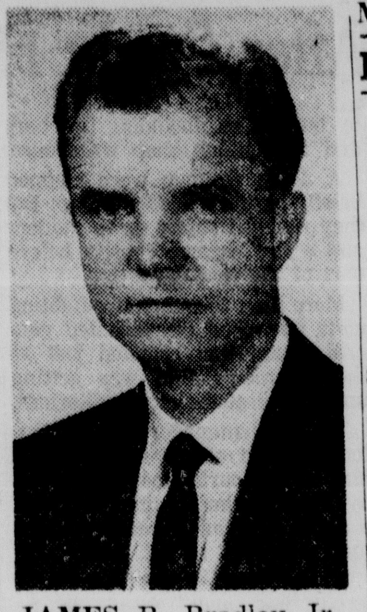
He outlined the plan in a ress edition of the Congressional ecord, along with an explanaon of what he hoped it would ccomplish.

"I have come to the conclusion at what we are really trying do is use the broader federal x base to help state and local axpayers finance the cost of improved education," he said.

"When we look at the proposition from this standpoint we find that every citizen is a taxpayer whether he sends his children to public or private schools," he said. "Since we intend to encourage and stimulate education in all the states, and since there are pockets of need in every state, we would assist taxpayers in efery state."

In addition to the 2 per cent allocation to each state, Bailey would give poorer states a bonus based on the percentage their per capita income falls below the national average. Hewouldalsoprovide for cutting the federal allotment to any state that cuts the amount of its own school expenditures.

Bailey's program would be far less costly than the one originally set up by the administration this year and subsequently buried in the House Rules Committee.



JAMES B. Bradley Jr., certified public accountant of Monroe, will be guest lecturer at the Business Management Institute on October 17 at Northeast Louisiana State College. He will discuss advertising: ethics, research, appeals, copy, selecting the medium, and testing effectiveness.

BY WESTERN ALLIES

Crucial Berlin Decisions Ahead

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Western Allies wil lbe asking themselves some searching and crucial questions on the Berlin crisis in the next few weeks.

In strategy talks tentatively scheduled to begin Thursday in London, the United States, Britain, France and West Germany are expected to consider:

How much "give" there must be in the Soviet position before the West would be willing to start negotiations. And on what specific points must this come.

Which points do the Western powers themselves consider might ultimately be negotiable. And which are absolute and beyond discussion.

In the view of officials here the West has operated all these months with a "Berlin position" worked out only in very general terms.

This has been partly because of strategy differences among the Allies. Partly also it is because West Germany has been going through national elections and still will not have a new government for a week or more.

The purpose of recent U.S. talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko was to try to see what kind of Berlin settlement the Kremlin has in mind.

But the talks made little progress in that direction. Gromyko stuck to what in diplomacy, as in any kind of horse trading, is called the "first bargaining position." He showed no clear glimpses of any position that the Russians could fall back on.

Gromyko proposed:

Removal of U.S., British and French troops from West Berlin except for "token forces" and placing "token" Russian troops alongside them in the city. East Berlin meanwhile would remain exclusively Communist controlled.

Removal of nuclear weapons from West Germany, East Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia, which U.S. experts feel would strike at the "defense of depth" of the Western alliance. This would leave the West a narrower military foothold in Europe but would not affect the depth of Communist force.

Severing political ties between West Berlin and West Germany while leaving East Berlin the capital of Communist East Germany.

Thus the essence of the Soviet position still is to end Western control of West Berlin, to hit at the heart of the NATO alliance and thereby strengthen Russia's position in Europe.

To a major extent U.S. officials believe all the recent talk about Allied access to Berlin is still icing on the cake. Access is only meaningful to preserve the Western presence in West Berlin, and Russia is still challenging this very presence.

U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson is returning to Moscow Tuesday to continue the "sounding out" process where the recent Gromyko talk left off. But officials here believe that before Thompson can make the Kremlin be more specific he must be armed with a more specific West position himself.

This does not mean Thompson will negotiate with the Kremlin. His talks will still be only exploratory. Nor does it mean the Allies in the next few weeks must commit themselves to final position.

But as one official put it, "we can't discuss it in a vacuum."

Negro Suspects In Thefts Held; One Is Juvenile

The theft of two cars and a radio were cleared yesterday with the arrest of two Negro youths by Monroe police.

Two counts of automobile theft and one charge of radio theft will be filed against 19-year-old Leroy Lumpkin of Columbia in Monroe. His 14-year-old Negro companion will also be charged on the automobile counts and be tried in juvenile court.

Lumpkin, who was placed in the parish jail, will face trial in fourth district court.

According to Chief James C. Kelly Jr., a 1954 model automobile reported stolen from Anderson's Used Car Lot at 1318 DeSiard St. was recovered yesterday. The vehicle was found in Richland Parish by the Monroe department. The Negroes were booked as suspects in the theft.

The Friday morning theft of a 1957 model car from Gabby's Used Car Lot at 413 North Second St. was solved with recovery of the car in Columbia by the sheriff's office there. Once again, the pair was held as suspects.

Lumpkin will also be charged with theft of a radio valued at $23 reported stolen Sept. 13 from Edgar Theus, Negro of 1120 Washington St. The instrument was also recovered.

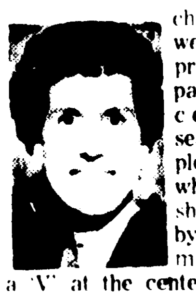
SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer



Dear Mrs. Farmer,

I have purchased diagonal weave wool and propose to use a pattern with a center front seam. Will you please advise me whether or not I should make this by cutting the material to form a "V" at the center front?"

Mrs. K.C.

Dear Mrs. K.C.

If your fabric is actually woven with a diagonal weave, the diagonal lines must all run in one direction. It is impossible to cut your garment to form a "V" as you asked, unless you would use the wrong side of the fabric for one half of the cress.

Remember that when diagonal woven fabric is cut on the bias, it forms straight horizontal lines, which makes a very attractive contrasting binding. It is the self trim used in an unusual way that makes plaids and diagonals so attractive.

FABRIC ROSES

"Dear Mrs. Farmer,

Would you please send me instructions on how to make the fabric roses used on dresses? This is an expensive looking detail which seems to give the dress a custom made look."

Mrs. G.M.C.

Dear Mrs. G.M.C.

These fabric roses are made with a bias fold of fabric. Cut a strip of bias approximately 8 to 10 inches long and about 7 inches wide. Fold the bias strip and machine stitch with a long stitch, beginning 3 inches from the fold and tapering to about ½ inch from the fold. The width of the bias fold as well as the length of the bias strip will determine the size of the finished rose. For a smaller rose, stitch closer to the fold and make a shorter bias strip.

After you have completed the first row of stitching, make a second row of machine stitching about ¼ inch above the first row.

From the wrong side of your bias fold, pull the two bobbin threads together, until the fold is eased up, or slightly gathered. Now beginning with the narrow end, which will form the center of the rose, gradually wind the bias fold around, working from the center out.

You will notice the appearance of a rose forming. After you have the desired size, stitch the raw edges of the bias fold together on the base of the rose. These stitches will be made by hand and on the base of the rose and will keep the rose in shape. This will take a little practice, but is fun to do.

Arson Probed After Costly Fire In N.O.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Fire marshals sought evidence of possible arson Saturday in the debris of an ancient French Quarter hotel swept by a fire that spread to a bank building, causing $200,000 damage and injuring five firemen.

The blaze started Friday night in the Silver Dollar Hotel and quickly jumped to a Whitney National Bank branch. Authorities said all 15 persons in the hotel at the time apparently evacuated safely.

Most of the four-story hotel was destroyed. The fourth floor of the bank was heavily damaged. Smoke and water damaged nearby businesses, including two bars and an antique shop warehouse.

A dozen firemen were trapped briefly on the bank's roof top. But they reached safety down ladders and a fire escape, shortly before part of the roof caved in.

More than 30 major fire-fighting units answered the repeated general alarm that sounded just as the Firemen's Ball was getting under way at the city auditorium.

The hotel manager said the automatic fire alarm system woke him in his fourth floor room. But by the time he got into the hall, a night clerk had already warned most roomers to get out.

Of the firemen hurt, two suffered first and second degree burns and two others were overcome by smoke. Some spectators were cut by glass from windows that shattered in the heat.

Firemen had answered a call at the hotel earlier in the day and found a mattress ablaze. One man was arrested in connection with that fire.

Fire Chief Howard Dey said the hotel fire apparently started on the third floor stairway. He said there were reports of scattered waste paper in the hallways before the blaze.

Dey said it was the worst fire in New Orleans since last December when a half-million dollar blaze destroyed Gluck's Restaurant and other shops around the corner.

BY WESTERN ALLIES

Crucial Berlin Decisions Ahead

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Western Allies wil lbe asking themselves some searching and crucial questions on the Berlin crisis in the next few weeks.

In strategy talks tentatively scheduled to begin Thursday in London, the United States, Britain, France and West Germany are expected to consider:

How much "give" there must be in the Soviet position before the West would be willing to start negotiations. And on what specific points must this come.

Which points do the Western powers themselves consider might ultimately be negotiable. And which are absolute and beyond discussion.

In the view of officials here, the West has operated all these months with a "Berlin position" worked out only in very general terms.

This has been partly because of strategy differences among the Allies. Partly also it is because West Germany has been going through national elections and still will not have a new government for a week or more.

The purpose of recent U. S. talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko was to try to see what kind of Berlin settlement the Kremlin has in mind.

But the talks made little progress in that direction. Gromyko stuck to what in diplomacy, as in any kind of horse trading, is called the "first bargaining position." He showed no clear glimpses of any position that the Russians could fall back on.

Gromyko proposed:

Removal of U. S., British and French troops from West Berlin except for "token forces" and placing "token" Russian troops alongside them in the city. East Berlin, meanwhile, would remain exclusively Communist controlled.

Removal of nuclear weapons from West Germany, East Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia, which U.S. experts feel would strike at the "defense of depth" of the Western alliance. This would leave the West a narrower military foothold in Europe but would not affect the depth of Communist forces.

Severing political ties between West Berlin and West Germany while leaving East Berlin the capital" of Communist East Germany.

Thus, the essence of the Soviet position still is to end Western control of West Berlin, to hit at the heart of the NATO alliance and thereby strengthen Russia's position in Europe.

To a major extent, U. S. officials believe, all the recent talk about Allied "access" to Berlin is still icing on the cake. Access is only meaningful to preserve the Western "presence" in West Berlin, and Russia is still challenging this very presence.

U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson is returning to Moscow Tuesday to continue the "sounding out" process where the recent Gromyko talks left off. But officials here believe that before Thompson can make the Kremlin be more specific, he must be armed with a more specific Western position himself.

This does not mean Thompson will "negotiate" with the Kremlin—his talks will still be only "exploratory." Nor does it mean the Allies in the next few weeks must commit themselves to final positions.

But as one official put it," "we can't discuss it in a vacuum."

Negro Suspects In Thefts Held; One Is Juvenile

The thefts of two cars and a radio were cleared yesterday with the arrest of two Negro youths by Monroe police.

Two counts of automobile theft and one charge of radio theft will be filed against 19-year-old Leroy Lumpkin of Columbia in Monroe. His 14-year-old Negro companion will also be charged on the automobile counts and be tried in juvenile court.

Lumpkin, who was placed in the parish jail, will face trial in fourth district court.

According to Chief James C. Kelly Jr., a 1954 model automobile reported stolen from Anderson's Used Car Lot at 1318 DeSiard St. was recovered yesterday. The vehicle was found in Richland Parish by the Monroe department. The Negroes were booked as suspects in the theft.

The Friday morning theft of a 1957 model car from Gabby's Used Car Lot at 413 North Second St. was solved with recovery of the car in Columbia by the sheriff's office there. Once again, the pair was held as suspects.

Lumpkin will also be charged with theft of a radio valued at $23 reported stolen Sept. 13 from Edgar Theus, Negro of 1120 Washington St. The instrument was also recovered.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

"Dear Mrs. Farmer,

"I have purchased diagonal weave wool and propose to use a pattern with a center front seam. Will you please advise me whether or not I should make this by cutting the material to form a 'V' at the center front?"

Mrs. K.C.

Dear Mrs. K.C.:

If your fabirc is actually woven with a diagonal weave, the diagonal lines must all run in one direction. It is impossible to cut your garment to form a "V" as you asked, unless you would use the wrong side of the fabric for one half of the cress.

Remember that when diagonal woven fabric is cut on the bias, it forms straight horizontal lines, which makes a very attractive contrasting binding. It is the self trim used in an unusual way that makes plaids and diagonals so attractive.

FABRIC ROSES

"Dear Mrs. Farmer,

"Would you please send me instructions on how to make the fabric roses used on dresses? This is an expensive looking detail which seems to give the dress a custom made look."

Mrs. G.M.C.

Dear Mrs. G.M.C.:

These fabric roses are made with a bias fold of fabric. Cut a strip of bias approximately 8 to 10 inches long and about 7 inches wide. Fold the bias strip and machine stitch with a long stitch, beginning 3 inches from the fold and tapering to about ½ inch from the fold. The width of the bias fold as well as the length of the bias strip will determine the size of the finished rose. For a smaller rose, stitch closer to the fold and make a shorter bias strip.

After you have completed the first row of stitching, make a second row of machine stitching about ¼ inch above the first row.

From the wrong side of your bias fold, pull the two bobbin threads together, until the fold is eased up, or slightly gathered. Now beginning with the narrow end, which will form the center of the rose, gradually wind the bias fold around, working from the center out.

You will notice the appearance of a rose forming. After you have the desired size, stitch the raw edges of the bias fold together on the base of the rose. These stitches will be made by hand and on the base of the rose and will keep the rose in shape. This will take a little practice, but is fun to do.

SEWING TIPS

Dear Fans:

I'm delighted with the hundreds of "sewing tips" you readers have already sent me. Keep them coming, but they will have to be unique and unusual to be considered a winner of a Tailor Trix Pressing Board. Your helpful "tips" will be shared and appreciated by our many readers.

This Weeks Winner of the Tailor Trix Board is Mrs. Betty Parent, Kissimmee, Florida.

"Sewing machine needles should be kept in a small bottle to which a drop of oil has been added. This will keep the needles from becoming rusted. Run the meedle through a piece of blotting paper before using on the machine. this little tip is very helpful, especially in a southern climate.

YOUR SEWING GLOSSARY: Matelasse: This is a fabric that is enjoying quite a comeback in dressy clothes. It has a raised design which is woven in the fabric.

Please send your questions and suggestions to Sew Simple, in care of Monroe Morning World.

Arson Probed After Costly Fire In N.O.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Fire marshals sought evidence of possible arson Saturday in the debris of an ancient French Quarter hotel swept by a fire that spread to a bank building, causing $200,000 damage and injuring five firemen.

The blaze started Friday night in the Silver Dollar Hotel and quickly jumped to a Whitney National Bank branch. Authorities said all 15 persons in the hotel at the time apparently evacuated safely.

Most of the four-story hotel was destroyed. The fourth floor of the bank was heavily damaged. Smoke and water damaged nearby businesses, including two bars and an antique shop warehouse.

A dozen firemen were trapped briefly on the bank's roof top. But they reached safety down ladders and a fire escape, shortly before part of the roof caved in.

More than 30 major fire-fighting units answered the repeated general alarm that sounded just as the Firemen's Ball was getting under way at the city auditorium.

The hotel manager said the automatic fire alarm system woke him in his fourth floor room. But by the time he got into the hall, a night clerk had already warned most roomers to get out.

Of the firemen hurt, two suffered first and second degree burns and two others were overcome by smoke. Some spectators were cut by glass from windows that shattered in the heat.

Firemen had answered a call at the hotel earlier in the day and found a mattress ablaze. One man was arrested in connection with that fire.

Fire Chief Howard Dey said the hotel fire apparently started on the third floor stairway. He said there were reports of scattered waste paper in the hallways before the blaze.

Dey said it was the worst fire in New Orleans since last December when a half-million dollar blaze destroyed Gluck's Restaurant and other shops around the corner.

TO LURE THEATER FANS

Broadway Turning To New Gimmicks

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)— Broadway is trying some new boxoffice gimmicks to lure economy-minded theater fans.

One production is running a series of half-price performances prior to official opening. A recent arrival is including a cut-rate coupon in newspaper advertising; and two fresh projects have put a $1 tag on some seats at all performances.

The moves reflect growing concern over smash-or-flop conditions on theater row.

The halfprice coupon is being tested by "Blood, Sweat and Stanley Poole," a comedy starring Darren McGavin which opened last week at the Morosco to mixed notices.

"We have an audience show," said Ralph Fields, a management spokesman, "and we're going to prove it."

The coupon is a speeded-up variation of the "twofer" method, widely used in the past to stimulate waning ticket sales. Fields said that it was cheaper and easier to have the exchange slip appear in newspapers than have pasteboards printed for distribution in large business offices and industrial plants.

Saint Subber, producer of "Look WE've Come Through," said local previews at cut prices would be given Oct. 18-24 in lieu of out-of-town tryout. The official debut takes place at the Hudson Oct. 25.

Subber believes he has found a way of appeasing theatergoers who complain of high prices.

"The gamble you take," he said "is that you will have to form your own opinion of the play before reading the critics' notices. But the experience may well be worth it."

The $1 seats are being made available for "The Caretaker," a drama which opened to high critical praise last week at the Lyceum, and "Kean," a musical that gets here Nov. 2.

A representative of "The Caretaker" said that "better than expected" response was evident, with one out of every six buyers at the boxoffice asking for the low-priced second balcony seats.

"Kean," which stars Alfred Drake, will have 33 seats available at the low price at each performance, compared with 282 at "The Caretaker."

As the variations are being tried by new season arrivals, four long-run holdovers are using standard "twofers" — "A Far Country," "Fiorello!" "Irma La Douce" and "My Fair Lady."

Boxoffice gimmicks, the producers agree, are better audience boosters than a simple across-the-board cut in prices.

"Everybody suspects a cheap show is no good," one explains, "but everybody likes a bargain offer."

Their history with the Monroe Morning World and Monroe News-Star goes back 24 years when Otis started as mail representative in Catahoula, Concordia, Tensas and part of Franklin Parish.

The duties of correspondent or the Monroe newspapers were soon added to Otis' chores. Presently, 'Otis corresponds for the newspapers at Monroe, handles the papers for the circulation department in Winnsboro and the motor mail routes out of Winnsboro, and is also local news reporter for Radio Station KMAR.

Mrs. Hassell handled the entire territory while I was in military service during World War II. She is now working as correspondent also, is society editor of the local weekly, the Franklin Sun, is assistant Winnsboro city clerk, and delivers a motor - mail route every Sunday," Otis said.

Their only child, Edith Jean, now 20, has never known anything but newspaper work. Awarded a $600 Louisiana Press Association Journalism scholarship to Louisiana State University by the [illegible] prize - winning Franklin Sun, she is now starting her third year at LSU. She works as the third member of Otis "family news bureau" while at home during the summers, and while in high school she helped with the news and paper delivery.

"The first big word and the most impressive word that I learned as a child was the word 'journalism.' It is something as essential to me as the air I breath and the food I eat," according to Edith Jean, who naturally is caught up in journalistic endeavors at Baton Rouge.

During the past two summers, Otis assigned his daughter such stories as court, city council and police jury meetings. She accompanied her father on an aerial picture taking excursion of the Bayou Macon cut-off project.

According to Winnsboro Mayor Robert F. Mulhearn, Otis "deserves a great deal of praise for the efficiency and courtesy with which he performs his job. His news coverage of people and events here in Winnsboro and in Franklin Parish is excellent.

"Winnsboro is indeed proud to have Otis serve and represent you in this Parish. He is a good citizen and an asset to both your company and to us."

News-Star — World Executive Editor Jack Gates feels this way: "... accuracy, speed, thoroughness and dependability are trademarks of this correspondent. A man who knows what is news and how to get it — we never have to worry about the Franklin Parish news — it'll come through with Otis on the job."

And the state editor might add that he's a helpful guy to have around when you're breaking in on a new job, as this writer did not long ago . . . someone who knows the ropes and can give a little direction to the paths of journalism when it comes to covering the 'Special' news of the area.

Now, Otis, about next month's pay check.

Boar Marking

WINNFIELD (Special) — That was a boar marking contest at Winnfield "Uncle Earl" thought it up.

According to Eck H. Bozeman, president of the Winn Parish Fair and Rodeo Association, "Several years ago, the late Gov. Earl K. Long suggested that we stage a wild boar marking contest. He was perhaps one of the most ardent enthusiasts of the sport. To him there was no other sport that 'could equal this for sheer danger."

The contest is one in which a wild Winn Parish boar hog, a dangerous critter by any standards, is turned loose in an arena. A contestant with the aid of a dog, corners the animal and the man attempts to tie the hog and carry him to a stake, going through the motions of marking the animal. Object is to do it faster than the other contestants.

Bozeman said, "As one man put it, he was sure glad that a use had been found for those plagued piney woods rooters. I think now that within the next years to come both the price of Winn Parish piney woods boars and Catahoula Curs are going up."

This Old House . . .

JONESBORO (Special) — Mrs. Rowena Lowrey tells of an interesting visit:

"As we neared the home of Mrs. Charlie Shackleford, located about two and one-half miles southeast of Jonesboro, we saw that one more house built in the "Long ago" still existed. We were invited to go through the entire house, with its long front porch, hall with one large room and a smaller side room on either side at the end of the hall a spacious kitchen, a small porch, and just outside, an old fashioned "bored well" with some mighty good cold water therein.

"The interesting history of the house is that Mr. Shackleford, now deceased, cut the trees off his place, sawed the boards at a little water mill on his place and built the house. We also viewed the pond that provided the power for the mill, and saw the site where an old grist mill, used to grind corn for grits and bread once stood.

"On the other side of the house we were shown a 1913 model Flanders car. The story goes that shortly after Mr. Shackleford bought the car, something happened to it and he parked it against a sapling and never moved it. In fact the sapling grew around part of it and is still there."

Jury Hears Scarbeck's Statements

WASHINGTON (AP) — A statement signed by Irvin C. Scarbeck, in which he admitted giving embassy documents to Polish Communist agents, was read to the jury Saturday after a week-long fight by the defense to have it excluded.

U.S. Dist. Judge Leonard Walsh ruled at the start of the unusual Saturday session that the statement of the former American diplomat was proper evidence, as well as others he gave later to the FBI. The defense had argued they were obtained by extreme mental coercion and so should be excluded.

Without the statement in evidence, the government's case against Scarbeck might well have collapsed. The defense has contended that without it the government could not even prove an offense was committed. Scarbeck heard the ruling without apparent emotion.

Scarbeck, 41, stocky and bespectacled, is charged with slipping to Polish agents secret papers from the embassy in Warsaw where he worked as second secretary. Testimony has been that the agents surprised him in bed with his young Polish mistress, took photographs and threatened to expose him.

The jury, which had been excused during the long argument over whether the statements were proper evidence, was recalled immediately after Walsh's ruling and the trial got going again. For the past three days the jury had been locked in courthouse quarters to prevent its being influenced by news reports of the hearing.

Prosecutor Paul Vincent recalled Kenneth W. Knauf, State Department security agent who questioned Scarbeck for 10 hours on June 5 in Frankfurt, Germany, and got the first signed statement. With the jury listening this time, Knauf repeated his account of what Scarbeck told him.

Soviets Set For Opening Of Congress

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet press, TV and radio are pouring out thousands of words to emphasize that the Soviet Communist party's 22nd Congress opening Tuesday is important to the welfare of the Russians and the world.

Public speakers dwell on the same theme in a campaign that built up pressure this week.

Newspapers daily list one or two foreign delegations coming to the congress, at which a 20-year program of the Soviet party—the first outlined in detail in advance since 1919—will be up for examination.

The program is designed to build the "base" for communism. The U.S.S.R. is now theoretically engaged in socialism, rather than the Communist end product.

As more foreign delegates arrived, Premier Khrushchev met Saturday with the party central committee. The Soviet news agency Tass said the committee unanimously approved the program to be submitted to the congress.

The program calls for introduction of free medical care, rent, education, utilities, local transportation and factory lunches. But Khrushchev has warned that increased military spending in a time of world crisis may force deferment of some of these goals.

The program pledges the Soviet Union will overhaul the United States in per capita production, but calls for peaceful cooperation with capitalist nations.

The hotels are jammed with 4,500 delegates and foreign visitors. In many fields, such as building and home repairs, all work not directly connected with the congress has come to a halt. Painters, electricians and others left other jobs to work on facilities for the congress.

Sidewalk Forms Are Set On Underpass Job

All sidewalk forms are set on the west side of the Plum Street underpass, and Bentz and Elmore Contractors expect to start pouring a traffic lane cement slab within six days.

One week later, the other traffic lane on the Jackson Street side of the underpass will be poured.

The excavation is complete on both sides of the underpass.

Street Commissioner W. D. H. Rodriguez said yesterday that steps are being taken to insure that water seepage under the roadways will not cause any damage at future dates.

The contractors are putting "pervious materials" under the concrete slabs, so that underground water will drain to a pump at the low point of the underpass and be pumped out.

The underpass when completed will provide an open link between the east and west sections of south Monroe. At present, several streets are crossed by railroad tracks. Traffic frequently is blocked by passing trains.

U.S. Report Says Private Farms Best

WASHINGTON (AP) — Private enterprise type farms in both Russia and the United States far outproduce Communist-espoused collective farms, an Agriculture Department report says.

It noted, however, that practically the only remnants of private agriculture left in the Soviet Union are small garden plots and a few head of livestock which farm families on collective or state farms are permitted to keep. The report said such farming accounts for only about 3 to 5 per cent of the total land sown, but for a much larger proportion of the livestock.

Yet, the department said, private Soviet production in 1959—the last year for which adequate information is available-accounted for 47 per cent of the Soviet Union's meat, 49 per cent of its milk, 82 per cent of its eggs, half its vegetables and 65 per cent of its potatoes.

"This intensive private farming linked with a limited free retail market is nearby cities makes a significant contribution to the national food supply, as well to the individual farmer's income," the report said.

To some extent, it added, this highly productive private farming in the Soviet Union offsets the relatively low productivity of the collective-farm economy.

The department said American agriculture produces approximately 60 per cent more annually than does Soviet agriculture.

To accomplish this superiority of production, it added, American agriculture employs only about 7.5 million workers or less than 10 per cent of the total work force. Soviet agriculture employs about 48 million workers or about 45 per cent of its work force.

BY LEGISLATIVE PROBERS

Official Named Theft Ring Head

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—A legislative committee Saturday named State Forestry Commission official Jarman Smith as the head of an 8-man theft ring and urged the men be prosecuted.

The ring operated for 10 years mainly because of the "high position" held by Smith, the powerful legislative investigating committee said. Smith is head of the commission's fire control department.

The committee urged a revision of the commission and also suggested that the persons involved be tried and prosecuted by Dist. Atty. Bill Waller.

The results of the committee's three - month investigation were made public in a final report to the governor. Former State Forester C. B. Marlin aided in the probe which began after Jackson police arrested a commission employe and found stolen property in his home.

Others named by the committee were John Currie, supervisor of shops; Paul Maddox, Ed Hardware, James Stepp, Bobby Arrington and Homer Kyers, mechanics, and Jakie Love, janitor.

"All of the committee's evidence points to the fact that the ring's effectiveness depended upon the high position in the fire control department of the ring leader," the committee said, "whose function it was to assist in the determination of which vehicles were to be sold and who further attended meetings of the purchase and sales committee to assist the committee in awarding bids."

The report said the men stripped parts from vehicles and then sold them to themselves under false names. They declared the parts surplus and replaced them later at the commission's expense.

The eight men named included all but two of the fire control department's employes.

State Land Commissioner Bob Graham was also implicated. He was charged with purchasing three vehicles under another name. But he told the committee the vehicles were brought for use in his department and that he used another name because he wasn't sure if he had the right to bid on surplus property.

The committee suggested that the land commissioner and the agricultural commissioner be removed from the Forestry Commission as ex-officio members to devote more time to their departments.

It said improper supervision led to the theft ring.

Dr. Adams Named To LSU Position

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Dr. Leonard C. Adams has been named professor and head of the Louisiana State University department of electrical engineering.

Adams, who has been director of the engineering experiment station at Clemson (S.C.) College, succeeds professor Mitchel B. Voorhies, who requested that he be relieved of administrative responsibilities in order to devote full time to teaching. Voorhies plans to retire next year.

Adams has been a member of the Clemson faculty since 1946, becoming full professor in 1958.

Dialect Poses Problems For Comedy Actor

NEW YORK (AP) — When a dialect problem popped up in preparation of "The Complaisant Lover" for Broadway, producer Irene Mayer Selznick found the solution at home.

The comedy calls for a valet to speak some Dutch and to articulate English with a heavy accent. Unable to find a player with that particular skill, Mrs. Selznick and director Glen Byam Shaw settled for an American actor.

Morris Given 20-Year Term

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — A district court jury sentenced Mississippi escaped convict Dale (Cowboy)Morris, 38, Friday night to [illegible] years in prison for assault with intent to kill.

The jury deliberated for nearly three hours before announcing its verdict.

Morris was charged with shooting at a Tulsa detective April 23 and hitting his female companion. He was serving a 12-year sentence in Mississippi prison when he escaped.

Mississippi has indicated it would like to have him back. Gov. Ross Barnett called shortly after Morris was arrested and offered to send for him immediately.

IN CRITICIZING JFK

GOP Is Looking To Ike For Cue

WASHINGTON (AP) —Republicans apparently are looking to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower for their cue on how far to go in criticizing President Kennedy's foreign policy operations.

At forthcoming appearances in New York and New Jersey Eisenhower will have additional opportunities to discuss international as well as domestic issues. What he says will be noted closely by other Republicans.

With former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the 1960 GOP presidential nominee, more or less sidelined by his decision to seek the governorship of California, Eisenhower has assumed greater responsibility as a party spokesman than he exercised previously.

The former president rocked the Kennedy administration with a speech last month in which he said he was "sorely distressed. Troubled. Concerned" with the way the President and his advisers handled the Cuba and Laos crises.

This encouraged GOP National Chairman William S. Miller to step up his criticisms in which he has equated Kennedy's handling of international matters with "appeasement."

Kennedy took notice of this at Wednesday's news conference when he challenged Republicans to make "constructive suggestions for alternative courses of action, and not merely generalized statements which throw very little light on very complicated and dangerous matters."

Miller replied that the Republicans were making such suggestions. He listed several general areas where he said the President ought to take "firm action." He wound up by advising Kennedy to get rid of several key advisers, including his brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Miller has made it clear that he intends to continue to flail away at the President in an extensive speaking tour he has mapped for himself.

But administration leaders don't lose much sleep over attacks made on them by the chairman of a political committee. They believe such oratory will be discounted as partisan.

But, in their view, Eisenhower constitutes a different problem. He speaks with the experience of eight years in the presidency. He has a reputation of not having been particularly partisan as the chief executive. And his popularity with the people seems as great as it was when he was in the White House.

If Eisenhower comes up with further criticisms of Kennedy in the foreign policy field, Democrats think their impact cannot be dismissed lightly. They are hoping the former president will accept the olive branch Kennedy has offered by refusing to fire back publicly at his predecessor.

Commemorative Art Institute Scheduled Here

The American Institute of Commemorative Art, a national organization, will hold its fall meeting in Monroe October 20-23 at the Penn Resort Hotel.

Miss Nona Martin of Monroe is assisting with the program for the conference. Charles M. Joyner, Birmingham, is the program chairman.

Officers are George C. Shaw, president, Logan, Ohio, Joyner, vice-president, Daniel Ardeline, secretary-treasurer, West Long Branch, N. J., and William Henry Deacy, executive director, New York City.

Besides the meeting in Monroe, the group plans a trip to Natchez and a boat trip on the Mississippi River to New Orleans.

At present, the institute is working on two larger memorials in the nation—the Boy Scout Fountain in Washington, D. C. and the Battle of White Plains Monument in White Plains, N. Y.

ASC Backs Up On Rice Allotmens

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP)—Louisiana's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee withdrew its recommendation that 1962 rice allotments be established on a producer basis in southwest Louisiana.

Executive Director C. E. Slack said Friday the committee issued a statement that its primary reason for making the recommendation to the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture was "to focus the attention of rice farmers and the Department of Agriculture on the need for some form of protection for rice tenant operators."

The state committee on Oct. 10 reviewed proceedings of a Crowley hearing along with other information available.

The Crowley hearing Oct. 3 drew strong protests from rice industry spokesmen, who charged there was an attempt by north Louisiana rice growers to kidnap acreage allotments by enticing away tenants.

The ASC committee statement said:

"It was apparent to the committee that the predominant feeling was for continuation of rice acreage allotments on a farm basis together with effective protection to tenant operators.

"The state committee now feels that the public hearing has accomplished the desired end and that the U.S. Department of Agriculture and rice producers are both well aware of the problems in administering the rice allotment program and sentiment is now almost unanimous in favor of effective tenant protection.

"The state committee, in withdrawing its recommendation that rice allotments be established on a producer basis has requested the secretary of agriculture to provide that 1962 allotments be established on a farm basic.

"It also asked him to take the necessary steps to provide for the protection tenants either though regulations or appropriate proposals to Congress for legislative remedy if needed.

"Rice allotments for 1962 will be established on a producer basis for northeast Louisiana and parishes east of the Atchafalaya River as has been done since 1957."

Children Triumphant Over Silence

In the hubbub of October's noisy, talkative school children, where teachers are diligently trying for silence, there is a school in Monroe where silence is failure.

There, a word with lots of volume is a triumph, and a child's voice in speech, a milestone. It is called the School for Hard of Hearing Children.

Seven students from this area ranging in age from five to eight years, enrolled in September under the tutelage of Mrs. George G. Johnston. The school is located on South Grand in the Ouachita Parish Junior High building, under the principalship of Armand Lewis.

VARIATIONS

Of the seven students, only one has previously attended a special school. Four of the others attended public schools for a time. Due to this condition and the varied ages of the children, the teacher can handle no more than eight students.

Since a child seldom has complete loss of hearing, the problems of the hard of hearing child require that his total hearing be utilized. To compensate for his deficit, he is taught to sharpen his other senses.

Complicated memory exercises are introduced even to the very young. Touch, the feel of a rhythm, or the vibration of voice, is used. But most important is the use of sight.

Communication is taught as lip reading. Gestures are not permitted. The teacher must be very careful that she does not use her own hands in the sometimes frustrating job of trying to explain without sound.

Often as many as four or five different presentations are tried, even repeated the next day before the child understands, if ever.

HEADSETS

Each child's desk is equipped with headsets which are connected to an auditory training unit. Music and speech are so magnified that most of the students can hear the true speech sounds. Up to this point some have been imitating speech they saw without ever having heard the actual sound. Thus, their speech is often incoherent.

Of special importance will be the boom microphone now on order which will permit the children to hear the sound of their own voices and improve their inaccuracies. Dr. Christian Ulrich is constructing a special mirror on rollers so that the children may watch their lips form the sounds.

In this school, absolute concentration upon the spoken word is essential, devoid of any outside interference. Double doors open onto the street, and the noise of the street and bridge builders was so evident, the padded headsets of the children so hot, an air conditioner was installed so the room could be closed off.

To silence floor noises, a furniture store donated a square carpet on which to place the desks.

RESEMBLES

Other than the mechanical appurtenances, the room resembles an ordinary class room. The teacher speaks in a normal voice without exaggeration, and only the most observant would notice how closely the children watch her lips.

She sits in a special chair equipped with rollers so that she may move among them and remain at their eye level.

Students are asked to do routine tasks such as erase the black board or close the door. Often the request must be repeated several times, but understanding brings great feeling of accomplishment.

At recess and lunch time the students mingle with other children their age, and show no reticence or timidity.

The schedule tacked to the bulletin board lists such things as arithmetic, language development, reading readiness, weather and daily news, along with auditory training and development sounds. Hand writing is displayed with even the five year olds showing fine examples.

How difficult will it be for the hard of hearing child to adjust?

The problems are many, but with good luck a child may be prepared to enter the public schools around the fifth or sixth grade.

PURPOSE

Mrs. Johnston, the teacher, explained the purpose of the school as preparatory. The child must be taught to communicate and to understand others, to accept his lack of hearing and to mold his life and actions around the utilization of what hearing he has.

The need for such a school in this area has been studied and discussed by school and civic leaders for over three years. The Monroe Junior Charity League presented a variety show last year with the major part of the profit designated toward starting a school in conjunction with school officials.

Since the start of the school this year, the League has donated a boom microphone, a motion picture projector, an air conditioner, and educational toys. Miss Mary Anita Lennon of the League is painting wall murals of storybook characters to brighten the room.

Mrs. Christian Ulrich, chairman of the project, said the organization plans to continue its support.

Delay in starting the school was caused by the shortage of qualified teachers in this field. W. W. Ward, superintendent of Ouachita Parish Schools engaged Mrs. George G. Johnston of College Station, Texas, to teach the class.

Mrs. Johnston studied at Texas Women's University and Pilot School for the Deaf in Dallas. Before coming to Monroe, she taught speech and hearing therapy in the public schools at College Station, Texas, and at the Brazos Valley Therapy Center in Bryan, Texas.

The establishment and supervision of the school are under the direction of Mrs. Tina Clark, supervisor of special education in Ouachita Parish.

Avoiding $64,000 Mistake

By BARBARA BUNDSCHU
United Press International

Educators, business men and civic authorities are working together in many cities in an effort to keep two and a half million youngsters from making a $64,000 mistake.

That is the number of youngsters now in high school who may be expected, on the basis of past statistics, to drop out before graduating. It's about 23 per cent of all present high school students.

The $64,000 is what it will cost each of them, in reduced life-time earnings, not to have that diploma, according to New York City school superintendent John J. Theobald.

Cost of Support

There are other ways of counting the cost. A survey made by one educational firm quotes Chicago authorities as putting a $510 million price-to-the-public tag on the 17,000 who dropped out of that city's high schools last year. That hypothetical figure is what it would cost to support them all, from 16 to 56, on public welfare, presuming they are largely unemployable for lack of education.

But the highest cost isn't measurable in dollars. Dr. James B. Conant, profoundly shocked to find slum streets crowded with idle and aimless armies of young people, called it "an explosive situation" and "a grave danger to the stability of our society."

The non-high school graduate is finding it harder and harder to get employment in a world in which unskilled jobs are becoming fewer and educational standards are being steadily upgraded.

At the time Conant spoke, the unemployment rate among workers under 20 was 20 per cent, compared to 7 per cent for the population as a whole.

Institute Programs

To meet the immediate problem, scores of cities have instituted high school programs which provide non-bookish students with training for specific jobs available in the community and often with paying part-time jobs at which they work under school supervision.

"The majority of drop - outs come from backgrounds of semiliteracy and poverty, sometimes crime, often neglect," said Sterling M. McMurrin, U. S. Commissioner of Education.

Yet many of these youngsters are of average intelligence or better, he said, and significant numbers of them could become able college students.

The attempt to end this waste of talent is being made increasingly, in elementary and junior schools. Conant expressed admiration for efforts in Chicago, Detroit, St. Louis and New York where schools have reached out into the community to widen the experiences of slum children and to persuade both the students and their parents of the pleasures and values of learning.

Plan For Survival

Modern 'Project Noah'

CLAREMONT, Calif. (AP) — Imagine that the survival of civilization depends on you.

Your problem: the world is threatened with a nuclear war so devastating that the earth's surface would be uninhabitable for 100 years.

Your task: design a survival colony to keep civilization alive for a full century.

What do you do?

THREE TEAMS

The students were divided into three teams, and given 14 weeks in which to come up with their answers.

They went straight to top authorities: government agencies such as the Atomic Energy Commission, the Public Health Service, and the National Academy of Science; professional organizations such as the American Medical Association and the American Chemical Society; industries such as General Electric, leading scientists.

Engineering problems have to be solved. Where do you put a survival colony? How do you supply it with power? Air? How do you assure a food supply for 100 years.

But there are human problems, too. How do you choose the handful of people who must keep civilization alive, and then pass it on? What ages should they be? What type of government should they have? What type of schools? Should all religious groups be equally represented?

BASIC POINT

On one basic point the three groups were agreed—the survival colony must be underground.

All three groups produced scale drawings of their proposed colonies, plus detailed facts, figures and opinions on just what the earth's last survivors would need to keep on surviving.

They provided schools, hospitals, gymnasiums, little theaters, swimming pools and tennis courts, hobby centers and machine shops.

They devised systems of food production that would make the colonies self-sufficient in a matter of months, although the excitement of eating tasty new dishes would be forever lost.

Group "A" even outlined a proposed daily diet. A typical day's menu included mush made from corn or algae.

Group "A" provided for nearly 100 living units costing $85 million and accommodating 2, 3 or 4 persons and built in a salt mine.

Crops could be grown in hydroponic tanks, which use water and chemicals, or by conventional farming methods, using vastly enriched soil.

NEEDED

These are the things you need to keep people alive. You can measure a man's physical needs, and provide for them.

But what of this thing called civilization? How do you define it, and how do you insure its survival for 100 years in the bowels of the earth.

And how do you measure the man who shall be civilization's custodian?

A nation's ideas, standards, arts, etc., could be preserved with vast libraries of microfilmed books and tape recordings, colored films, prints of great works of art.

But true civilization also exists in the mind of man, and it also must be preserved.

Thus, it was that the student groups placed extreme emphasis on education in the survival colonies. If the education system fails, they said, the culture will wither away. The education must be designed to preserve civilization in the minds of people who would be born, live their lives, and die without ever seeing the outside world.

SCHOOLING STARTS

Children would begin their formal schooling at about age 5. They would progress as fast as their abilities permitted, regardless of grade or age groups.

In their early 'teens they would choose a future career, and at about age 18 they would begin an apprenticeship in their chosen field.

Children Triumphant Over Silence

In the hubbub of October's noisy, talkative school children, where teachers are diligently trying for silence, there is a school in Monroe where silence is failure.

There, a word with lots of volume is a triumph, and a child's voice in speech, a milestone. It is called the School for Hard of Hearing Children.

Seven students from this area ranging in age from five to eight years, enrolled in September under the tutelage of Mrs. George G. Johnston. The school is located on South Grand in the Ouachita Parish Junior High building, under the principalship of Armand Lewis.

VARIATIONS

Of the seven students, only one has previously attended a special school. Four of the others attended public schools for a time. Due to this condition and the varied ages of the children, the teacher can handle no more than eight students.

Since a child seldom has complete loss of hearing, the problems of the hard of hearing child require that his total hearing be utilized. To compensate for his deficit, he is taught to sharpen his other senses.

Complicated memory exercises are introduced even to the very young. Touch, the feel of a rhythm, or the vibration of voice, is used. But most important is the use of sight.

Communication is taught as lip reading. Gestures are not permitted. The teacher must be very careful that she does not use her own hands in the sometimes frustrating job of trying to explain without sound.

Often as many as four or five different presentations are tried, even repeated the next day before the child understands, if ever.

HEADSETS

Each child's desk is equipped with headsets which are connected to an auditory training unit. Music and speech are so magnified that most of the students can hear the true speech sounds. Up to this point some have been imitating speech they saw without ever having heard the actual sound. Thus, their speech is often incoherent.

Seventy Times Seven

Compelling the communists in the United States to do anything or stopping them from doing anything through court edict seems to take about as much repetition as was called for in the Bible when the disciples were told to turn their cheeks "seventy times seven" for another slapping by their abusers. When the court of last resort has turned them down twice, they are demanding new legal recourse and may get it.

Attorney General Robert Kennedy says the Communist Party, U.S.A. has "exhausted its last legal recourse" in its fighting against registering as an agent of Russia.

Gus Hall, the party's general secretary in the United States, says this is not true. Hall is more likely to prove correct.

In cases of persons facing the death penalty we have seen their cases turned down by the United States supreme court and apparently they have exhausted their last recourse. Yet, in cases of this kind we have seen a number of additional court actions, such as a stay by a single member of the supreme court, through which the defendants have at least postponed, if not avoided completely, the penalty in store for them.

This fall the supreme court, somewhat to the surprise of those who had watched it routinely render decisions in favor of the communists, started its term auspiciously by refusing to re-examine its June ruling which compels the party to register its members with the justice department and reveal its finances.

The supreme court is called the court of last resort in the United States. Twice it has ordered that communists must register. That would seem to settle the matter for good.

Legal technicalities, however, run a long and wearisome course and it often seems there is no end to them. During the long [illegible] we may still face before the communists can be forced to register, it can be expected that [illegible] will obstinately refuse to do [illegible] a statute on violating [illegible] rather than comply.

Communist leaders in this country [illegible] crafty. Otherswise they [illegible] be serving as Russia's [illegible].

[illegible] advocates of turning the United States over to Russia [illegible] the fifth amendment up their [illegible]. The party can claim that to register its members would incriminate them. The [illegible] claim that would violate their rights.

Our supreme court, ruled by ideology instead of the constitution and precedent, has already held that members of the National Association of Colored People are not required to comply with state laws requiring them to register. Membership in the N.A.A.C.P. is not criminal offense, as that organization has not been officially declared seditious. Therefore, registration would not have incriminated the members. The supreme court gratuitously decided that making the membership of the N.A.A.C.P. public would subject the members to discriminations. The court had no right to make such a contention, as it was assuming a fact not yet proven, but in its ardor in behalf of racial integration the court has always gone beyond the realm of the issues before it and has outdistanced the N.A.A.C.P. itself in trying to see what eventuality unfavorable to members of the Negro race might result.

If Communist party leaders are accused of violating the law by failing to abide by the registration ruling, they would have to be indicted by the grand jury. They would fight this all the way up through the courts, right back to the supreme court.

The courts should be able to deal with such cases swiftly and would do so if they were as wholeheartedly against communist anti-American acts as the supreme court is in favor of integration at all costs.

In last June's ruling the supreme court, always soft on the communist question, squeaked by on a bare 5-to-4 vote. The justices themselves offer no assurance that they might not do a turnabout on the fifth amendment issue. That question came before them last spring and they could have settled it then and there but they refused to consider it at that time knowing full well that it would come before them eventually. This apparently gives the communists a year or so more of time to work in the dark, in a period that is critical for the whole world in a way in which the communists are directly involved.

Although the supreme court could have gone much farther in removing the communist menace to the United States, by ruling at once of the fifth amendment contention, its decision has gone some temporary good.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, says Party Secretary Hall has been on a whirlwind tour of the nation recently, warning members to destroy documents that might be incriminating. Hall's catchword is: "It's not what you know but what you show."

It is possible that new action by the supreme court may give law enforcement officers more leeway in maneuvering communists into court.

It would take a considerable stretch of the imagination to make the fifth amendment, which was intended only to protect a person in court from having to testify against himself, act also as a protector against an admittedly seditious organization. It is difficult to see how the supreme court, if it acts in the best interests of the nation, could uphold the seditious Communist Party, U.S.A., in such a contention.

Freeman's Poor Logic

When it comes to poor logic, Secretary of Agriculture Freeman wins the prize. He's happy no matter which way the agricultural control program works. In fact, it might be said he is slap-happy.

Congress authorized the administration's 1961 feed grain program for the purpose of cutting down surpluses of corn and sorghum grain without pinching the farmer. Now, although the program has cost a billion dollars, it appears that nearly as much has been grown this year as last year. The American Farm Bureau Federation called the feed grain program a "billion dollar fiasco."

A reporter mentioned this at a press conference and Secretary Freeman was indignant.

"It would be hard to call this years' bumper crop a fiasco when there are hungry people in the world," he declared.

We might agree with that statement, since we are far more in favor of a program of plenty, rather than a program of scarcity, but how does that make the administration's and Freeman's crop reduction program look?

According to his bifocal view of the situation, Freeman's program can't be a failure. If the acreage cuts reduce the yield, the program has met with its original objective. But, as near-record crops are produced, the agriculture secretary points with pride to the "abundance." If abundance was wanted, why a billion-dollar reduction program in the first place.

Ill effects of the program go beyond the cost. The department has been paying farmers $1.20 a bushel for corn and selling vast quantities of it at $1.40 a bushel. Buying at 16 cents a bushel less than they sold for, farmers have been using the cheap corn to feed pigs, chickens and livestock. Now there is fear that the livestock market will be glutted, forcing prices down and distressing farmers who have been getting along well in a free market.

MIAMI, Fla.

To The Editor:

Were there an idea big enough to put Democracy on a winning offensive around the world, would it not be good sense for all of us - Press, Radio, Television, Business, the Church, the Statesman and the Ordinary Man — to embrace it?

There is such an idea. It is Moral RE Armament.

Both Moscow and Peiping recognize and fear it. They beam special broadcasts to world Communist membership warning them against it. Communists are forbidden to associate with people trained in Moral Re - Armament on pain of expulsion from the Party. They recognize in it "tt power to change radical revolutionary thinners," and say "it substitures for the class struggle, the eternal battle between good and evil." also that "MRA is the only effective enemy left to Communism in the entire West." These are exact quotes.

It is the only idea which has ever put Communism on the defensive.

When Harry S. Truman was Senator during World War II, he said this of it:

"We need this spirit in industry. We need it in the nation. For if America doesn't catch this spirit, we will be lucky to win the war, and certain to lose the peace. With it there is no limit to what we can do for America, and America for the World."

If, now, Mr. Truman, President Kennedy, and all of us with them, were to decide to honestly and drastically clean up ourselves, and then the nation, from bottom to top, (that is MRA) the whole world would respond. Our enemies would become our fast friends. Khrushchev and Chou En - lai would then naturally see their ideology as inferior - not revolutionary enough — because it does not deal with the root problem, which is human nature; nor the root answer, which is change in human nature.

Were we to change, they, too, would change, and be swept along with us in a new tide of history to world renassance. That is our destiny.

When will we decide to do it? It is available to each of us for the taking — until midnight, that is — which is about five minutes away.

My clipping service has sent me a copy of the editorial entitled "Infiltrated Integration" which appearrd in the Morning World the 11th of September, and I wish to thank you for carrying a part of my text.

In addition, let me emphasize that I am in complete agreement with the comments in that particular editorial, especially with regard to the use of Brazil as an example of what can happen if segregation is not maintained.

Again, thank you for the nice coverage of my recent talk before the Confederate Veterans in Jackson.

By BARRY GOLDWATER

U. S. Senator From Arizona

The American Broadcasting Company announced to its affiliate stations that commencing October 1 it would present a new program, "Adlai Stevenson Reports," live for 25 minutes on Sunday afternoon. The program alternates with an established ABC news presentation, "Issues and Answers."

In the build-up bulletin sent to its network stations, ABC said: "... will present Adlai Stevenson in informal conversations with Arnold Michaelis and ABC correspondent John MacVane, discussing the work of the United Nations and related world-wide UN activities and interests."

I'm sure there is nothing improper in a TV network scheduling Mr. Stevenson. But John Hogg, president of station KOY in Phoenix, and that station's long-time program director, Jack Williams, have both protested the network's announced intention of alternating Mr. Stevenson with an established objective news presentation.

Mr. Hogg's communication addressed to Robert Pauley of ABC is worth repeating:

"Stevenson considered controversial figure from the standpoint of the conservatives and also is accused of expressing his policy as opposed to the president's.

" 'Issues and Answers' had good acceptance. By this alternate scheduling, you dilute the integrity of 'Issues and Answers' for what some will consider a propaganda program in behalf of UN.

"Agree that Stevenson good copy; but we wish to protest the obvious effort to take an audience cushioned to an objective press conference and on alternate Sundays give them an apologist for either the UN or whatever philosophy currently popular with the liberal group that Stevenson leads."

Jack Williams, an experienced radio newsman and for two terms the beloved mayor of Phoenix, addressed his protest on the same grounds to James C. Haggerty head of the network's news bureau. He concluded by saying: "It seems quite dishonest to me; because I've been taught in 32 years in the radio business and some years in news before there is a certain integrity to position, and this scheduling smacks of the old carnival shell game."

Freedom of the press is unquestionably an indisputable support to free government. At election time, we frequently hear the charge that all publishers are moss - backed, reactionary, arch conservatives — of course we read these charges in the newspapers owned by these moss-backed, arch - conservatives, and name calling is a regrettable part of political disputes. But to my mind, for the past 25 years, the articulate exponents of the liberal welfare state have been far more successful in securing wide-spread disseminaton for their viewpoint than have the conservatives. Many of the national commentators on radio and television have been accused of being something less than objective.

It seems to me, the point taken by Mr. Hogg and Mr. Williams is worthy of consideration by ABC. If the network wishes to present Mr. Stevenson as an apologist for the United Nations, then that presentation should be made in such a way as to avoid any confusion in the minds of the listener. And to permit Mr. Stevenson to share the time segment on alternate Sundays with an established objective news report is, I think, to run the risk of implying a sponsorship and objectivity not intended.

How do you stand, sir?

WASHINGTON SHORTS

TIT-FOR-TAT—In a recent appearance before an American Medical Association group in Washington, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Abraham Ribicoff faced an organization that has kept him pretty busy these past few months. And he lost no time reminding them of this. He recalled an incident which took place some years ago when he was a judge in Connecticut. There was a family in town which was constantly getting into trouble and father and sons had been sentenced repeatedly for an assortment of petty crimes. Once when the father came up for sentencing, Ribicoff told him: "Before passing sentence, I want to tell you that you and your sons have given this court more trouble than anyone else in the whole city. Have you anything to say?" The man replied, "Yes, Judge. I just want to say that we haven't give you any more trouble than you've given us."

INFORMATION PLEASE—The U. S. Information Agency is designed to sell the American story abroad but some people have other ideas. USIA Director Edward R. Murrow told an audience the other day his agency receives request for information on scores of subjects. One letter-writer asked that USIA "send me all your informantion on counterfeiting" and another "please RUSH me all the facts on bullet wounds, fast." Hays replied that he was reminded of the story of the little boy who desperately wanted a horse for Christmas but who his parents felt was too young to have one. Instead, they gave him a rocking horse. Finding it on Christmas morning, the youngster dutifully rocked a bit but could not hide his chagrin. "Son," said his father, "are you disappointed with your wooden horse?" "No," replied the boy, "but I did want a horse made of horse."

Today is Sunday, Oct. 15, the 288th day of the year with 77 to follow in 1961.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning star is Venus.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1917, the most famous spy of World War I, Gertrud Margarete Zelle, known as Mata Hari, was executed at Vincennes barracks outside Paris.

Kennedy's Recent Speech Before Organization Helped Greatly

For many years, beginning with the San Francisco Conference, I wrote numerous articles opposed to the organization and the existence of the United Nations. Some of the reasons for my opposition have been justified by the course of events.

But there can be no satisfaction in that. Many unhappy prophecies prove to be true and one must be very unhappy that it should be so. It would have been more satisfactory if the United Nations had proved to be a grand success and that those of us who prophesied failure were shown to be frauds. And perhaps we shall be in the end.

Taking the situation as of 1961, the existence of the United Nations is of tremendous importance to the United States. And that is what counts so far as the American people are concerned. We cannot build policy without regard to the essential necessities of this country.

Why is the United Nations of value to the United States in the year 1961? The answer is that we need a forum where our represensatives can speak directly to the world. President Kennedy's recent speech before the United Nations did more to clear the atmosphere than miles of propaganda releases could do. He defeated Soviet Russia in Africa with one speech. This will not happen every time. We face a very tough period in our history and we are likely to fail as often as we succeed, but our chances will be better if the instruments available are beneficial to us.

It is true that Soviet Russia has used the anti-colonialism issue to build an Afro-Asian opposition to the United States. Soviet Russia did not invent anti-colonialism. Curiously enough, history will establish that the anti colonialism issue was rife prior to World War I, that President Woodrow Wilson and Premier Jan Smuts of South Africa brought the issue before the nations at the Paris Peace Conference, that it was incorporated in the concept of a League of Nations, that the Gandhi movement in India was supported by the United States, that at Teheran and Yalta President Franklin D. Roosevelt was clearly antagonistic to colonialism and that United States policy was designed to free the colonial countries and to recognize them as soon as possible.

It is a tragedy of history [illegible] the one nation which has consis ently held to the doctrine of self-determination throughout its history, the United States, should be regarded as pro-colonial. This is so because our principal allies have been and are the great colonial countries. On the other hand, Soviet Russia, which has pursued a policy of expansion, is universally regarded as [illegible] colonial. This paradox is the result not of Soviet propaganda, which could not have accomplished so much, but rather of more than a century of antagonism between the colored and the white peoples. The Western whites are lumped together, as we erroneously lump all Latin-Americans together, or as most of the world lump all who live in what is called China as one people. Ethnical complexities cannot be simplified by giving a people a title.

In the United Nations, the newer countries, many of which have been freed by American assistance, can, by experience, learn the truth. Most of the new countries are not prepared for self government and have no economic basis for stability. It will take them a long time to discover what their position in the world really is and that they cannot stand on their own. However, as long as the United Nations continues to exist and we are in it, these newer countries cannot be gobbled up by the great Powers. The battle for the ownership of the Congo is an example of the peril that faces the small nations. For here is a struggle between Soviet Russia and Western Europe for control of a nation not ready to govern itself and not possessing the economy to maintain its people on a rising standard of living.

The Congo would have been gobbled up by now were it not for the existence of the United Nations. The alternative would have been a war to prevent Soviet Russia from absorbing the Congo as it has absorbed Cuba. Any war at this moment can be nuclear [illegible] countries. As long as the United Nations exists, [illegible] available to offset [illegible] such a war which [illegible] inevitable.

Beyond that the United Nations serves very little purpose, but it is not sufficient. The proof of the value of the United Nations [illegible] that Soviet Russia is seeking to destroy [illegible]

Giving Away Furniture Or Equipment May Prove Profitable

If you're in business and preparing to move or otherwise dispose of old furniture, equipment or even machinery, consider the possible tax advantages to you in giving the property away to a school, church, other charity. By doing this, you will not only help the charitable organization but also may get a better net after - tax return than you'd get from selling the property.

If you're an individual taxpayer and you want to get rid of some used personal possessions— an old bed, chair, refrigerator, desk, etc. — you too should consider the possible tax benefits to you in giving this property to a charitable, religious or educational institution. The fair market value of the property you give can be deducted as a valid contribution to charity on your income tax return. You will help the charity you select and you well may net more in dollars and cents than you would from selling the stuff.

When the Chase Manhattan Bank recently moved to its new headquarters building in New York City, it had to dispose of 100,000 pieces of used furniture, worth $350,000 — and the way it did this graphically illustrates the little - known points summarized above.

Instead of trying to sell or junk the furniture, Chase Manhattan GAVE it to Columbia University, which agreed to move the furniture from the bank's old quarters to the university.

Now Chase has made a charitable contribution to an educational organization which will save it $182,000 in taxes — assuming the $350,000 valuation is accepted by the Treasury. Columbia has obtained good used furniture for only cartage costs.

If Chase had tried to sell the entire lot of used furniture to a dealer, the price might have been substantially below $350,000 because of cartage and the dealer's margin of profit on resale. And Chase also would have had to pay tax on any excess of price over its depreciated base for the furniture.

This procedure, I repeat, isn't limited to contributions of business property. Individuals who contribute used personal possessions can get a similar deduction.

Heed these hints on "profitable" giving to charity in yesterday's and today's columsn for your own great benefit!

Now, a final few guides:

If you are single, helping to support your parents who maintain their own household, you may be entitled to the head-of-household tax break in addition to the $600 dependency credit if, in these weeks before 1961 ends, you arrange your contributions in a way allowing you to claim at least one parent as a dependent. The test for the tax break is: (1) you contribute over half the cost of maintaining the household of your father OR your mother and 2 the gross income of your father OR mother is less than $600 and 3 your parents file separate returns.

You may fail to meet the tes because your contribution is t both your parents and your pay ments do not provide half the su port for either. You might ar range your contributions in thes weeks so you make the SAM payments for your mother benefit alone and thus get the ta break. You may lose all the ta advantage because your pare earns a tiny bit over $600 an you may put yourself way ahea by seeing to it now that your pa ent's earnings are held below $6

If you are married or head a household this year but expec ing changed circumstances w end your income - splitting priv eges in 1962, you can save su stantially by bunching incon into 1961 and postponing expens to 1962. The reason is, this ye you're being taxed at lower ra than next year.

If you're single, expecting to married next year, do the opp ite. Postpone income into 19 speed expenses into 1961.

This ends the series of six ports. You're so rare I doubt y exist if you haven't found so information in one of these c umns which will help you save taxes NOW.

Seventy Times Seven

Compelling the communists in the United States to do anything or stopping them from doing anything through court edict seems to take about as much repetition as was called for in the Bible when the disciples were told to turn their cheeks "seventy times seven" for another slapping by their abusers. When the court of last resort has turned them down twice, they are demanding new legal recourse and may get it.

Attorney General Robert Kennedy says the Communist Party, U.S.A. has "exhausted its last legal recourse" in its fighting against registering as an agent of Russia.

Gus Hall, the party's general secretary in the United States, says this is not true. Hall is more likely to prove correct.

In cases of persons facing the death penalty we have seen their pleas turned down by the United States supreme court and apparently they have exhausted their last recourse. Yet, in cases of this kind, we have seen a number of additional court actions, such as a stay by a single member of the supreme court, through which the defendants have at least postponed, if not avoided completely, the penalty in store for them.

This fall the supreme court, somewhat to the surprise of those who had watched it routinely return decisions in favor of the communists, started its term auspiciously by refusing to re-examine its June ruling which compels the party to register its members with the justice department and reveal its finances.

The supreme court is called the court of last resort in the United States. Twice it has ordered that communists must register. That would seem to settle the matter for good.

Legal technicalities, however, can run a long and wearisome course and it often seems there is no end to them. During the long period which we may still face before the communists can be forced to register, it can be expected that they will obstinately refuse to do so, taking a chance on violating the law rather than comply.

Communist leaders in this country are crafty. Otherswise they would not be serving as Russian agents.

Now the advocates of turning the United States over to Russia have the fifth amendment up their sleeve. The party can claim that to register its members would incriminate them. They can claim that would violate their rights.

Our supreme court, ruled by ideology, instead of the constitution, law and precedent, has already held that members of the National Association of Colored People are not required to comply with state laws ordering them to register. Membership in the N.A.A.C.P. is not criminal offense, as that organization has not been officially declared seditious. Therefore, registration would not have incriminated the members. The supreme court gratuitously decided that making the membership of the N.A.A.C.P. public would subject the members to discriminations. The court had no right to make such a contention, as it was assuming a fact not yet proven, but in its ardor in behalf if racial integration the court has always gone beyond the realm of the issues before it and has outdistanced the N.A.A.C.P. itself in trying to see what eventuality unfavorable to members of the Negro race might result.

If Communist party leaders are accused of violating the law by failing to abide by the registration ruling, They would have to be indicted by the grand jury. They would fight this all the way up through the courts, right back to the supreme court.

The courts should be able to deal with such cases swiftly and would do so if they were as wholeheartedly against communist anti-American acts as the supreme court is in favor of integration at all costs.

In last June's ruling the supreme court, always soft on the communist question, squeaked by on a bare 5-to-4 vote. The justices themselves offer no assurance that they might not do a turnabout on the fifth amendment issue. That question came before them last spring and they could have settled it then and there but they refused to consider it at that time knowing full well that it would come before them eventually. This apparently gives the communists a year or so more of time to work in the dark, in a period that is critical for the whole world in a way in which the communists are directly involved.

Alhtough the supreme court could have gone much farther in removing the communist menace to the United States, by ruling at once of the fifth amendment contention, its decision has gone some temporary good.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, says Party Secretary Hall has been on a whirlwind tour of the nation recently, warning members to destroy documents that might be incriminating. Hall's catchword is: "It is not what you know but what you show."

It is possible that new action by the supreme court may give law enforcement officers more leeway in maneuvering communists into court.

It would take a considerable stretch of the imagination to make the fifth amendment, which was intended only to protect a person in court from having to testify against himself, act also as a protector against an admittedly seditious organization. It is difficult to see how the supreme court, if it acts in the best interests of the nation, could uphold the seditious Communist Party, U.S.A., in such a contention.

Freeman's Poor Logic

When it comes to poor logic, Secretary of Agriculture Freeman wins the prize. He's happy no matter which way the agricultural control program works. In fact, it might be said he is slap-happy.

Congress authorized the administration's 1961 feed grain program for the purpose of cutting down surpluses of corn and sorghum grain without pinching the farmer. Now, although the program has cost a billion dollars, it appears that nearly as much has been grown this year as last year. The American Farm Bureau Federation called the feed grain program a "billion dollar fiasco."

A reporter mentioned this at a press conference and Secretary Freeman was indignant.

"It would be hard to call this years' bumper crop a fiasco when there are hungry people in the world," he declared.

We might agree with that statement, since we are far more in favor of a program of plenty, rather than a program of scarcity, but how does that make the administration's and Freeman's crop reduction program look?

According to his bifocal view of the situation, Freeman's program can't be a failure. If the acreage cuts reduce the yield, the program has met with its original objective. But, as near-record crops are produced, the agriculture secretary points with pride to the "abundance." If abundance was wanted, why a billion-dollar reduction program in the first place.

Ill effects of the program go beyond the cost. The department has been paying farmers $1.20 a bushel for corn and selling vast quantities of it at $1.40 a bushel. Buying at 16 cents a bushel less than they sold for, farmers have been using the cheap corn to feed pigs, chickens and livestock. Now there is fear that the livestock market will be glutted, forcing prices down and distressing farmers who have been getting along well in a free market.

MIAMI, Fla.

To The Editor:

Were there an idea big enough to put Democracy on a winning offensive around the world, would it not be good sense for all of us —Press, Radio, Television, Business, the Church, the Statesman and the Ordinary Man — to embrace it?

There is such an idea. It is Moral RE Armament.

Both Moscow and Peiping recognize and fear it. They beam special broadcasts to world Communist membership warning them against it. Communists are forbidden to associate with people trained in Moral Re - Armament on pain of expulsion from the Party. They recognize in it "tt power to change radical revolutionary thiners," and say "it substitures for the class struggle, the eternal battle between good and evil;" also that "MRA is the only effective enemy left to Communism in the entire West." These are exact quotes.

It is the only idea which has ever put Communism on the defensive.

When Harry S. Truman was Senator during World War II, he said this of it:

"We need this spirit in industry. We need it in the nation. For if America doesn't catch this spirit, we will be lucky to win the war, and certain to lose the peace. With it there is no limit to what we can do for America, and America for the World."

If, now, Mr. Truman, President Kennedy, and all of us with them, were to decide to honestly and drastically clean up ourselves, and then the nation, from bottom to top, (that is MRA) the whole world would respond. Our eneemies would become our fast friends. Khrushchev and Chou En - lai would then naturally see their ideology as inferior - not revolutionary enough — because it does not deal with the root problem, which is human nature; nor the root answer, which is change in human nature. …………

Were we to change, they, too, would change, and be swept along with us in a new tide of history to world renassance. That is our destiny.

When will we decide to do it? It is available to each of us for the taking — until midnight, that is — which is about five minutes away.

By BARRY GOLDWATER

U. S. Senator From Arizona

The American Broadcasting Company announced to its affiliate stations that commencing October 1 it would present a new program, "Adlai Stevenson Reports," live for 25 minutes on Sunday afternoon. The program alternates with an established ABC news presentation, "Issues and Answers."

In the build-up bulletin sent to its network stations, ABC said: ". . . will present Adlai Stevenson in informal conversations with Arnold Michaelis and ABC correspondent John MacVane, discussing the work of the United Nations and related world-wide UN activities and interests."

I'm sure there is nothing improper in a TV network scheduling Mr. Stevenson. But John Hogg, president of station KOY in Phoenix, and that station's long-time program director, Jack Williams, have both protested the network's announced intention of alternating Mr. Stevenson with an established objective news presentation.

Mr. Hogg's communication addressed to Robert Pauley of ABC is worth repeating:

"Stevenson considered controversial figure from the standpoint of the conservatives and also is accused of expressing his policy as opposed to the president's.

" 'Issues and Answers' had good acceptance. By this alternate scheduling, you dilute the integrity of 'Issues and Answers' for what some will consider a propaganda program in behalf of UN.

"Agree that Stevenson good copy; but we wish to protest the obvious effort to take an audience cushioned to an objective press conference and on alternate Sundays give them an apologist for either the UN or whatever philosophy currently popular with the liberal group that Stevenson leads."

Jack Williams, an experienced radio newsman and for two terms the beloved mayor of Phoenix, addressed his protest on the same grounds to James C. Haggerty head of the network's news bureau. He concluded by saying: "It seems quite dishonest to me; because I've been taught in 32 years in the radio business and some years in news before there is a certain integrity to position, and this scheduling smacks of the old carnival shell game."

Freedom of the press is unquestionably an indisputable support to free government. At election time, we frequently hear the charge that all publishers are moss - backed, reactionary, arch-conservatives — of course we read these charges in the newspapers owned by these moss-backed, arch - conservatives, and name calling is a regrettable part of political disputes. But to my mind, for the past 25 years, the articulate exponents of the liberal welfare state have been far more successful in securing widespread disseminaton for their viewpoint than have the conservatives. Many of the national commentators on radio and television have been accused of being something less than objective.

It seems to me, the point taken by Mr. Hogg and Mr. Williams is worthy of consideration by ABC. If the network wishes to present Mr. Stevenson as an apologist for the United Nations, then that presentation should be made in such a way as to avoid any confusion in the minds of the listener. And to permit Mr. Stevenson to share the time segment on alternate Sundays with an established objective news report is, I think, to run the risk of implying a sponsorship and objectivity not intended.

How do you stand, sir?

WASHINGTON SHORTS

TIT-FOR-TAT—In a recent appearance before an American Medical Association group in Washington, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Abraham Ribicoff faced an organization that has kept him pretty busy these past few months. And he lost no time reminding them of this. He recalled an incident which took place some years ago when he was a judge in Connecticut. There was a family in town which was constantly getting into trouble and father and sons had been sentenced repeatedly for an assortment of petty crimes. Once when the father came up for sentencing, Ribicoff told him: "Before passing sentence, I want to tell you that you and your sons have given this court more trouble than anyone else in the whole city. Have you anything to say?" The man replied, "Yes, Judge. I just want to say that we haven't give you any more trouble than you've given us."

You may lose all the tax advantage because your parent earns a tiny bit over $600 and you may put yourself way ahead by seeing to it now that your parent's earnings are held below $6000

If you are married or head of a household this year but expecting changed circumstances will end your income - splitting privileges in 1962, you can save substantially by bunching income into 1961 and postponing expenses to 1962. The reason is, this year you're being taxed at lower rates than next year.

If you're single, expecting to be married next year, do the opposite. Postpone income into 1962, speed expenses into 1961.

This ends the series of six reports. You're so rare I doubt you exist if you haven't found some information in one of these columns which will help you save on taxes NOW.

The Soviet 'Mein Kampf'

The following article is of so much importance, we are printing it in full. It is an analysis prepared by a United States expert of Nikita Khrushchev's January 6, 1961 "Mein Kampf speech." The analysis is by Dr. Stefan T. Possony, international politics professor at the graduate school of Georgetown University. He described the Soviet Premier's January speech as "one of the most outspoken and significant statements by a leading Communist in recent times." Dr. Possony's analysis was prepared for the Senate internal security subcommittee. The following, which was passed on to us by our good friend, Robert H. Evans, vice president and general manager at Olin, is in full Dr. Possony's summary and conclusions which cover well all the points made in his lengthy and scholarly statement.

By Dr. Stefan T. Possony

I now want to summarize my interpretation of Khrushchev's speech:

1. This speech, together with the parties of Nov. 1960, has disclosed Communist strategy as it will be employed for the next five years or so.

2. The traditional goal of communism, the conquest of the entire world, is not only reaffirmed but is held far more strongly and hopefully than in the past. It is "unthinkable" that the Communists will abandon their goal of world domination regardless of the price they have to pay. They are willing to pay any price to attain their objective.

3. The Communists probably are honestly convinced that they are invincible (a) because of the alleged predetermination of history, (b) because of their combined military-political strength, (c) because of their anticipated military superiority, and (d) because of the anticipated demoralization of the free world.

4. Communist strategy has become more sophisticated than it under Stalin.

5. The Communists believe that the final decision in the world struggle, and specifically the victory of world communism, will be attained in the present era of history. In their conception, this era seems to extend to 1975, approximately.

6. Armed struggle is inevitable. Such specific forms of armed struggle as liberation wars, uprisings and "pressure from below" are inevitable.

7. A global thermonuclear war is not entirely inevitable. If the free world, and especially the strongest domestic countries like the United States capitulate, then such a war may be avoided. However, while preferable, such a development is unlikely.

8. The Communist parties in the free world and their sympathizers must do everything in their power to facilitate blackmail by the Soviet Union and to prevent military resistance by the free world.

9. The Soviet Union and the Soviet bloc must not leave any stone unturned to increase their military power in order to fight the probable (albeit not inevitable) world war and to win a global thermonuclear conflict.

10. For the time being, such conflict must be avoided. The turning point in history will come when the Soviet Union overtakes the United States, some time between 1965 and 1970. Khrushchev talks as though he conceives this competition in terms of an "economic" production race. It is more likely that he is thinking about a race in military technology. Consequently, the great turning point in history will come when the Soviet Union, irrespective of per-capita production in industrial goods, achieves technologically superior armaments and attains a military force which, qualitatively and quantitatively, will be superior to the military forces of the United States. If necessary, this force will be employed in the second phase of the current era.

11. In the first phase, the armed struggle will mostly take the form of liberation wars and uprisings, plus deterrence by nuclear blackmail, on the part of the Soviets, of any military initiatives undertaken by the free world.

12. Also in this first phase the struggle must be intensified on the "active fronts in the underdeveloped areas." In particular, it must be pushed in Latin America.

13. In this phase, strong efforts will be made to improve the effectiveness of uprisings. Henceforth uprisings will be planned as major military undertakings. The insurrectionists will be properly trained and be armed with the most modern equipment. They will be provided with strategic support and power by Soviet nuclear long-range forces, under a coordinated strategy. International crises, such as threats of war and war alerts, may be exploited to launch insurrections.

14. The achievement of a military, political and psychological paralysis of the free world is a paramount objective of Soviet strategy.

15. This objective can be attained by such means as peace propaganda, Pavlovian conditioning, infiltration, threats and diplomatic negotiations.

16. Propaganda on disarmament, specifically nuclear disarmament and disarmament negotiations, are an integral part of the Soviet strategy aimed at paralyzing the free world and strengthening the power of communism.

17. Soviet strategy is based, on the one hand, on achieving optimal military power and building and strengthening Communist political armies throughout the free world. On the other hand, Soviet strategy utilizes massive deception to bring about, through (a) the unilateral military weakening of the free world, (b) the moral paralysis of free world governments, and (c) the demoralization of public opinion, the capitulation of the United States.

18. Failing in this strategy, the Soviet intends to destroy the United States by nuclear weapons.

I would like to conclude by voicing my conviction that however sophisticated this current Soviet strategy may be, it is not sophisticated enough to accomplish Communist victory. The hybris of Khrushchev is reminiscent of Hitler and foreshadows his failure.

I am fortified in this belief by my realization that the course of history, contrary to Mr. Khrushchev's assumption, is not foreordained. The cause of freedom in history often was considered lost but usually good sense, prevailed after democratic hesitations and one after the other, the main threats to freedom were defeated.

Still, I am concerned that the Kremlin may have become overconfident, apparently is overrating Soviet power, and is inclined to underrate Western power and resolution.

There is no question but that free world policies are partially responsible for this dangerous frame of mind. Cockiness and cocksureness have been more frequent causes of war than a rational evaluation of risks, chances and purposes.

The errors of free world policies will not culminate in the destruction of freedom and of the democratic system of government.

But if we condition the Soviet leaders to expect final victory, even by "easy delivery," many millions of citizens all over the free world will pay with their limbs and lives.

To convince the Kremlin that we are not about to commit suicide, nor are going to tolerate our destruction, superior strength, sustained firmness, greater willingness to assume risks, and at long last greater comprehension of the real nature of the Communist threat, are mandatory. True to its traditions, the United States will prove worthy of its responsibilities.

Copies of Dr. Possony's full statement, plus text of the Khrushchev speech, have been printed in a pamphlet which may be obtained by writing the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C. Send 30 cents. Title of the pamphlet is "Analysis of the Khrushchev Speech of Jan. 6."

Shelby Pens Memorable 'Monster'

A matriarch often is a benevolent soul whose wisdom is a guiding light to her descendants and whose compassion is a golden blessing upon her children and grandchildren.

But in this story the matriarch is an overbearing female whose driving egotism devours her children completely. Her name was Gertrude Olivier Donner. Her initials were G. O. D., to signify the part she played in the lives of her children — Don, who wanted to be a musician, and having been frustrated by his mother became an alcoholic; Harlow, a girl who escaped extinction by seeking fruition in multiple marriages; and Larry, the spoiled brat who became a pervert.

Madame raised herself from the squalor of a French-Canadian shanty to the Rolls Royce munificence of a nationally syndicated columnist whose corny effusions were read by millions of females. She had tricked a simpleton of good family into marriage and then had wrecked the lives of her offspring by alternately neglecting them and ordering them about.

Because Madame is a thoroughly disgusting creature of her times, you cannot help but loathe her, but you have to concede that she was a woman of will — her own will.

Selby has written his story with skill. He leads you into it with a gradually expanding chronicle of Madame's early life and then caps it with Madame's three self - revealing sketches of her children. He has created a monster, but it is an engaging monster, and a memorable one.

A Newsman's Compendium Of Chuckles

I'VE GOT NEWS FOR YOU. By John Wheeler. Dutton. $5

In 50 years of elbow-rubbing (and often elbow-bending) with a glittering array of celebrities, septuagenarian Jack Wheeler has acquired a rich store of anecdotes. His book is a rich compendium of chuckles and reminiscences of that half century.

A newshound since his student days at Columbia, class of 1908, he became a baseball writer for the New York Herald and in 1911 one of the first ghost writers — preparing the Herald's stories on the World Series under the name of the great pitcher Christy Mathewson. Then he got into the newspaper syndicate business. (For the uninitiated, that means a service supplying special features, cartoons, columns, etc., to many newspapers.) For the past 30 years he has been a top official of the North American Newspaper Alliance.

There are anecdotes here that hark back to Richard Harding Davis, the early war correspondent, to Theodore Roosevelt and Pancho Villa. There are stories about many of the wits, cartoonists and sports figures over the years, including Ring Lardner, Bud Fisher and many others. Winstone Churchill and Ernest Hemingway, and theater figures all the way from the Ziegfeld Follies to Marilyn Monroe flit through these pages.

Wheeler knows how to be entertaining, and that is the whole effect of this book. You don't have to be a newsman or a celebrity to enjoy the way the author, loving life and relishing a good yarn, spills out the stories of a long career among some very engaging people.

Australia has about 50 species of kangaroos, ranging in size from the foot-long musky-rat kangaroo to the 7-foot-tall great grays and reds.

DAGUERREOTYPE, taken by an unknown photographer about 1850, reveals the permanence of the process. Picture is from the Northampton Historical Society collection and appears in "The Daguerreotype in America" by Beaumont Newhall.

Camera Notes

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

"Something old, something new; something borrowed . . . comes to you." This jingle, revised for camera fans, pops into mind as several new items in photography make an appearance.

The "something old" is the story of "The Daguerreotype in America" by Beaumont Newhall (Duell, Sloane & Pearce, $12.50).

"Something new" in 35mm slide projection is the way in which the still pictures dissolve and blend smoothly together like lap dissolves in professional movies. It's accomplished by a two-eyed slide projector.

Finally, there's a portable darkroom kit in which the "something borrowed" was the idea of the old-style changing bag. It has been converted and modernized to make use of an airplane flight bag for the same purpose.

Beaumont Newhall is America's authority on the history of photography. Presently director of Eastman House in Rochester, N. Y., he has an impressive museum background. His scholarly associations and the ferreting instinct of a private eye were combined over a period of 14 years to search out his account of the art, industry and examples of daguerreotype in this country.

Its era in America was a short one. It began in 1839, flourished wildly in the 1850s and was obsolete within 20 years. But daguerreotypes were personal and precious and the process was permanant so they left a rich heritage. It is this almost-forgotten slice of Americana which Newhall has so thoroughly documented.

Key to the new slide projector, called the Tandem-Matic, are its two separate seven-element optical systems with a single 750-watt lamp serving both. Two lenses are focused on the same spot on the screen. The slide tray, holding 54 slides, has a left and a right side compartment for the twin optical systems. The slides are loaded alternately for proper sequence.

When slides are shown, synchronized blades gradually close the diamond-shaped iris of one lens while opening that of the other. The [illegible]-second change-over brings a smooth continuity which can be controlled from the projector or a pistol-grip remote unit.

The device to get camera fans interested in developing their own roll films by moving the darkroom into any spot of the fan's choosing is a Rollakit. It consists of a flight bag, a bottle of single-solution film processor, a roll film tank and two clips.

The bag is a portable darkroom. By inserting the hands through elasticised sleeves at either end of the bag, film is loaded into the tank in complete darkness. That done, the tank is removed and further operations are carried on in light.

The single-solution bottle neck threads into the tank. When inverted, the solution pours into the tank and in six minutes the film is developed and fixed. Inverted once again, the solution drains back into the bottle and is good for five more rolls of film.

The lid of the tank is removed, cold tap water washes the film for five minutes and it is hung up to dry.

With no need to worry about temperature, processing can be done while you are watching television, at a vacation resort, camping or traveling by plane or train. For anyone wanting to get their hands back into darkroom work, this is the portable answer.

MARYLAND'S ANSWER

To The Crime Of Compulsion

EDITORS NOTE—In the wake of nearly every brutal crime of compulsion, there's a great public outcry: why was this criminal permitted to walk the streets? Maryland is not only taking potential criminals off the streets, but helping them regain mental health.

By HERB THOMPSON

JESSUP, MD (AP) — The jury was skeptical.

The young man before them had never committed anything more serious than larceny and was serving 18 months in the House of Correction.

The psychiatrist recommended, in effect, that the jury ignore the sentence and commit Clayton Breeding to Maryland's Patuxent Institution as a defective delinquent for an indefinite period—until cured.

"This man is dangerous," said Dr. Harold Boslow,, Patuxent's director. "He is definitely criminally inclined. In my opinion, if he is released, he will commit serious crime in six months."

The jurors were unconvinced. Breeding was returned to finish his regular sentence.

Two months after his release, Breeding got drunk. He stopped at the home of a pregnant young bride, forced her into a car, took her out in the woods and strangled her. He was convicted of first-degree murder, sentenced to life imprisonment.

At Patuxent, under the day-to-day supervision of a highly specialized staff, his compulsions might have been brought under control. His victim might be alive today.

They would rather tell you about Ralph X, a man in his mid-30s who came to the psychiatric prison several years ago with a much worse criminal record—numerous counts of burglary, larceny and carrying a concealed weapon, non-support of his wife and children, grave anti-social tendencies.

Within two years after his commitment, he was paroled. He is now an upstanding citizen, working at a skilled trade learned at Patuxent, supporting his wife and children, helping find jobs for former inmates paroled from the institution.

Another inmate, nearing release, plans to go to college. Others are working at part-time jobs, returning to the institution at night until they can win the step-by-step approval necessary to return to society.

All had one thing in common, along with present inmates of Patuxent: the potential of committing dangerous criminal acts through impulses which they apparently could not control. The law calls these men defective delinquents.

"The courts are very cooperative," Dr. Boslow says. "Our judges have shown remarkable ability in selecting the individuals they send here for examination."

Sometimes, as in the case of Breeding, the institution's recommendation is rejected by a judge or jury. Most often, it is accepted.

The law has withstood repeated challenges of its constitutionality.

Patuxent's professional staff includes five fulltime psychiatrists, two psychologists and a director of social work. The institution has a custodial force of 127 guards headed by an ex-Army colonel, William J. E. Keish, who is superintendent of the prison.

Inmates follow a prison routine which includes educational and vocational training and has a strong emphasis on psychotherapy. There is individual psychiatric treatment for those most in need of it, but because of a limited staff group therapy is the most common type.

Inmates assemble in groups of eight or ten, with a staff member serving as counselor, and air their individual problems.

"The patient can spread his anxieties over the group," Dr. Boslow explains. "What his equals think of him becomes very important."

When an inmate is paroled—there have been 54 freed so far—the institution keeps in close touch with him. A case worker visits him at home. The parolee also returns once a week to the institution's out-patient clinic to discuss his progress and problems.

So far Patuxent's rate of relapses by prisoners after parole or release is running less than 80 per cent compared to a national average of 70 per cent for ordinary penal institutions.

Guide To Good Reading

The fall publishing season is in full swing and many interesting books are arriving at the Ouachita Parish Public Library each day. More and more people are using the Library and we are doing our best to supply the material which the public needs and wants. People of Ouachita Parish read more books than in most of the large communities of the state. According to a compilation of Public Library Statistics recently released by the Louisiana State Library. There are seven Parishes in Louisiana serving a population of more than 100,000 people through their public libariers. In these seven Parishes the average number of adult books read per year was 1.97 books per person. In Ouachita the average was 2.35 books per person and was only exceeded by Jefferson Parish where the average was 2.47 per person. The average number of juvenile books read per person was 7.64. In Ouachita 8-42 were read by the juvenile population. This number was again exceeded by Jefferson with 11.77 and by Caddo with 9.43. These figures are especially interesting when we note that Jefferson Parish, with twice the population of Ouachita has five times the annual income that the Ouachita Parish Public Library does.

An interesting book of fiction, for which we have had many requests is "The Carpetbaggers" by Robbins. This book is well-written and deals with many of the problems of the present day.

An old favorite in the fiction field has been replaces as most of the library copies had worn out. It is "Magnificent Obsession" by Lloyd C. Douglas. People who have had trouble getting a copy of this will be happy to know that there is now a new copy in each branch of the Library.

John R. Pierce is the author of a very fine new book in the science of communication. It is called "Symbols, Signals and Noise" and will be most useful. Those entering the field of newspaper work will be happy to know that we have a new book called "How to Report and Write the news" written by Laurence R. Campbell. This is an excellent book and will be widely used. Copies of this book may be found in the main library, the West Monroe Library or the Anna Meyer Branch Library.

There has been so much discussion about the work of the United Nations that a new book on this subject is very timely. The library has on called "UN; the first fifteen years." It was written by Clark Eichelberger and contains much pertinent information. Books about the Real Estate business are always popular at the Library. The newest one is "Real Estate Principles and Practices" by Martin Preston.

Probably no group of books is as popular at the Library as those in the field of flower arrangement. Vera Tood Bayles is the author of a new book called Chrysanthemums Indoors" which should be most useful now as the Garden Club has a Chrysanthemum show coming up soon. A very practical book in the art field is "Basic Design: Principles ad Practice" by Kenneth Bates. It will be useful to many people in the design field.

A very interesting book is called "Cavalier and Yankee" written by William R. Taylor. This book is a study of the Old South and it's effect on American National Character. It brings out many of the basic differences between the two sections of the country and should also lead to a better understanding. "Home on the Double Bayou" is the title of a delightful book by Ralph Semmes Jackson. This book is a memoir of his early boyhood spent on an East Texas Ranch. An older book which we recently purchased because there were so many requests for it is "Spanish Borderlands" by Herbert E. Bolton. This is the story of early days in Florida and the Old Southwest.

Books dealing with every facet of the Civil War are constantly coming from the presses. The latest is "Blockade Runners of the Confederacy" by Hamilton Cochran. This is the exciting story of the men who risked their lives to bring in to the South many things which were unobtainable otherwise. Of course all of the bockade runners were not as glamous as Rhett Butler of "Gone With the Wind," but this book contains many good stories about them. Another Civil War book is a reprint of the book by David Strother Hunter called "A Virginia Yankee in the Civil War." It also makes interesting reading. A biographical account of an Indian girlhood is "Gists of Passage" by Santha Rama Rau and like all of her books, it is beautifully written.

Stamp News

The Bechuanaland Protectorate, a vast table of land covering some 275,000 square miles in South Africa, has issued a new set of 14 stamps.

The lower values depict some of the many-colored birds found in this tropical land. The higher values feature other pictorial subjects. All the stamps include a portrait of Queen Elizabeth II.

They are: 1 cent — Golden Oriole, 2 cents — African Hoopoe, 2½ cents — Scarlet Chested Sunbird, 3½ cents — Cape Widow-Bird, 5 cents — Cwallow-Tailed

Earlier this year the U.S. Post Office Department announced it was cooperating in the preparation of six condensed biographies of famous personages whose statements of ideals were featured on the American Credo series. The six brochures are now completed and available for sale. They are 5¼" x 7" with attractive colored covers, each bearing a portrait of the individual whose credo is quoted on the stamps. The six Credo stamps are for Washington, Lincoln, Jefferson, Franklin, Patrick Henry and Francis Scott Key. They are available at $1 for the six booklets or three sets for $2. Orders may be sent to Lindquist Publications, Inc., 153 Waverly Place, New York 14, N. Y.

INSERT INSERT

Stamp rarities still get their high prices. In the last 10 months Harmer, Rooke & Co., well known auctioneers, sold three copies of the U.S. 24-cent airmail invert for a total of $24,450. A New Jersey collector purchased one for $9,000. A New York dealer bought another for $7,250. A New England collector got the third for $9,200.

Argentina has issued two new stamps, each having the value of 2 pesos. One adhesive honors the 10th anniversary of the San Martin Base in the Argentine Antarctic and the other stamp pays tribute to the 400th anniversary of the founding of the city of Jujuy.

Austria has honored the International Banking Congress, which was held in Vienna on Sept. 18, with a special 3 schilling stamp. The design of this stamp features Mercury in front of the outlines of a world globe. Appropriate inscriptions frame the design.

RUNNING THE SCALES

Box Offices Open, Curtain Going Up

"Teahouse of the August Moon" will open at Strauss Playhouse Friday for the first event before local footlights this season. But other programs on the musical, dramatic and lecture series already have their shades up at their respective box offices.

Willy Ley, first speaker on the Northeast Concerts bill, will trace the fast moving history of rockets and missiles on Monday, October 23. Ley is a German born pioneer in that field.

By the way, Northeast and Louisiana Tech are both conducting fall membership campaigns for their despective series this year.

BRASS CHOIR

Organist Allison Salley at Monroe's Grace Episcopal Church has scheduled a performance by his choir at 4 p.m. today of Jan Bender's "Psalm 150." Bender's setting of the psalm includes a brass choir background of two trumpets, horn and two trombones along with the five part chorus. Bender is a young American composer, but the use of the brass choir with the voices dates back to the Middle Ages.

Also on the program will be two organ solos "Passacaglia and Fugue in C Minor," by Bach, and "Toccatta Prima Toni" by Sark. Salley and Mrs. Eugenia Palmer, assistant organist will be the respective performers.

With the 1961 - 62 season showing promise of putting a wealth of culture across the northeast Louisiana boards, a look into past Louisiana history reveals we are also running the risk of living in a "spoon-fed" age.

During the decade just before the Civil War, New Orleans was to the cotton and sugar growing areas of the South what Monroe is now to northeast Louisiana. The "big city" of about 150,000 population — at that time — reached for the cultural "moon" while its feet were still in the mud, literally.

Newspapers of the 1850's indicated a rivalry between New Orleans and New York, particularly in the field of opera. A writer in the Daily Delta proudly pointed to the fact that opera had long been an institution in New Orleans while in New York it had "failed."

The theatres and opera houses were not municipal buildings nor schoolhouses but represented daring private enterprise on the part of French and Anglo - Saxon managers. The sale of season tickets, membership and the idea that people should "support" rather than enjoy opera and symphonic music came decades later.

So powerful was the influence of the period in New Orleans until freed Negro slaves following the Civil War organized — not a Dixieland jazz band — but an all - Negro symphony orchestra.

Throughout the period 1850-60, the Orleans Theatre presented the works of the leading contemporary French composer, Jacob Meyerbeer. His "Le Propheet," composed in 1849, appeared on the Orleans stage nine times in 1850. The next season, the piece ran 15 performances. Italian operas composed by Verdi, Donizetti, Rosini also received lengthy runs in New Orleans within a few years after they were written.

Now, a century later, we have to wait until a musical comedy makes a name on Broadway before we shoot for a local production. As for opera, who wrote one last year, in Paris or elsewhere?

Of course, it took more than "Silver Spoon" Butler and his New Orleans carpetbaggers to knock the glitter off the South's culture capital. Transportation improved, and people going to the city on business could leave sooner. This meant less leisure — or free time while waiting for the river boat to head back up the Mississippi. So the opera and other theatres ceased to be a place to spend time — a commodity available in those years.

What's missing now? Why can't a box office sell out a two - week run of a serious opera or even a musical comedy in a city the size of Shreveport or two or three nights in Monroe? There are probably lots of reasons. One is a lack of imagination in the field of music itself. Today's composers tend to be too scholarly; the managers are unwilling to risk something "off the beaten track," and the audiences are caught somewhere in between.

There are occasional sparks of hope. Ziv Maver, a Romanian refugee who struck it rich in Tijuana, Mexico, tried to serve Beethoven string quartets and other high culture with steaks and mixed drinks. He went broke in Tijuana. But we can't say he lacked imagination.

The Soviet 'Mein Kampf'

The following article is of so much importance, we are printing it in full. It is an analysis prepared by a United States expert of Nikita Khrushchev's January 6, 1961 "Mein Kampf speech." The analysis is by Dr. Stefan T. Possony, international politics professor at the graduate school of Georgetown University. He described the Soviet Premier's January speech as "one of the most outspoken and significent statements by a leading Communist in recent times." Dr. Possony's analysis was prepared for the Senate internal security subcommittee. The following, which was passed on to us by our good friend, Robert H. Evans, vice president and general manager at Olin, is in full Dr. Possony's summary and conclusions which cover well all the points made in his lengthy and scholarly statement.

By Dr. Stefan T. Possony

I now want to summarize my interpretation of Khrushchev's speech:

1. This speech, together with the parties of Nov. 1960, has disclosed Communist strategy as it will be employed for the next five years or so.

2. The traditional goal of communism, the conquest of the entire world, is not only reaffirmed but is held far more strongly and hopefully than in the past. It is "unthinkable" that the Communists will abandon their goal of world domination regardless of the price they have to pay. They are willing to pay any price to attain their objective.

3. The Communists probably are honestly convinced that they are invincible (a) because of the alleged predetermination of history, (b) because of their combined military-political strength, (c) because of their anticipated military superiority, and (d) because of the anticipated demoralization of the free world.

4. Communist strategy has become more sophisticated than it under Stalin.

5. The Communists believe that the final decision in the world struggle, and specifically the victory of world communism, will be attained in the present era of history. In their conception, this era seems to extend to 1975, approximately.

6. Armed struggle is inevitable. Such specific forms of armed struggle as liberation wars, uprisings, and "pressure from below" also are inevitable.

7. A global thermonuclear war is not entirely inevitable. If the free world, and especially the strongest domestic countries like the United States capitulate, then such a war may be avoided. However, while preferable, such a development is unlikely.

8. The Communist parties in the free world and their sympathizers must do everything in their power to facilitate blackmail by the Soviet Union and to prevent military resistance by the free world.

9. The Soviet Union and the Soviet bloc must not leave any stone unturned to increase their military power in order to fight the probable (albeit not inevitable) world war and to win a global thermonuclear conflict.

10. For the time being, such conflict must be avoided. The turning point in history will come when the Soviet Union overtakes the United States, some time between 1965 and 1970. Khrushchev talks as though he conceives this competition in terms of an "economic" production race. It is more likely that he is thinking about a race in military technology. Consequently, the great turning point in history will come when the Soviet Union, irrespective of per-capita production in industrial goods, achieves technologically superior armaments and attains a military force which, qualitatively and quantitatively, will be superior to the military forces of the United States. If necessary, this force will be employed in the second phase of the current era.

11. In the first phase, the armed struggle will mostly take the form of liberation wars and uprisings, plus deterrence by nuclear blackmail, on the part of the Soviets, of any military initiatives undertaken by the free world.

12. Also in this first phase the struggle must be intensified on the "active fronts in the underdeveloped areas." In particular, it must be pushed in Latin America.

13. In this phase, strong efforts will be made to improve the effectiveness of uprisings. Henceforth uprisings will be planned as major military undertakings. The insurrectionists will be properly trained and be armed with the most modern equipment. They will be provided with strategic support and power by Soviet nuclear long-range forces, under a coordinated strategy. International crises, such as threats of war and war alerts, may be exploited to launch insurrections.

14. The achievement of a military, political and psychological paralysis of the free world is a paramount objective of Soviet strategy.

15. This objective can be attained by such means as peace propaganda, Pavlovian conditioning, infiltration, threats and diplomatic negotiations.

16. Propaganda on disarmament, specifically nuclear disarmament and disarmament negotiations, are an integral part of the Soviet strategy aimed at paralyzing the free world and strengthening the power of communism.

17. Soviet strategy is based, on the one hand, on achieving optimal military power and building and strengthening Communist political armies throughout the free world. On the other hand, Soviet strategy utilizes massive deception to bring about, through (a) the unilateral military weakening of the free world, (b) the moral paralysis of free world governments, and (c) the demoralization of public opinion, the capitulation of the United States.

18. Failing in this strategy, the Soviet intends to destroy the United States by nuclear weapons.

I would like to conclude by voicing my conviction that however sophisticated this current Soviet strategy may be, it is not sophisticated enough to accomplish Communist victory. The hybris of Khrushchev is reminiscent of Hitler and foreshadows his failure.

I am fortified in this belief by my realization that the course of history, contrary to Mr. Khrushchev's assumption, is not foreordained. The cause of freedom in history often was considered lost but usually good sense, prevailed after democratic hesitations and one after the other, the main threats to freedom were defeated.

Still, I am concerned that the Kremlin may have become overconfident, apparently is overrating Soviet power, and is inclined to underrate Western power and resolution.

There is no question but that free world policies are partially responsible for this dangerous frame of mind. Cockiness and cocksureness have been more frequent causes of war than a rational evaluation of risks, chances and purposes.

The errors of free world policies will not culminate in the destruction of freedom and of the democratic system of government.

But if we condition the Soviet leaders to expect final victory, even by "easy delivery," many millions of citizens all over the free world will pay with their limbs and lives.

To convince the Kremlin that we are not about to commit suicide, nor are going to tolerate our destruction, superior strength, sustained firmness, greater willingness to assume risks, and at long last greater comprehension of the real nature of the Communist threat, are mandatory. True to its traditions, the United States will prove worthy of its responsibilities.

Copies of Dr. Possony's full statement, plus text of the Khrushchev speech, have been printed in a pamphlet which may be obtained by writing the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C. Send 30 cents. Title of the pamphlet is "Analysis of the Khrushchev Speech of Jan. 6."

Shelby Pens Memorable 'Monster'

A matriarch often is a benevolent soul whose wisdom is a guiding light to her descendants and whose compassion is a golden blessing upon her children and grandchildren.

But in this story the matriarch is an overbearing female whose driving egotism devours her children completely. Her name was Gertrude Olivier Donner. Her initials were G. O. D., to signify the part she played in the lives of her children — Don, who wanted to be a musician, and having been frustrated by his mother became an alcoholic; Harlow, a girl who escaped extinction by seeking fruition in multiple marriages; and Larry, the spoiled brat who became a pervert.

Madame raised herself from the squalor of a French-Canadian shanty to the Rolls Royce munificence of a nationally syndicated columnist whose corny effusions were read by millions of females. She had tricked a simpleton of good family into marriage and then had wrecked the lives of her offspring by alternately neglecting them and ordering them about.

Because Madame is a thoroughly disgusting creature of her times, you cannot help but loathe her, but you have to concede that she was a woman of will — her own will.

Selby has written his story with skill. He leads you into it with a gradually expanding chronicle of Madame's early life and then caps it with Madame's three self - revealing sketches of her children. He has created a monster, but it is an engaging monster, and a memorable one.

A Newsman's Compendium Of Chuckles

In 50 years of elbow-rubbing (and often elbow-bending) with a glittering array of celebrities, septuagenarian Jack Wheeler has acquired a rich store of anecdotes. His book is a rich compendium of chuckles and reminiscences of that half century.

A newshound since his student days at Columbia, class of 1908, he became a baseball writer for the New York Herald and in 1911 one of the first ghost writers — preparing the Herald's stories on the World Series under the name of the great pitcher Christy Mathewson. Then he got into the newspaper syndicate business. (For the uninitiated, that means a service supplying special features, cartoons, columns, etc., to many newspapers.) For the past 30 years he has been a top official of the North American Newspaper Alliance.

There are anecdotes here that hark back to Richard Harding Davis, the early war correspondent, to Theodore Roosevelt and Pancho Villa. There are stories about many of the wits, cartoonists and sports figures over the years, including Ring Lardner, Bud Fisher and many others. Winstone Churchill and Ernest Hemingway, and theater figures all the way from the Ziegfeld Follies to Marilyn Monroe flit through these pages.

Wheeler knows how to be entertaining, and that is the whole effect of this book. You don't have to be a newsman or a celebrity to enjoy the way the author, loving life and relishing a good yarn, spills out the stories of a long career among some very engaging people.

Australia has about 50 species of kangaroos, ranging in size from the foot-long musky-rat kangaroo to the 7-foot-tall great grays and reds.

DAGUERREOTYPE, taken by an unknown photographer about 1850, reveals the permanence of the process. Picture is from the Northampton Historical Society collection and appears in "The Daguerreotype in America" by Beaumont Newhall.

Camera Notes

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

"Something old, something new; something borrowed . . . comes to you." This jingle, revised for camera fans, pops into mind as several new items in photography make an appearance.

The "something old" is the story of "The Daguerreotype in America" by Beaumont Newhall (Duell, Sloane & Peace, $12.50).

"Something new" in 35mm slide projection is the way in which the still pictures dissolve and blend smoothly together like lap dissolves in professional movies. It's accomplished by a two-eyed slide projector.

Finally, there's a portable darkroom kit in which the "something borrowed" was the idea of the old-style changing bag. It has been converted and modernized to make use of an airplane flight bag for the same purpose.

Beaumont Newhall is America's authority on the history of photography. Presently director of Eastman House in Rochester, N. Y., he has an impressive museum background. His scholarly associations and the ferreting instinct of a private eye were combined over a period of 14 years to search out his account of the art, industry and examples of daguerreotype in this country.

Its era in America was a short one. It began in 1839, flourished wildly in the 1850s and was obsolete within 20 years. But daguerreotypes were personal and precious and the process was permanant so they left a rich heritage. It is this almost-forgotten slice of Americana which Newhall has so thoroughly documented.

Key to the new slide projector, called the Tandem-Matic, are its two separate seven-element optical systems with a single 750-watt lamp serving both. Two lenses are focused on the same spot on the screen. The slide tray, holding 54 slides, has a left and a right side compartment for the twin optical systems. The slides are loaded alternately for proper sequence.

When slides are shown, synchronized blades gradually close the diamond-shaped iris of one lens while opening that of the other. The 1½-second changeover brings a smooth continuity which can be controlled from the projector or a pistol-grip remote unit.

The device to get camera fans interested in developing their own roll films by moving the darkroom into any spot of the fan's choosing is a Rollakit. It consists of a flight bag, a bottle of single-solution film processor, a roll film tank and two clips.

The bag is a portable darkroom. By inserting the hands through elasticised sleeves at either end of the bag, film is loaded into the tank in complete darkness. That done, the tank is removed and further operations are carried on in light.

The single-solution bottle neck threads into the tank. When inverted, the solution pours into the tank and in six minutes the film is developed and fixed. Inverted once again, the solution drains back into the bottle and is good for five more rolls of film.

The lid of the tank is removed, cold tap water washes the film for five minutes and it is hung up to dry.

With no need to worry about temperature, processing can be done while you are watching television, at a vacation resort, camping or traveling by plane or train. For anyone wanting to get their hands back into darkroom work, this is the portable answer.

MARYLAND'S ANSWER

To The Crime Of Compulsion

EDITORS NOTE—In the wake of nearly every brutal crime of compulsion, there's a great public outcry: why was this criminal permitted to walk the streets? Maryland is not only taking potential criminals off the streets, but helping them regain mental health.

By HERB THOMPSON

JESSUP, MD. (AP) — The jury was skeptical.

The young man before them had never committed anything more serious than larceny and was serving 18 months in the House of Correction.

The psychiatrist recommended, in effect, that the jury ignore the sentence and commit Clayton Breeding to Maryland's Patuxent Institution as a defective delinquent for an indefinite period—until cured.

"This man is dangerous," said Dr. Harold Boslow,, Patuxent's director. "He is definitely criminally inclined. In my opinion, if he is released, he will commit serious crime in six months."

The jurors were unconvinced. Breeding was returned to finish his regular sentence.

Two months after his release, Breeding got drunk. He stopped at the home of a pregnant young bride, forced her into a car, took her out in the woods and strangled her. He was convicted of first-degree murder, sentenced to life imprisonment.

At Patuxent, under the day-to-day supervision of a highly specialized staff, his compulsions might have been brought under control. His victim might be alive today.

They would rather tell you about Ralph X, a man in his mid-30s who came to the psychiatric prison several years ago with a much worse criminal record—numerous counts of burglary, larceny and carrying a concealed weapon, non-support of his wife and children, grave anti-social tendencies.

Within two years after his commitment, he was paroled. He is now an upstanding citizen, working at a skilled trade learned at Patuxent, supporting his wife and children, helping find jobs for former inmates paroled from the institution.

Another inmate, nearing release, plans to go to college. Others are working at part-time jobs, returning to the institution at night until they can win the step-by-step approval necessary to return to society.

All had one thing in common along with present inmates of Patuxent: the potential of committing dangerous criminal acts through impulses which they apparently could not control. The law calls these men defective delinquents.

"The courts are very cooperative," Dr. Boslow says. "Our judges have shown remarkable ability in selecting the individuals they send here for examination."

Sometimes, as in the case of Breeding, the institution's recommendation is rejected by a judge or jury. Most often, it is accepted.

The law has withstood repeated challenges of its constitutionality.

Patuxent's professional staff includes five fulltime psychiatrists, two psychologists and a director of social work. The institution has a custodial force of 127 guards headed by an ex-Army colonel, William J. E. Keish, who is superintendent of the prison.

Inmates follow a prison routine which includes educational and vocational training and has a strong emphasis on psychotherapy. There is individual psychiatric treatment for those most in need of it, but because of a limited staff group therapy is the most common type.

Inmates assemble in groups of eight or ten, with a staff member serving as counselor, and air their individual problems.

"The patient can spread his anxieties over the group," Dr. Boslow explains. "What his equals think of him becomes very important."

When an inmate is paroled—there have been 54 freed so far—the institution keeps in close touch with him. A case worker visits him at home. The parolee also returns once a week to the institution's out-patient clinic to discuss his progress and problems.

So far Patuxent's rate of relapses by prisoners after parole or release is running less than 50 per cent compared to a national average of 70 per cent for ordinary penal institutions.

Guide To Good Reading

The fall publishing season is in full swing and many interesting books are arriving at the Ouachi Parish Public Library each day. More and more people are using the Library and we are doing our best to supply the material which the public needs and wants. People of Ouachita Parish read more books than in most of the large communities of the state. According to a compilation of Public Library Statistics recently released by the Louisiana State Library. There are seven Parishes in Louisiana serving a population of more than 100,000 people through their public libariers. In these seven Parishes the average number of adult books read per year was 1.97 books per person. In Ouachita the average was 2.35 books per person and was only exceeded by Jefferson Parish where the average was 2.47 per person. The average number of juvenile books read per person was 7.64. In Ouachita 8-42 were read by the juvenile population. This number was again exceeded by Jefferson with 11.77 and by Caddo with 9.43. These figures are especially interesting when we note that Jefferson Parish, with twice the population of Ouachita has five times the annual income that the Ouachita Parish Public Library does.

An interesting book of fiction, for which we have had many requests is "The Carpetbaggers" by Robbins. This book is well-written and deals with many of the problems of the present day.

An old favorite in the fiction field has been replaces as most of the library copies had worn out. It is "Magnificent Obsession" by Lloyd C. Douglas. People who have had trouble getting a copy of this will be happy to know that there is now a new copy in each branch of the Library.

John R. Pierce is the author of a very fine new book in the science of communication. It is called "Symbols, Signals and Noise" and will be most useful. Those entering the field of newspaper work will be happy to know that we have a new book called "How to Report and Write the news" written by Laurence R. Campbell. This is an excellent book and will be widely used. Copies of this book may be found in the main library, the West Monroe Library or the Anna Meyer Branch Library.

There has been so much discussion about the work of the United Nations that a new book on this subject is very timely. The library has on called "UN; the first fifteen years." It was written by Clark Eichelberger and contains much pertinent information. Books about the Real Estate business are always popular at the Library. The newest one is "Real Estate Principles and Practices" by Martin Preston.

Probably no group of books is as popular at the Library as those in the field of flower arrangement. Vera Tood Bayles is the author of a new book called Chrysanthemums Indoors" which should be most useful now as the Garden Club has a Chrysanthemum show coming up soon. A very practical book in the art field is "Basic Design; Principles ad Practice" by Kenneth Bates. It will be useful to many people in the design field.

A very interesting book is called "Cavalier and Yankee" written by William R. Taylor. This book is a study of the Old South and it's effect on American National Character. It brings out many of the basic differences between the two sections of the country and should also lead to a better understanding. "Home on the Double Bayou" is the title of a delightful book by Ralph Semmes Jackson. This book is a memoir of his early boyhood spent on an East Texas Ranch. An older book which we recently purchased because there were so many requests for it is "Spanish Borderlands" by Herbert E. Bolton. This is the story of early days in Florida and the Old Southwest.

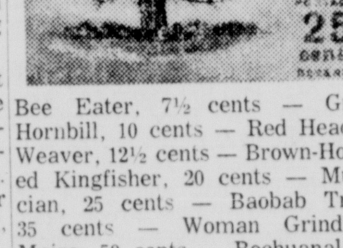
Books dealing with every facet of the Civil War are constantly coming from the presses. The latest is "Blockade Runners of the Confederacy" by Hamilton Cochran. This is the exciting story of the men who risked their lives to bring in to the South many things which were unobtainable otherwise. Of course all of the bockade runners were not as glamous as Rhett Butler of "Gone With the Wind," but this book contains many good stories about them. Another Civil War book is a reprint of the book by David Strother Hunter called "A Virginia Yankee in the Civil War." It also makes interesting reading. A biographical account of an Indian girlhood is "Gists of Passage" by Santha Rama Rau and like all of her books, it is beautifully written.

Stamp News

The Bechuanaland Protectorate, a vast table of land covering some 275,000 square miles in South Africa, has issued a new set of 14 stamps.

The lower values depict some of the many-colored birds found in this tropical land. The higher values feature other pictorial subjects. All the stamps include a portrait of Queen Elizabeth II.

They are: 1 cent — Golden Oriole, 2 cents — African Hoopoe, 2½ cents — Scarlet Chested Sunbird, 3½ cents — Cape Widow-Bird, 5 cents — Cwallow-Tailed Bee Eater, 7½ cents — Grey Hornbill, 10 cents — Red Headed Weaver, 12½ cents — Brown-Hooded Kingfisher, 20 cents — Musician, 25 cents — Baobab Tree, 35 cents — Woman Grinding Maize, 50 cents — Bechuanaland Ox, 1 rand — Lion, 2 rands — Kalahari Policeman on Camel Patrol.



Earlier this year the U.S. Post Office Department announced it was cooperating in the preparation of six condensed biographies of famous personages whose statements of ideals were featured on the American Credo series. The six brochures are now completed and available for sale. They are 5¼" x 7" with attractive colored covers, each bearing a portrait of the individual whose credo is quoted on the stamps. The six Credo stamps are for Washington, Lincoln, Jefferson, Franklin, Patrick Henry and Francis Scott Key. They are available at $1 for the six booklets or three sets for $2. Orders may be sent to Lindquist Publications, Inc., 153 Waverly Place, New York 14, N. Y.

INSERT INSERT

Stamp rarities still get their high prices. In the last 10 months Harmer, Rooke & Co., well known auctioneers, sold three copies of the U.S. 24-cent airmail invert for a total of $24,450. A New Jersey collector purchased one for $9,000. A New York dealer bought another for $7,250. A New England collector got the third for $9,200.

Argentina has issued two new stamps, each having the value of 2 pesos. One adhesive honors the 10th anniversary of the San Martin Base in the Argentine Antarctic and the other stamp pays tribute to the 400th anniversary of the founding of the city of Jujuy.

Austria has honored the International Banking Congress, which was held in Vienna on Sept. 18, with a special 3 schilling stamp. The design of this stamp features Mercury in front of the outlines of a world globe. Appropriate inscriptions frame the design.

RUNNING THE SCALES

Box Offices Open, Curtain Going Up

"Teahouse of the August Moon" will open at Strauss Playhouse Friday for the first event before local footlights this season. But other programs on the musical, dramatic and lecture series already have their shades up at their respective box offices.

Willy Ley, first speaker on the Northeast Concerts bill, will trace the fast moving history of rockets and missiles on Monday, October 23. Ley is a German born pioneer in that field.

By the way, Northeast and Louisiana Tech are both conducting fall membership campaigns for their despective series this year.

BRASS CHOIR

Organist Allison Salley at Monroe's Grace Episcopal Church has scheduled a performance by his choir at 4 p.m. today of Jan Bender's "Psalm 150." Bender's setting of the psalm includes a brass choir background of two trumpets, horn and two trombones along with the five part chorus. Bender is a young American composer, but the use of the brass choir with the voices dates back to the Middle Ages.

Also on the program will be two organ solos: "Passacaglia and Fugue in C Minor," by Bach, and "Toccatta Prima Toni" by Sark. Salley and Mrs. Eugenia Palmer, assistant organist will be the respective performers.

With the 1961 - 62 season showing promise of putting a wealth of culture across the northeast Louisiana boards, a look into past Louisiana history reveals we are also running the risk of living in a "spoon-fed" age.

During the decade just before the Civil War, New Orleans was to the cotton and sugar growing areas of the South what Monroe is now to northeast Louisiana. The "big city" of about 150,000 population — at that time — reached for the cultural "moon" while its feet were still in the mud, literally.

Newspapers of the 1850's indicated a rivalry between New Orleans and New York, particularly in the field of opera. A writer in the Daily Delta proudly pointed to the fact that opera had long been an institution in New Orleans while in New York it had "failed."

The theatres and opera houses were not municipal buildings nor schoolhouses but represented daring private enterprise on the part of French and Anglo - Saxon managers. The sale of season tickets, memberships and the idea that people should "support" rather than enjoy opera and symphonic music came decades later.

So powerful was the influence of the period in New Orleans until freed Negro slaves following the Civil War organized — not a Dixieland jazz band — but an all - Negro symphony orchestra.

Throughout the period 1850-60, the Orleans Theatre presented the works of the leading contemporary French composer, Jacob Meyerbeer. His "Le Propheet," composed in 1849, appeared on the Orleans stage nine times in 1850. The next season, the piece ran 15 performances. Italian operas composed by Verdi, Donizetti, Rosini also received lengthy runs in New Orleans within a few years after they were written.

Now, a century later, we have to wait until a musical comedy makes a name on Broadway before we shoot for a local production. As for opera, who wrote one last year, in Paris or elsewhere?

Of course, it took more than "Silver Spoon" Butler and his New Orleans carpetbaggers to knock the glitter off the South's culture capital. Transportation improved, and people going to the city on business could leave sooner. This meant less leisure — or free time while waiting for the river boat to head back up the Mississippi. So the opera and other theatres ceased to be a place to spend time — a commodity available in those years.

What's missing now? Why can't a box office sell out a two - week run of a serious opera or even a musical comedy in a city the size of Shreveport or two or three nights in Monroe? There are probably lots of reasons. One is a lack of imagination in the field of music itself. Today's composers tend to be too scholarly; the managers are unwilling to risk something "off the beaten track," and the audiences are caught somewhere in between.

There are occasional sparks of hope. Ziv Maver, a Romanian refuee who struck it rich in Tijuana, Mexico, tried to serve Beethoven string quartets and other high culture with steaks and mixed drinks. He went broke in Tijuana. But we can't say he lacked imagination.

Tribe Boots Opportunities For GSC Loss

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Writer

In a nightmarish game when nothing could go right the Northeast State Indians met defeat once again at the hands of the McNeese State Cowboys. It just wasn't meant to be last night as the Indians struggled with both a tough Cowboy defense and their own offensive mistakes to go two down in conference play, this time by a 7-0 score.

	Northeast	McNeese
FD	11	16
Yards Rushing	[illegible]	237
Passes Att. & Com.	[illegible]	6-0
Yards Passing	[illegible]	0
Passes Interc. By	[illegible]	1
Fumbles		1
Fumbles Lost	2	0
Punts Average	6-[illegible]	5-38.2
Penalties	[illegible]	4-15

Although the final statistics showed the Indians losing two fumbles, completing only two of nine and having one intercepted, this was still short of the true picture as time after time poor ball handling plus penalties at the wrong time sent the Tribe crashing to defeat.

The most severe mistake the Indians made came mid-way in the second quarter. After holding the Cowboys on downs on the Indians nine yardline Northeast took over and in three quick plays shot the ball out to the 36 yard line for a first and 10 situation.

Then after a gain of four yards on the first play, the stage was set for what turned out to be a play of tragedy. Speed demon halfback Ken Newton took a handoff on the left side of the line, burst through an opening, and on a beautiful run, scampered 60 yards for what should have given the Indians the inning touchdown. But a clipping penalty was called at the McNeese 32, and the ball was brought back to the 47-yard line.

From there the Indians failed to get started again, and finally kicked out of bounds on the McNeese 23.

The brightest spot in an otherwise dismal night for the Indians was the fine all-around play of fullback Willie Ragan. Besides his ball-hawking defensive play, Wild Willie ran, fought, and plowed his way for 90 yards on 14 carries.

In Northeast's most threating drive of the night it was Ragan who came up with a 25 yard dash to keep the Indians marching. All during the game when the Tribe needed important yardage Ragan was the man in motion and usually got the needed amount.

For the Cowboys it was quarterback Nolan Viator, playing for the injured Don Breaux, and fullback Don Bossier who provided the offensive spark.

Viator scored the only touchdown of the night and called an outstanding game for the Cowboys.

Bossier was the big gun in the rushing department for McNeese as he ground out 107 yards on 19 tries.

FIRST HALF

The Indians took the opening kickoff on the 15 and after an eleven yard return to the 26 set up operation. Willie Ragan picked up three to the 29 on first down, and then Myrick four more to the 33. On third Ragan carried again and picked up Northeast's first, first down on a three yard plunge to the 36.

On first down Ragan caried again and picked up five, but on the next play Myrick fumbled and the play lost back to the 33. Then on third down Don Blackwelder quick-kicked to the Cowboys 35.

From there McNeese put in motion the only scoring drive of the night. The drive to paydirt covered 65 yards and consumed 13 plays.

On the first play fullback Don Bossier hitting quick on an off tackle play, made 11 yards to give the Cowboys a first on the 46.

From there on, the Cowboys ate up the yards deliberately, grounding out three more first downs before scoring.

Bossier did most of the damage as he caried five times for nearly half of the yardage. Viator chipped in with a couple of big plays, the most important coming on a fourth and two situation when he went three yards to give Cowboys a first and ten on the Indian 29.

Viator finally scored on a four yard scamper around left end with 6:10 seconds remaining in the first quarter. Billy Dore booted the extra point and McNeese had its seven points.

Only other serious threat in the half came after the Cowboys recovered an Indian fumble on the 30 and advanced to Northeast nine before Blackwelder came up with a fine tackle on fourth down to stop the drive.

SECOND HALF

The second half started off like it would be "Katy bar the door" for the Indians as the Cowboys took the opening kickoff and promptly started a 14 play drive which carried down to the 10 yardline.

Again it was Bossier who lead the way, aided by halfback Lloyd Guilot as the Cowboys marched 66 yards before being stalled. And again it was Blackwelder to the rescue for the Indians as he batted down a fourth down pass on the goal line to give Northeast the ball.

For the rest of the third quarter and most of the fourth it was topsy turvey as neither team could muster much of a scoring threat.

With a little under four minutes remaining in the game Northeast got possession of the ball on their own 20 after a Cowboy punt was downed in the end zone.

For the next 11 plays the Indians looked like they came to play ball as they covered 54 yards mostly on the ground before losing the ball when defensive halfback Charlie Stevenson intercepted a Myrick pass in the end zone with 2:00 remaining.

The outstanding run on the drive was by Newton when he raced 27 yards from his 35 to the McNeese 38 before being hauled down from behind.

From there the Indians went 12 yards, on a two yard run by Ragan, and a 10 yard pass from Wattigny to Gene Harbert, for a first on the 26.

After two incomplete passes the bottom fell out when Stevenson intercepted the third down pass to give the Cowboys the ball for good.

FIRST TULANE WIN

Greenie Second Half Punch Tops Virginia Tech, 27-14

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Halfback Gordon Rush, long touted as a great runner, rolled up 110 yards for Tulane Saturday night as the Green Wave registered its first victory of the season by trimming Virginia Tech 27-14.

Rush, a 200-pound junior from Baton Rouge, scored one touchdown on a march in which he accounted for 3[illegible] of 63 yards.

Quarterback Ted Miller cracked over left tackle for another Tulane touchdown and passed to fullback Billy Ary on a 7-yard scoring play. The final Greenie Marker came in the final stanza with sophomore Donnie Cotten splashing over right tackle for 5 yards. End Charles Connell booted the three Tulane conversions.

Tech scored in the second quarter on a 3-yard plunge by quarterback Warren Price and led 7-6 at the halftime before Tulane's superior manpower took its toll. Price passed to quarterback Terry Strock in the fourth period for the final Tech tally. Aster Sizemore kicked the extra point.

Tulane scored after taking the opening kickoff on the 2-yard line and returning it to its own 18. With Rush and Cotten running and Miller passing, the Greenies rolled 82 yards in the next 14 plays and Miller capped the drive on a 2-yard spurt. Tech's Buddy Terry blocked the conversion attempt.

The Gobblers lost little time getting back into the game and went 35 yards for their touchdown. Price slid over tackle for the tally and Tech took a 7-6 lead.

In the opening minutes of the third period, Tulane struck again with a 46-yard pass from Miller to Cotten setting up the scoring play. Miller tossed to Ary on a weird pass play which at first looked like Miller would be thrown for a long loss but finally found Ary in the open.

Roland Jackson Leads Rice Win

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Rice University backed up the power running of Roland Jackson with three pass interceptions Saturday night as the Owls knocked Florida from the ranks of the undefeated, 19-10.

Two of the interceptions paved the way for a touchdown and a field goal for Rice and the third stopped Florida in the fourth period as the Gators threatened to take the lead a third time.

Jackson scored touchdowns on short plunges of two and three yards as he pulled Rice from behind in the second and fourth periods. The scoring drives covered 68 and 53 yards and Jacksons' power covered 68 of them in 10 carries.

Arlington State Squeezes Past Louisiana Tech, 8-7

The final score read Arlington State 8, La. Tech 7.

Tech led 7-0 up until the final four minutes when a Mickey Slaughter pass went astray and was nabbed by Rebel halfback Ronnie Southerland to set up the go ahead talley.

An Arlington pass - play produced the score and the Rebels gambled on the two-point conversion and won.

The extra point play was a pass too.

Slaughter's pass was picked off by Southerland at the Bulldog 41. He lateraled to halfback Jessie McQuire who carried down to Tech's seven.

Arlington lined up for an extra point kick try, faked it and Anz tossed to halfback Douglas Hart in the corner of the end zone.

With four minutes left to play Tech took the kickoff and set sail for Arlington's goal for a last minute catch-up win as they have so many times in the past.

Slaughter, the incomparable Bulldog quarterback was at the helm and he completed five straight passes to move the ball from Tech's 35 to the Rebel 30.

But this time the clutch play failed and that was the game.

It was the first defeat for the Bulldogs after three wins and left them and Arlington with identical 3-1 wins. The Rebels lost to powerful Mississippi Southern in their opener.

Last year Tech won five of their eight victories in the last two minutes.

Slaughter, as usual, was Tech's top passer, hitting eight of 15 attempts for 72 yards.

Tech halfback Paul Labenne led their rushing efforts with 40 yards in 14 carries.

Anz hit three of three for Arlington for 29 yards and paced their ground game with 48 yards in 11 trips.

The play covered nine yards and capped a 73-yard drive that took 20 plays.

Alexander toed the PAT to give Tech a 7-0 lead with four minutes to play in the opening quarter.

And that's the way it stood until deep in the fourth quarter when Arlington was handed its big opportunity and took advantage of it.

Stovall Leads Way With 2 Touchdowns

By BOB MCHUGH

The losing Gamecocks of the Atlantic Coast Conference could not cope with the brilliant running of Jerry Stovall and Jimmy Field and the alert play of such linemen as tackle Bob Richards who set up two touchdowns with fumble recoveries.

The first LSU score came in the opening period when Jim Costen's pitchout to Billy Gambrell bobbled free and was smothered by Richards on the South Carolina 12.

Burly Bo Campbell slammed his way from there to the 3. After three futile rushes Earl Gros collected the required several inches for the touchdown.

The other second period LSU touchdown drive started on the LSU 43. Gains through the line by Stovall and Gros helped push the ball to South Carolina's 3[illegible] Field hit Stovall with a pass and a line plunge pushed the ball to the Gamecock 17. Stovall then swept around end, threaded his way through tacklers and moved into the end zone.

Although the final statistics showed the Indians losing two fumbles, completing only two of nine and having one intercepted, this was still short of the true picture as time after time poor ball handling plus penalties at the wrong time sent the Tribe crashing to defeat.

The most severe mistake the Indians made came mid-way in the second quarter. After holding the Cowboys on downs on the Indians nine yardline Northeast took over and in three quick plays shot the ball out to the 36 yard line for a first and 10 situation.

Then after a gain of four yards on the first play, the stage was set for what turned out to be a play of tragedy. Speed demon halfback Ken Newton took a handoff on the left side of the line, burst through an opening, and on a beautiful run, scampered 60 yards for what should have given the Indians the inning touchdown. But a clipping penalty was called at the McNeese 32, and the ball was brought back to the 47-yard line.

From there the Indians failed to get started again, and finally kicked out of bounds on the McNeese 23.

The brightest spot in an otherwise dismal night for the Indians was the fine all-around play of fullback Willie Ragan. Besides his ball-hawking defensive play, Wild Willie ran, fought, and plowed his way for 90 yards on 14 carries.

In Northeast's most threating drive of the night it was Ragan who came up with a 25 yard dash to keep the Indians marching. All during the game when the Tribe needed important yardage Ragan was the man in motion and usually got the needed amount.

For the Cowboys it was quarterback Nolan Viator, playing for the injured Don Breaux, and fullback Don Bossier who provided the offensive spark.

Viator scored the only touchdown of the night and called an outstanding game for the Cowboys.

Bossier was the big gun in the rushing department for McNeese as he ground out 107 yards on 19 tries.

FIRST HALF

The Indians took the opening kickoff on the 15 and after an eleven yard return to the 26 set up operation. Willie Ragan picked up three to the 29 on first down, and then Myrick four more to the 33. On third Ragan carried again and picked up Northeast's first, first down on a three yard plunge to the 36.

On first down Ragan caried again and picked up five, but on the next play Myrick fumbled and the play lost back to the 33. Then on third down Don Blackwelder quick-kicked to the Cowboys 35.

From there McNeese put in motion the only scoring drive of the night. The drive to paydirt covered 65 yards and consumed 13 plays.

On the first play fullback Don Bossier hitting quick on an off tackle play, made 11 yards to give the Cowboys a first on the 46.

From there on, the Cowboys ate up the yards deliberately, grounding out three more first downs before scoring.

Bossier did most of the damage as he caried five times for nearly half of the yardage. Viator chipped in with a couple of big plays, the most important coming on a fourth and two situation when he went three yards to give Cowboys a first and ten on the Indian 29.

Viator finally scored on a four yard scamper around left end with 6:10 seconds remaining in the first quarter. Billy Dore booted the extra point and McNeese had its seven points.

Only other serious threat in the half came after the Cowboys recovered an Indian fumble on the 30 and advanced to Northeast nine before Blackwelder came up with a fine tackle on fourth down to stop the drive.

SECOND HALF

The second half started off like it would be "Katy bar the door" for the Indians as the Cowboys took the opening kickoff and promptly started a 14 play drive which carried down to the 10 yardline.

Again it was Bossier who lead the way, aided by halfback Lloyd Guilot as the Cowboys marched 66 yards before being stalled. And again it was Blackwelder to the rescue for the Indians as he batted down a fourth down pass on the goal line to give Northeast the ball.

For the rest of the third quarter and most of the fourth it was topsy turvey as neither team could muster much of a scoring threat.

With a little under four minutes remaining in the game Northeast got possession of the ball on their own 20 after a Cowboy punt was downed in the end zone.

For the next 11 plays the Indians looked like they came to play ball as they covered 54 yards mostly on the ground before losing the ball when defensive halfback Charlie Stevenson intercepted a Myrick pass in the end zone with 2:00 remaining.

The outstanding run on the drive was by Newton when he raced 27 yards from his 35 to the McNeese 38 before being hauled down from behind.

From there the Indians went 12 yards, on a two yard run by Ragan, and a 10 yard pass from Wattigny to Gene Harbert, for a first on the 26.

After two incomplete passes the bottom fell out when Stevenson intercepted the third down pass to give the Cowboys the ball for good.

Stovall Leads Way With 2 Touchdowns

By BOB MCHUGH

The losing Gamecocks of the Atlantic Coast Conference could not cope with the brilliant running of Jerry Stovall and Jimmy Field and the alert play of such linemen as tackle Bob Richards who set up two touchdowns with fumble recoveries.

The first LSU score came in the opening period when Jim Costen's pitchout to Billy Gambrell bobbled free and was smothered by Richards on the South Carolina 12.

Burly Bo Campbell slammed his way from there to the 3. After three futile rushes Earl Gros collected the required several inches for the touchdown.

The other second period LSU touchdown drive started on the LSU 43. Gains through the line by Stovall and Gros helped push the ball to South Carolina's 3[illegible] Field hit Stovall with a pass and a line plunge pushed the ball to the Gamecock 17. Stovall then swept around end, threaded his way through tacklers and moved into the end zone.

LSU scored in the third period on a drive that carried from its 18. Wendell Harris covered the final yard after good ground gains by Stovall and a series of sharp passes from Field.

The Southeastern Conference Tigers notched their fifth touchdown in the final period after an interception by Harris. The score came on a 3-yard plunge by Campbell.

Greenie Second Half Punch Tops Virginia Tech, 27-14

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Halfback Gordon Rush, long touted as a great runner, rolled up 110 yards for Tulane Saturday night as the Green Wave registered its first victory of the season by trimming Virginia Tech 27-14.

Rush, a 200-pound junior from Baton Rouge, scored one touchdown on a march in which he accounted for 35 of 63 yards.

Quarterback Ted Miller cracked over left tackle for another Tulane touchdown and passed to fullback Billy Ary on a 7-yard scoring play. The final Greenie Marker came in the final stanza with sophomore Donnie Cotten splashing over right tackle for 5 yards. End Charles Connell booted the three Tulane conversions.

Tech scored in the second quarter on a 3-yard plunge by quarterback Warren Price and led 7-6 at the halftime before Tulane's superior manpower took its toll. Price passed to quarterback Terry Strock in the fourth period for the final Tech tally. Aster Sizemore kicked the extra point.

Tulane scored after taking the opening kickoff on the 2-yard line and returning it to its own 18. With Rush and Cotten running and Miller passing, the Greenies rolled 82 yards in the next 14 plays and Miller capped the drive on a 2-yard spurt. Tech's Buddy Terry blocked the conversion attempt.

The Gobblers lost little time getting back into the game and went 35 yards for their touchdown. Price slid over tackle for the tally and Tech took a 7-6 lead.

In the opening minutes of the third period, Tulane struck again with a 46-yard pass from Miller to Cotten setting up the scoring play. Miller tossed to Ary on a weird pass play which at first looked like Miller would be thrown for a long loss but finally found Ary in the open.

Arlington State Squeezes Past Louisiana Tech, 8-7

The final score read Arlington State 8, La. Tech 7.

Tech led 7-0 up until the final four minutes when a Mickey Slaughter pass went astray and was nabbed by Rebel halfback Ronnie Southerland to set up the go ahead talley.

An Arlington pass - play produced the score and the Rebels gambled on the two-point conversion and won.

The extra point play was a pass too.

Slaughter's pass was picked off by Southerland at the Bulldog 41. He lateraled to halfback Jessie McQuire who carried down to Tech's seven.

Arlington lined up for an extra-point kick try, faked it and Anz tossed to halfback Douglas Hart in the corner of the end zone.

With four minutes left to play Tech took the kickoff and set sail for Arlington's goal for a last minute catch-up win as they have so many times in the past.

Slaughter, the incomparable Bulldog quarterback was at the helm and he completed five straight passes to move the ball from Tech's 35 to the Rebel 30.

But this time the clutch play failed and that was the game.

It was the first defeat for the Bulldogs after three wins and left them and Arlington with identical 3-1 wins. The Rebels lost to powerful Mississippi Southern in their opener.

Last year Tech won five of their eight victories in the last two minutes.

Slaughter, as usual, was Tech's top passer, hitting eight of 15 attempts for 72 yards.

Anz hit three of three for Arlington for 29 yards and paced their ground game with 48 yards in 11 trips.

The play covered nine yards and capped a 73-yard drive that took 20 plays.

Alexander toed the PAT to give Tech a 7-0 lead with four minutes to play in the opening quarter.

And that's the way it stood until deep in the fourth quarter when Arlington was handed its big opportunity and took advantage of it.

Mississippi State Rolls By Outclassed Arkansas State

STARKVILLE, Miss. (UPI)—A big line and a pint-sized quarterback gave Mississippi State a 38-0 victory Saturday over outclassed Arkansas State.

The game was a breather for the Southeastern Conference Bulldogs, and they were in control throughout. he husky Mississippi State line never let Arkansas State get past the 50 but the Maroon offense had no trouble clocking off a total of 426 yards.

The big man for Mississippi State was quarterback Sonny Fisher, the smallest player on the field. Promoted to the varsity after the Bulldogs' regular quarterbacks were injured, the 150-pound sophomore time and again gave a homecoming crowd of 20,600 something to cheer about with his twisting, leaping style of running.

Fisher scored one touchdown by recovering a fumble in the end zone and directed two touchdown drives. Short runs by fullback John Sparks and halfback Billy Cook climaxed those two drives. Other touchdowns were made by fourth string quarterback Laurin Collins on a sneak and fullback Sammy Dantone on a plunge. Dantone also kicked a 25-yard field goal and made five points on conversions.

The win assured Mississippi State of its best season in three years. It failed to win more than two games in either 1959 or 1960. So far the Bulldogs have won three of four.

The Bulldogs moved 66 yards to the Arkansas nine the first time they got the ball to set up Dantone's field goal.

In the second period Charlie Furlow, starting at quarterback though he was nursing a leg injury, steered Mississippi State 70 yards for its first touchdown. A 34-yard end sweep by Cook to the Arkansas State three was the big play, and Dantone plunged over from the two for the score.

Fisher directed the third team on a 33-yard drive in the second period and he picked up 35 of those yards. The touchdown was made by Sparks on a three-yard plunge.

Fisher's passing and fullback Mackie Weaver's running carried Mississippi State to the Arkansas State two in the third period. Weaver, on fourth down, tried to plunge over. He was hit short of the goal and fumbled. The ball rolled into the end zone and Fisher dived on it for a touchdown.

Mississippi State wrapped it up in the fourth period on a pair of one-yard touchdown runs by Cook and Collins.

UCLA Bruins Tip Vanderbilt, 28-21

By HENRY RIEGER

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Tailbacks Bobby Smith and Mike Haffner teamed Saturday to give the UCLA Bruins a 28-21 win over Vanderbilt in a game played in record heat which saw temperatures on the playing field soar to 110 degrees.

Smith scored two touchdowns and a two-point conversion while Haffner—a rugged sophomore—amassed a total of 157 yards rushing, including a 63-yard touchdown jaunt.

The temperatures, which the weather bureau unofficially reported might have gone as high as 120 degrees on the playing field, held the crowd to 23,704—about 12,000 less than that anticipated. The record downtown temperature for the day reached 102 offically, while a thermometer placed on the field at halftime registered 110 degrees.

The heat slowed play and resulted in liberal substitutions on both sides and frayed tempers late in the contest as several fist fights broke out. A total of 225 spectators was treated for heat, and five were taken from the coliseum in ambulances for hospitalization.

UCLA took the opening kickoff 75 yards in 20 plays with Smith skirting end from two yards out for the touchdown. He then went over right tackle for a two-point conversion.

The Bruins went over again early in the second period when Kermit Alexander circled wide to the left for 19 yards, with Smith kicking the conversion.

It was in the final minute of the first half when Vanderbilt—playing its first west coast team in its 72-year football history—moved into Bruin territory. They made that move a scoring one when Hank Lesesne tossed a nine-yard pass to Jeff Starling with 17 seconds to play.

An attempted two-point pass conversion failed.

UCLA scored twice in the third period. Bobby Smith went over tackle for six yards for one and Haffner—playing his blocking perfectly—went 63 yards for the second.

The second Vanderbilt score was another Lesesne pass, this time to Thom Garden for 58 yards.

The Bruins' victory gave them a 2-2 season mark and the loss also put Vanderbilt at 2-2.

It was a sentimental game for both schools. The late Henry (Red) Sanders started his career at Vanderbilt first as a player then as a record-setting coach before moving on to UCLA as head man in 1949 where he turned out nine straight winning teams before his death in 1958.

Lou Rymkus Gets Gate From Oilers

HOUSTON (AP) — Lou Rymkus was fired Saturday as head coach of the Houston Oilers, defending champions of the American Football League.

"Our decision is based on a conclusion the material on hand has not been used to its fullest potential," said K. S. (Bud) Adams Jr., president and owner of the Oilers.

Adams had indicated earlier in the week Rymkus, whose Oilers had an 11-4 record last season, would be fired unless the team defeated Boston.

Rymkus had one year remaining on a three-year contract that reportedly called for $25,000 a year.

No successor was named but Adams said a realignment of the coaching structure would be announced Monday when the Oilers report for a workout.

There has been speculation Adams would replace Rymkus with Fred Wallner, defensive coach and former Notre Dame guard. Wallner, 33, joined the Oiler staff last season and became a player-coach at mid-season when injuries riddled the interior offensive line. His leadership as an offensive guard was credited as a major factor in the team's drive to the league's first championship.

Rymkus is the third AFL head coach to be fired since the start of the 1961 season.

Lou Seban, also with a 1-3 record, was fired Tuesday by the Boston club and replaced by an assistant, Mike Holovak. Eddie Erdelatz was fired last month by Oakland after the Raiders lost their first two games.

Since the Oiler squad began training in July, Rymkus has been a frequent critic of Adams and the club's front office.

He publicly criticized Adams for taking the squad to Hawaii for two weeks of training and exhibition games with Oakand and San Diego. He was critical of the front office for what he said was a failure to recruit new rookies.

Only three rookies are on the squad at present and the roster includes only two of the club's top 30 choices made in the league's draft last winter. Robert McLeod, Abilene Christian end, was No. 22. The third rookie, Lee Reed, Colorado State guard, was signed recently after being in the National Football League.

Purdue Romps For 19-6 Win

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Purdue's Boilermakers played almost an entire football game in Miami of Ohio territory Saturday and defeated the Mid-American Conference team 19-6.

Miami's Redskins never got inside the Purdue 45 until the last two minutes of the game when quarterback Jack Gayheart began hitting Ed Bob Jencks with long passes, the last for 11 yards and a touchdown.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Underdog Colgate beat Harvard at its own ground game 15-0 Saturday with Red Raiders Dan Keating and Jim Heilman supplying most of the football fireworks.

Foregoing the pass much of the way, Colgate nevertheless scored its first touchdown on a 6 - yard Keating to Heilman toss. The combination worked for 40 yards in setting up the clinching third period score which Keating registered on a 1-yard sneak.

Junior quarterback Keating from Ventnor, N. J., and sophomore halfback Heilman from Hanover, Pa., helped Colgate make a farce of comparative scores on which basis the Crimson should have won by 48 points. Colgate had lost to Cornell 34-0 the week before Harvard whipped the big red 14-0.

Entering the game, Harvard ranked 10th nationally in both rushing offense and rushing defense. By halftime Colgate had 117 yards on the ground—32 more than the average Crimson yield in two earlier contests.

Orange Beats Huskers 28-6 With Defense

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Syracuse seized on pass interceptions as weapons both of defense and offense Saturday, converted two of them into early touchdowns, and raced to a 28 to 6 football triumph over Nebraska before a capacity crowd of 36,000.

Two of the interceptions squelched Nebraska drives which bid to go all the way.

The Cornhuskers rolled 44 yards in five plays after the opening kickoff but Dave Sarette picked off a Dennis Claridge pass two yards out of his own end zone to stem the assault. Halfback Pete Brokaw made the ensuing 98-yard march good with a 23-yard TD sprint.

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — The Wyoming Cowboys offense sputtered for almost three quarters Saturday before it got rolling for an 18-7 Skyline Conference victory over Colorado State University.

OLE MISS put the big rush on Houston this play but it enabled the Cougars to score the first touchdown managed against Mississippi this year. For while Jerry Brown (74), Reed Davis (81), Glyn Griffing (15) and Bookie Bolin (63) of the Rebs were rushing Houston quarterback Billy Roland (14), the Cougar fullback Larry Broussard (33) got behind them and Roland flipped to him for the score. End Woody Dabbs led the Ole Miss scoring parade with two, taking a 21-yard pass from quarterback Doug Elmore for the first, and snagging a 25-yard pass from quarterback Glynn Griffing for the second.

With Dunaway blasting a hole and Bolin booming into the linebacker, Adams or Elmore scrambled through the Houston line in bruising short gainers that moved Ole Miss like a steamroller. Then, when the defense pulled in, came the passes.

Coach John Vaught used all three of his Rebel teams and there seemed little difference among them. Houston's ace threat, scatback Ken Bolin, seldom got past the line of scrimmage.

Mississippi's opening touchdown came late in the first period but Houston rammed right back to take brief 7-6 lead.

With the quarter-ending horn blowing, Houston quarterback Billy Roland rolled out and passed to halfback Bob McMillin, who went to the Ole' Miss 22 before Louis Guy hauled him down from behind.

Fullback Larry Broussard got to the 13. Roland went to the five on a keeper, and on the next play lobbed a high soft pass that Broussard pulled down with a leaping catch in the end zone. Eddie Mitchamore booted the point.

With the student section chanting, "We're still No. 1," Ole Miss kept Houston reeling right up to the last second with a Perry Lee Dunn touchdown pass to halfback Billy Smith that covered 63 yards after the final horn had sounded.

War Eagles Coast Over Chattanooga

By PAT HARDEN

AUBURN, Ala. (UPI) — Quarterback Bobby Hunt, running and passing with the greatest of ease, scored twice Saturday to lead Auburn to a 35-7 victory over small college Chattanooga.

Hunt, one of the few Auburn first stringers to play most of the game, passed frequently to left end Dave Edwards and halfback John McGeever, but also depended on his 180 pounds of running drive to cut through the Moccasins' defense in the first two touchdown marches.

The Hunt-Edwards combination produced the third TD with Edwards scoring on a six-yard pass. Fullback Larry Laster scored the fourth by intercepting a Chattanooga pass and returning 41 yards.

Auburn's fifth touchdown came when quarterback Joe Overton hit halfback Sam Mitchell with a 35-yard pass which he carried the remaining yards to the goal line.

Chattanooga's only score came in the fourth period on a fine run by fullback Carey Henley who careened 17 yards through the startled Tigers. Ronnie McClurg kicked the extra point.

Hunt began the first scoring march from the Auburn 48 with a 13-yard pass to Edwards. Rawson ran 13 yards down the center, then Hunt hit McGeever for eight. The quarterback sneaked one yard for the TD.

Hunt's next touchdown came on a five-yard run, as he swept through the Mocs' defense without a hand laid on him. Hunt made the third scoring play with a six-yard pass to Edwards.

Second string fullback Larry Laster brought the 22,000 fans to their feet with his interception of quarterback Dave Washburn's pass and ran 41 yards to the end zone.

Auburn completed its scoring in the last 48 seconds when Overton hit Mitchell and Woody Woodall nailed his fifth successful kick for the extra points.

The Moccasins' only points came 13 minutes from the end when the 185-pound Henley battered through the Auburn defense for 17 yards and the touchdown.

TRAMMEL WINS DUEL

Alabama Downs NC State By 26-7

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI)—Aabama's Pat Trammel outdueled the heralded Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State Saturday, passing for two touchdowns and a two-point conversion and running over a third six-pointer in a 26-7 victory for the fourth-ranked Crimson Tide.

In guiding Aabama to its fourth straight victory Trammel passed 12 yards to Dick Williamson for one score and two yards to end Bill Battle for a touchdown with less than four minutes of the first half left.

In the fourth period, the husky Crimson Tide quarterback swept left end for five yards and a touchdown, then passed to halfback Bill Oliver for two more points. End Versprille ran 45 yards for a third touchdown.

Gabriel, a constant threat with his short bullet passes, completed five in a row, then dove over from the one for the Wolfpack's only score. Jack Shaffer added the extra point.

As in past games, the defensive-minded Tide, which stymied all of State's efforts on the ground and limited Gabriel's passing effectiveness to short gains, struck swiftly and with little wasted effort.

With State holding a 7-0 lead, Ray Abruzzese returned a Dave Houtz punt 15 yards to the Wolfpack 39. Trammel ran once for five yards, passed to Williamson for 22 yards and again for 12 and a touchdown.

Within three minutes, Alabama was in front to stay. After State punted, Trammell passed 48 yards to Williamson to put the Crimson Tide on the State 21. Four plays later came Trammell's two-yard touchdown pass to Battle.

North Carolina State was still in the running in the fourth period when Albruzzese returned another Houtz punt 27 yards to the State 19 in four plays. Trammell put the game away with his five-yard dash.

Versprille's 45-yard dash came as extra insurance with the game in its closing minutes.

HOUSTON (AP) — Lou Rymkus was fired Saturday as head coach of the Houston Oilers, defending champions of the American Football League.

"Our decision is based on a conclusion the material on hand has not been used to its fullest potential," said K. S. (Bud) Adams Jr., president and owner of the Oilers.

Don Suman, executive vice president and general manager, notified Rymkus of Adams' decision eight hours after the team returned by plane from Boston where the Oilers and Boston Patriots played a 31-31 tie Friday night.

Adams had indicated earlier in the week Rymkus, whose Oilers had an 11-4 record last season, would be fired unless the team defeated Boston.

Rymkus had one year remaining on a three-year contract that reportedly called for $25,000 a year.

No successor was named but Adams said a realignment of the coaching structure would be announced Monday when the Oilers report for a workout.

There has been speculation Adams would replace Rymkus with Fred Wallner, defensive coach and former Notre Dame guard. Wallner, 33, joined the Oiler staff last season and became a player-coach at mid-season when injuries riddled the interior offensive line. His leadership as an offensive guard was credited as a major factor in the team's drive to the league's first championship.

Rymkus is the third AFL head coach to be fired since the start of the 1961 season.

Lou Seban, also with a 1-3 record, was fired Tuesday by the Boston club and replaced by an assistant, Mike Holovak. Eddie Erdelatz was fired last month by Oakland after the Raiders lost their first two games.

Since the Oiler squad began training in July, Rymkus has been a frequent critic of Adams and the club's front office.

He publicly criticized Adams for taking the squad to Hawaii for two weeks of training and exhibition games with Oakand and San Diego. He was critical of the front office for what he said was a failure to recruit new rookies.

Only three rookies are on the squad at present and the roster includes only two of the club's top 30 choices made in the league's draft last winter. Robert McLeod, Abilene Christian end, was No. 22. The third rookie, Lee Reed, Colorado State guard, was signed recently after being in the National Football League.

Purdue Romps For 19-6 Win

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Purdue's Boilermakers played almost an entire football game in Miami of Ohio territory Saturday and defeated the Mid-American Conference team 19-6.

Miami's Redskins never got inside the Purdue 45 until the last two minutes of the game when quarterback Jack Gayheart began hitting Ed Bob Jencks with long passes, the last for 11 yards and a touchdown.

Foregoing the pass much of the way, Colgate nevertheless scored its first touchdown on a 6 - yard Keating to Heilman toss. The combination worked for 40 yards in setting up the clinching third period score which Keating registered on a 1-yard sneak.

Junior quarterback Keating from Ventnor, N. J., and sophomore halfback Heilman from Hanover, Pa., helped Colgate make a farce of comparative scores on which basis the Crimson should have won by 48 points. Colgate had lost to Cornell 34-0 the week before Harvard whipped the big red 14-0.

Entering the game, Harvard ranked 10th nationally in both rushing offense and rushing defense. By halftime Colgate had 117 yards on the ground—32 more than the average Crimson yield in two earlier contests.

Orange Beats Huskers 28-6 With Defense

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Syracuse seized on pass interceptions as weapons both of defense and offense Saturday, converted two of them into early touchdowns, and raced to a 23 to 6 football triumph over Nebraska before a capacity crowd of 36,000.

Two of the interceptions squelched Nebraska drives which bid to go all the way.

The Cornhuskers rolled 44 yards in five plays after the opening kickoff but Dave Sarette picked off a Dennis Claridge pass two yards out of his own end zone to stem the assault. Halfback Pete Brokaw made the ensuing 98-yard march good with a 23-yard TD sprint.

Maryland moved for its only score in the same period after recovering a North Carolina fumble. The Terps converted for two points but were unable to score again and avert their first setback in four games.

Halfback Gib Carson dropped the ball twice crossing the Maryland goal. Lenny Beck fell on it the first time for six points.

Fumbles by Maryland halfback Dennis Condie gave the Tarheels both their scoring chances. Center Joe Craver recovered the first on the Maryland 19 and Beck the other on the 16.

For while Jerry Brown (74), Reed Davis (81), Glyn Griffing (15) and Bookie Bolin (63) of the Rebs were rushing Houston quarterback Billy Roland (14), the Cougar fullback Larry Broussard (33) got behind them and Roland flipped to him for the score. Johnny Rebs Rip Houston After Cougars Score TD

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Underdog Houston ripped to the first touchdown given up by Mississippi this season but the nation's No. 1 team trampled the fired-up Cougars 47-7 in a merciless second half Saturday.

End Woody Dabbs led the Ole Miss scoring parade with two, taking a 21-yard pass from quarterback Doug Elmore for the first, and snagging a 25-yard pass from quarterback Glynn Griffing for the second.

With Dunaway blasting a hole and Bolin booming into the linebacker, Adams or Elmore scrambled through the Houston line in bruising short gainers that moved Ole Miss like a steamroller. Then, when the defense pulled in, came the passes.

Coach John Vaught used all three of his Rebel teams and there seemed little difference among them. Houston's ace threat, scatback Ken Bolin, seldom got past the line of scrimmage.

Mississippi's opening touchdown came late in the first period but Houston rammed right back to take brief 7-6 lead.

With the quarter-ending horn blowing, Houston quarterback Billy Roland rolled out and passed to halfback Bob McMillin, who went to the Ole' Miss 22 before Louis Guy hauled him down from behind.

Fullback Larry Broussard got to the 13. Roland went to the five on a keeper, and on the next play lobbed a high soft pass that Broussard pulled down with a leaping catch in the end zone. Eddie Mitchamore booted the point.

With the student section chanting, "We're still No. 1," Ole Miss kept Houston reeling right up to the last second with a Perry Lee Dunn touchdown pass to halfback Billy Smith that covered 63 yards after the final horn had sounded.

War Eagles Coast Over Chattanooga

By PAT HARDEN

AUBURN, Ala. (UPI) — Quarterback Bobby Hunt, running and passing with the greatest of ease, scored twice Saturday to lead Auburn to a 35-7 victory over small college Chattanooga.

Hunt, one of the few Auburn first stringers to play most of the game, passed frequently to left end Dave Edwards and halfback John McGeever, but also depended on his 180 pounds of running drive to cut through the Moccasins' defense in the first two touchdown marches.

The Hunt-Edwards combination produced the third TD with Edwards scoring on a six-yard pass. Fullback Larry Laster scored the fourth by intercepting a Chattanooga pass and returning 41 yards.

Auburn's fifth touchdown came when quarterback Joe Overton hit halfback Sam Mitchell with a 35-yard pass which he carried the remaining yards to the goal line.

Chattanooga's only score came in the fourth period on a fine run by fullback Carey Henley who careened 17 yards through the startled Tigers. Ronnie McClurg kicked the extra point.

Hunt began the first scoring march from the Auburn 48 with a 13-yard pass to Edwards. Rawson ran 13 yards down the center, then Hunt hit McGeever for eight. The quarterback sneaked one yard for the TD.

Hunt's next touchdown came on a five-yard run, as he swept through the Mocs' defense without a hand laid on him. Hunt made the third scoring play with a six-yard pass to Edwards.

Second string fullback Larry Laster brought the 22,000 fans to their feet with his interception of quarterback Dave Washburn's pass and ran 41 yards to the end zone.

Auburn completed its scoring in the last 48 seconds when Overton hit Mitchell and Woody Woodall nailed his fifth successful kick for the extra points.

The Moccasins' only points came 13 minutes from the end when the 185-pound Henley battered through the Auburn defense for 17 yards and the touchdown.

TRAMMEL WINS DUEL

Alabama Downs NC State By 26-7

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI)—Aabama's Pat Trammel outdueled the heralded Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State Saturday, passing for two touchdowns and a two-point conversion and running over a third six-pointer in a 26-7 victory for the fourth-ranked Crimson Tide.

In guiding Aabama to its fourth straight victory Trammel passed 12 yards to Dick Williamson for one score and two yards to end Bill Battle for a touchdown with less than four minutes of the first half left.

In the fourth period, the husky Crimson Tide quarterback swept left end for five yards and a touchdown, then passed to halfback Bill Oliver for two more points. End Versprille ran 45 yards for a third touchdown.

Gabriel, a constant threat with his short bullet passes, completed five in a row, then dove over from the one for the Wolfpack's only score. Jack Shaffer added the extra point.

As in past games, the defensive-minded Tide, which stymied all of State's efforts on the ground and limited Gabriel's passing effectiveness to short gains, struck swiftly and with little wasted effort.

With State holding a 7-0 lead, Ray Abruzzese returned a Dave Houtz punt 15 yards to the Wolfpack 39. Trammel ran once for five yards, passed to Williamson for 22 yards and again for 12 and a touchdown.

Within three minutes, Alabama was in front to stay. After State punted, Trammell passed 48 yards to Williamson to put the Crimson Tide on the State 21. Four plays later came Trammell's two-yard touchdown pass to Battle.

North Carolina State was still in the running in the fourth period when Albruzzese returned another Houtz punt 27 yards to the State 19 in four plays. Trammell put the game away with his five-yard dash.

Versprille's 45-yard dash came as extra insurance with the game in its closing minutes.

Arkansas scored in the third period, a one-yarder by halfback Paul McPherson, then added two points on a pass from quarterback Lindsey Henry to McPherson.

Iowa Wins Again As New QB Stars

By RON SPEER

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Matt Szykowny sparkled in his debut as Iowa quarterback Saturday, completing 13 of 22 passes for 128 yards and one touchdown as the second-ranked Hawkeyes trounced Indiana 27-8.

Filling in for the injured Wilburn Hollis, Szykowny got good running help from left halfback Joe Williams, who scored two first half touchdowns in the Big Ten football opener for Iowa.

The undefeated Hawkeyes started the rout with only four minutes gone in the game when Indiana's Marv Woodson bobbled a handoff and Iowa guard Sherwyn Thorson recovered on the Hoosiers' 25.

After a running play and a 15-yard Szykowny pass, Williams slashed over from the 6-yard line.

A 20-yard pass from Szykowny to Williams was the key play in the Hawkeyes' 85-yard second quarter touchdown drive capped by Williams' 1-yard plunge.

Junior halfback Sammie Harris carried four straight times from the Indiana 25 to the 3 in the third quarter and then Szykowny crossed up the Hoosiers' defense by pitching a 3-yard touchdown pass to Bill Whisler. The Hawkeyes used only 10 plays in the 78-yard march.

Indiana, which lost its third straight game, failed to threaten until it punched over a fourth quarter touchdown by third-team fullback Don Cromer on a 3-yard run.

The Hoosiers' touchdown drive was touched off when center Jack Holder recovered a fumble by third-team Iowa quarterback Ron Brocavich on the Hawkeyes' 29.

Iowa, with reserves carrying the load, then moved 42 yards for a fourth touchdown with third team halfback Mike McDonald scoring from the 6-yard line.

Although Iowa lacked the explosive punch provided previously by the running of Hollis and injured halfback Larry Ferguson, the passing Szykowny kept the Hawkeyes' offense moving.

The junior quarterback's performance eased Iowa fears that its bid for a national championship would be ruined by the absence of its top two runners who may be sidelined for the season.

Irish Romp Over Trojans With Talented Backs, 33-0

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Resurging Notre Dame unleashed 22 different backs from its brimful stockpile of football talent Saturday and trampled Southern California into a 30-0 defeat.

The season's third victory for the unbeaten, eighth ranked Irish was forged on touchdown drives of 55, 74 and 84 yards, and a recovered fumble deep in Trojan territory.

The tornadic attack was whipped up mainly by two quarterbacks, Daryl Lamonica and Ed Rutkowski, and was carried along mostly by the devastating running of speedy, 165-pound junior halfback Angelo Dabiero.

It was all over by halftime as Notre Dame, meeting USC for the 33rd time, commanded a 20-0 lead after its backfield horde had pounded 220 yards on the ground.

In the first quarter, Lamonica swung wide for a 12-yard touchdown run and Joe Perkowski added the first of his three extra points. He also booted a 49-yard field goal in the fourth period.

The scoring drive carried 55 yards in eight plays and followed Dabiero's 50-yard punt return that was nullified by a clipping penalty.

Later in the opening quarter, Lamonica tossed a 17-yard scoring pass to sophomore end Jim Kelly. It ended a 74-yard drive in seven plays that featured Frank Minik's 22-yard spring and smashes of 9 and 7 fullback Mike Lind.

Dabiero, who left the game in the third period with a pulled leg muscle, set up Notre Dame's third TD in the second quarter with a 43-yard bolt. At the end of it, the Trojans received a personal foul infraction and Notre Dame had the ball on the 13.

On the second play, Rutkowski went 7 yards on a keep-it for the tally.

A Trojan fumble by Bill Nelson was captured by Joe Carollo on the USC 14 early in th ethird period. Four plays later, Lamonica sneaked over from the 1. It had been set up by a 10-yard pass interference ruling against the Trojans.

Ohio State Romps By Illinois, 44-0

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — All-America fullback Bob Ferguson scored four touchdowns Saturday as Ohio State launched its Big Ten campaign with a 44-0 victory over inexperienced and injury-riddled Illinois.

Ferguson, held scoreless in Ohio's first two games, got his markers the easy way Saturday. He went over on a 1-yard plunge, twice from 2 yards out and once from the three after some heroics by his teammates had placed the ball in scoring position.

It was a weird contest in which a blocked kick, safety, two pass interceptions and two fumbles wrecked Illinois' hopes of evading a third straight loss.

Ten times after that, the Illini failed to reach Ohio territory, but on the 11th try young Ron Fearn sparked a 65-yard drive which died on Ohio's 9.

In addition to Ferguson's close-in scores, sophomore Paul Warfield tallied on a 36-yard run and Ken Johnson pulled in an 11-yard scoring pass from John Mummey. Dick VanRaaphorst booted all six conversions, and the other two points came when Illinois punter Doug Mills was captured in the end zone for a safety after the center's pass had flown over his head.

Despite his heavy scoring, Ferguson was out-gained by three Buckeye backs. The All-America gained 45 yards in 14 carries, but quarterback Mummey — getting his first starting assignment — went 63 yards in nine tries and Warfield picked up 62 in eight. Sophomore Matt Snell gained 46 yards in eight tries.

Army Wins 10-7 Over Penn State With Dick Hoydt

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — The educated kicking toe of Dick Hoydt was the vital difference Saturday as Army upset favored Penn State 10-7. Hoydt's perfect placement for the lone extra point and a 22-yard fourth quarter field goal was the sole margin of victory.

Army scored first in the second quarter and though State also collected a TD the Hoydt extra point loomed decisive until the clinching field goal.

It was the option play by quarterback Dick Eckert that led to the Cadet touchdown and the lead they never lost. The victory was Army's seventh in the 12-game series. Two games ended in ties.

Holdinsky, who didn't touch the ball offensively in the first half, teamed up with sophomore Fred Colvard on a 30-yard pass play for one touchdown and a short time later raced 31 yards around right end for another score.

Pitt, which now hast lost three in a row after winning its opener, penetrated West Virginia territory only three times. The second time the Panthers scored their touchdown as quarterback Jim Traficant leaped over the center of the line and into the end zone from one yard out.

The score came when Tom Woodeshick ran to the two and fumbled. The ball bounced into the end zone and end Paul Gray fell on it for the touchdown.

Colvard and Dale Evans alternated at quarterback in the drive. The whole backfield took turns carrying the ball as West Virginia stayed mostly on the ground.

The Mountaineers repeatedly ran over Pitt's defense during the game. They drove to the Panthers' goal line in the third quarter after Holdinsky's pair of touchdowns but Pitt then stopped inches short of a score.

Pitt tallied with 2½ minutes remaining in the first half. Traficant threw two key passes in the 50-yard drive, both to Fred Cox for a total of 18 yards.

Mike Cotton Guides Texas To 28-7 Rout Of Sooners

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)— Masterful Mike Cotten guided the fleet covey of University of Texas backs to a remarkably easy 28-7 victory over arch-rival Oklahoma Saturday to keep the nation's third - ranking Longhorns among the unbeaten and untied.

Cotten, a 185-pound senior, scored two of the touchdowns himself on two and one-yard dives and set up the other two with his running and passing as Texas handed Oklahoma's once proud Sooners their third humiliating setback.

It was a strange game for the capacity Cotton Bowl crowd of 75,504 as Texas didn't make a first down until the second quarter although jumping into a 7-0 first quarter lead on a four-yard sweep by jitterbug James Saxton after a blocked Oklahoma punt.

But, once the Longhorn stampede gained momentum, Oklahoma was never in contention as Cotten's two second period touchdowns built the lead to 21-0 and Ray Poage's five-yard smash in the third quarter salted it away.

Oklahoma's lone touchdown came in the fourth quarter with fullback Phil Lohmann turning in spectacular sorties that accounted for 49 yards of the 68 yard drive climaxed by Lohmann's one-yard burst through left tackle.

Cotten and his mates struck with long-gainers for most of their yardage, but the Longhorns' 504-yard total offense average took a severe drop against a sometimes stubborn Oklahoma defense. Texas gained but 272 yards, 188 of it on the ground, but Cotten probed the Oklahoma weaknesses at critical times for telling yardage.

Statistically, Oklahoma nearly matched that with 176 yards on the ground, but aside from the Lohmann-sparked drive, the Sooners wasted their short yardage in their own end of the field. Lohmann's 89 yards made him the top ground gainer.

Meanwhile, Cotten fed the ball to Saxton, Poage, Jerry Cook and Jack Collins with equal success on the ground and hit three of five passes for 64 yards. Cook earned 39 yards and Saxton 37 as coach Darrell Royal used his first team but 20 minutes of the game.

Iowa Wins Again As New QB Stars

By RON SPEER

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Matt Szykowny sparkled in his debut as Iowa quarterback Saturday, completing 13 of 22 passes for 128 yards and one touchdown as the second-ranked Hawkeyes trounced Indiana 27-8.

Filling in for the injured Wilburn Hollis, Szykowny got good running help from left halfback Joe Williams, who scored two first half touchdowns in the Big Ten football opener for Iowa.

The undefeated Hawkeyes started the rout with only four minutes gone in the game when Indiana's Marv Woodson bobbled a handoff and Iowa guard Sherwyn Thorson recovered on the Hoosiers' 25.

After a running play and a 15-yard Szykowny pass, Williams slashed over from the 6-yard line.

A 20-yard pass from Szykowny to Williams was the key play in the Hawkeyes' 87-yard second quarter touchdown drive capped by Williams 1-yard plunge.

Junior halfback Sammie Harris carried four straight times from the Indiana 25 to the 3 in the third quarter and then Szykowny crossed up the Hoosiers' defense by pitching a 3-yard touchdown pass to Bill Whisler. The Hawkeyes used only 10 plays in the 78-yard march.

Indiana, which lost its third straight game, failed to threaten until it punched over a fourth-quarter touchdown by third-team fullback Don Cromer on a 3-yard run.

The Hoosiers' touchdown drive was touched off when center Jack Holder recovered a fumble by third-team Iowa quarterback Ron Brocavich on the Hawkeyes' 29.

Iowa, with reserves carrying the load, then moved 42 yards for a fourth touchdown, with third team halfback Mike McDonald scoring from the 6-yard line.

Although Iowa lacked the explosive punch provided previously by the running of Hollis and injured halfback Larry Ferguson, the passing Szykowny kept the Hawkeyes' offense moving.

The junior quarterback's performance eased Iowa fears that its bid for a national championship would be ruined by the absence of its top two runners, who may be sidelined for the season.

Irish Romp Over Trojans With Talented Backs, 33-0

SOUTH BEND, Ind (AP)—Resurging Notre Dame unleashed 22 different backs from its brimful stockpile of football talent Saturday and trampled Southern California into a 30-0 defeat.

The season's third victory for the unbeaten, eighth ranked Irish was forged on touchdown drives of 55, 74 and 84 yards, and a recovered fumble deep in Trojan territory.

The tornadic attack was whipped up mainly by two quarterbacks, Daryl Lamonica and Ed Rutkowski, and was carried along mostly by the devastating running of speedy, 165-pound junior halfback Angelo Dabiero.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Statistics of the Southern California-Notre Dame football game:

It was all over by halftime as Notre Dame, meeting USC for the 33rd time, commanded a 20-0 lead after its backfield horde had pounded 220 yards on the ground.

In the first quarter, Lamonica swung wide for a 12-yard touchdown run and Joe Perkowski added the first of his three extra points. He also booted a 49-yard field goal in the fourth period.

The scoring drive carried 55 yards in eight plays and followed Dabiero's 50-yard punt return that was nullified by a clipping penalty.

Later in the opening quarter, Lamonica tossed a 17-yard scoring pass to sophomore end Jim Kelly. It ended a 74-yard drive in seven plays that featured Frank Minik's 22-yard spring and smashes of 9 and 7 fullback Mike Lind.

Dabiero, who left the game in the third period with a pulled leg muscle, set up Notre Dame's third TD in the second quarter with a 43-yard bolt. At the end of it, the Trojans received a personal foul infraction and Notre Dame had the ball on the 13.

On the second play, Rutkowski went 7 yards on a keep-it for the tally.

A Trojan fumble by Bill Nelson was captured by Joe Carollo on the USC 14 early in th ethird period. Four plays later, Lamonica sneaked over from the 1. It had been set up by a 10-yard pass-interference ruling against the Trojans.

Ohio State Romps By Illinois, 44-0

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — All-America fullback Bob Ferguson scored four touchdowns Saturday as Ohio State launched its Big Ten campaign with a 44-0 victory over inexperienced and injury-riddled Illinois.

Ferguson, held scoreless in Ohio's first two games, got his markers the easy way Saturday. He went over on a 1-yard plunge, twice from 2 yards out and once from the three after some heroics by his teammates had placed the ball in scoring position.

It was a weird contest in which a blocked kick, safety, two pass interceptions and two fumbles wrecked Illinois' hopes of evading a third straight loss.

Ten times after that, the Illini failed to reach Ohio territory, but on the 11th try young Ron Fearn sparked a 65-yard drive which died on Ohio's 9.

In addition to Ferguson's close-in scores, sophomore Paul Warfield tallied on a 36-yard run and Ken Johnson pulled in an 11-yard scoring pass from John Mummey. Dick VanRaaphorst booted all six conversions, and the other two points came when Illinois punter Doug Mills was captured in the end zone for a safety after the center's pass had flown over his head.

Despite his heavy scoring, Ferguson was out-gained by three Buckeye backs. The All-America gained 45 yards in 14 carries, but quarterback Mummey — getting his first starting assignment — went 63 yards in nine tries and Warfield picked up 62 in eight. Sophomore Matt Snell gained 46 yards in eight tries.

Army Wins 10-7 Over Penn State With Dick Hoydt

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—The educated kicking toe of Dick Hoydt was the vital difference Saturday as Army upset favored Penn State 10-7. Hoydt's pefect placement for the lone extra point and a 22-yard fourth quarter field goal was the sole margin of victory.

Army scored first in the second quarter and though State also collected a TD the Hoydt extra point loomed decisive until the clinching field goal.

It was the option play by quarterback Dick Eckert that led to the Cadet touchdown and the lead they never lost. The victory was Army's seventh in the 12-game series. Two games ended in ties.

By TED SMITH

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State, powered by a flock of fast backs, took a long stride towards big ten and possible national honors by crushing Michigan 28-0 Saturday before 103,198.

Dewey Lincoln and Herm Johnson, both sophomores, and George Saimes, a 183-pound junior fullback, led the attack behind the poised quarterbacking of Pete Smith. Michigan State's fluid and fast defense kept the Spartan goal line uncrossed, holding Michigan for four downs from the State three in the third period.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Statistics of the Michigan-Michigan State football game:

Passes	5 10	8 18
Passes intercepted by	1	1
Punts	3 40	4-47
Fumbles lost	1	1
Yards penalized	51	5

This was a battle of football giants — both lines averaged around 225 pounds — in a game that drew a gate of $400,000 and $200,000 for national television rights.

Smith insisted on playing although his father died only last Saturday while State was beating Stanford 31-3. Although passing had not been a Spartan strong point, Smith set up the second touchdown with a toss to Matt Snorton, another sophomore, that was good for 45 yards.

Smith passed for the third touchdown, then set up the Spartans' fourth score with a fourth down pass that gained 18 yards to Michigan's 17.

Michigan State got an early break when Bennie McRae, who otherwise was the outstanding star in Michigan's backfield, fumbled on the 32. The Spartans pounded the right side of Michigan's line to the two from where Gary Ballman carried over.

From then, the Spartans dominated the game except for Michigan's 63-yard drive that started the second half and wound up a scant foot from the State goal line. Michigan also lost a touchdown in the second period when a 23-yard sprint by McRae was called back for backfield in motion.

NORTHEAST STATE'S cross country team, defending Gulf States Conference champion, opens its 1961 season with a home meet against strong Mississippi State next Saturday. Northeast's Cross Country Team Set To Defend Title

Coach Bob Groseclose's Northeast State cross country team defending Gulf States Conference champion, opens its 1961 season against tough Mississippi State next Saturday afternoon.

The meet will be run in Monroe's Bernstein Park beginning at 3:30.

Groseclose, whose team won the GSC crown in his first year as coach, will have three distance runners back from the 1960 club. Top returning Tribesman is the veteran Don "Buddy" Eiland, who finished second in the conference run last fall. Eiland, GSC record holder in the mile, will be running his final year for Northeast. He's from Shreveport but attended high school at Farmerville.

George Abbott of Jonesboro and Bill Frye of Golden, Colo., are the other returnees. They are joined by five newcomers —freshmen Bill White of Dodson, Bobby Bryant of Monroe and David Harkins of Oakdale, junior Randall Walker of Hallsville, Tex., Claude Mercer of Mangham and John Baker of Jennings.

Walker, Mercer and Baker, while out for their first season of cross country, ran on Northeast's track team last spring.

Mississippi State is one of the only two teams that defeated the Tribe distance runners last fall. The Mississippians beat Northeast in New Orleans' Turkey Day Meet while Howard Payne also edged the Indians. According to Groseclose, all the members of State's 1960 team are returning and the Maroons are expected to be one of the top distance clubs in the South.

Northeast will be seeking its third first place in GSC cross country this year. The Indians shared first with McNeese in 1958 and won outright last year.

Three other meets besides the Mississippi State affair are definitely scheduled for Northeast this autumn. The Tribe will host Louisiana Tech Nov. 4, travels to Tech Nov. 18 and competes in the GSC meet Dec. 2 at the University of Southwestern Louisiana at Lafayette. Groseclose hopes to schedule four more meets.

ATLANTA (AP)—Sophomore halfback Joe Auer, filling in for injured ace Billy Williamson, sparked a surge in the second half that powered Georgia Tech to a 21-0 victory over Duke Saturday that dumped the Blue Devils from football's unbeaten list.

Auer caught two passes for 24 yards as Tech drove 75 yards for a touchdown in the third quarter. And he intercepted a Duke pass at the Blue Devil 25 that set up Tech's second touchdown in the fourth quarter. Quarterback Stan Gann scored the first on a 6-yard run and halfback Chick Graning got the next one, running 4 yards after Auer had caught another pass.

Tech made it a rout by driving 32 yards late in the fourth quarter for a third touchdown after guard Dave Watson recovered a fumble. Sophomore quarterback Billy Lothridge, who directed the last two touchdown sorties, kicked all three conversions.

Auer got his chance to shine when Williamson, leading Tech ground gainer, suffered a sprained ankle just before intermission. Williamson sat out the second half.

After a scoreless first half, Tech actually crossed the Duke goal line five times to get its 21 points. In three successive triumphs before Saturday, Duke had not surrendered a touchdown.

Tech now sports a 3-1 record.

Auer raced 25 yards for an apparent touchdown after intercepting a pass thrown by Duke quarterback Walt Rappold but an official inadvertently blew his whistle and the ball was returned to the Duke 18. Graning crossed the goal line on a 37-yard pass play, but Tech was taxed for clipping. Tech scored each time after these setbacks, however.

WILLIAMSBURG, a. (AP)—End Bill Gilco kicked a 27-yard field goal with one second showing on the clock here Saturday to bring The Citadel from behind and give the battling Cadets a 10-8 Southern Conference football victory over William and Mary.

Gilgo's kick from the W&M 17 came at the end of a lst-gasp, 53-yard drive by the Cadets after William and Mary had seemingly won the game with a touchdown and a two-point conversion pass with 2:50 remaining.

Quarterback Bill Whaley got off runs of 15 and 13 yards and a pass for 26 more in the game-winning drive that almost failed because of the hurrying clock.

William and Mary, fighting desperately to claim its second victory of the season for a homecoming crowd of 6,200, had erased a 7-0 deficit and moved ahead 8-7 late in the final period. Calvin Cox romped 6 yards for the Indian touchdown after a 53-yard drive and Dan Barton passed to Roger Hale for the two-point conversion.

By TED SMITH

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State, powered by a flock of fast backs, took a long stride towards big ten and possible national honors by crushing Michigan 28-0 Saturday before 103,198.

Dewey Lincoln and Herm Johnson, both sophomores, and George Saimes, a 183-pound junior fullback, led the attack behind the poised quarterbacking of Pete Smith. Michigan State's fluid and fast defense kept the Spartan goal line uncrossed, holding Michigan for four downs from the State three in the third period.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Statistics of the Michigan-Michigan State football game:

	MICH ST.	MICH.
First downs	16	13
Rushing yardage	190	92
Passing yardage	105	84
Passes	5-10	8-18
Passes intercepted by	1	1
Punts	3-40	4-42
Fumbles lost	1	3
Yards penalized	51	5

This was a battle of football giants — both lines averaged around 225 pounds — in a game that drew a gate of $400,000 and $200,000 for national television rights.

Smith insisted on playing although his father died only last Saturday while State was beating Stanford 31-3. Although passing had not been a Spartan strong point, Smith set up the second touchdown with a toss to Matt Snorton, another sophomore, that was good for 45 yards.

Smith passed for the third touchdown, then set up the Spartans' fourth score with a fourth-down pass that gained 18 yards to Michigan's 17.

Michigan State got an early break when Bennie McRae, who otherwise was the outstanding star in Michigan's backfield, fumbled on the 32. The Spartans pounded the right side of Michigan's line to the two from where Gary Ballman carried over.

From then, the Spartans dominated the game except for Michigan's 63-yard drive that started the second half and wound up a scant foot from the State goal line. Michigan also lost a touchdown in the second period when a 23-yard sprint by McRae was called back for backfield in motion.

Northeast's Cross Country Team Set To Defend Title

Coach Bob Groseclose's Northeast State cross country team defending Gulf States Conference champion, opens its 1961 season against tough Mississippi State next Saturday afternoon.

The meet will be run in Monroe's Bernstein Park beginning at 3:30.

Groseclose, whose team won the GSC crown in his first year as coach, will have three distance runners back from the 1960 club. Top returning Tribesman is the veteran Don "Buddy" Eiland, who finished second in the conference run last fall. Eiland, GSC record holder in the mile, will be running his final year for Northeast. He's from Shreveport but attended high school at Farmerville.

George Abbott of Jonesboro and Bill Frye of Golden, Colo., are the other returnees. They are joined by five newcomers —freshmen Bill White of Dodson, Bobby Bryant of Monroe and David Harkins of Oakdale, junior Randall Walker of Hallsville, Tex., Claude Mercer of Mangham and John Baker of Jennings.

Walker, Mercer and Baker, while out for their first season of cross country, ran on Northeast's track team last spring.

Mississippi State is one of the only two teams that defeated the Tribe distance runners last fall. The Mississippians beat Northeast in New Orleans' Turkey Day Meet while Howard Payne also edged the Indians. According to Groseclose, all the members of State's 1960 team are returning and the Maroons are expected to be one of the top distance clubs in the South.

Northeast will be seeking its third first place in GSC cross country this year. The Indians shared first with McNeese in 1958 and won outright last year.

Three other meets besides the Mississippi State affair are definitely scheduled for Northeast this autumn. The Tribe will host Louisiana Tech Nov. 4, travels to Tech Nov. 18 and competes in the GSC meet Dec. 2 at the University of Southwestern Louisiana at Lafayette. Groseclose hopes to schedule four more meets.

Church Sets Meets Here On Survival

Home preparedness to survive radioactive fallout following an atomic attack, will be stressed in a workshop sponsored by the Monroe Seventh - Day Adventist Church, it was announced by the Rev. J. S. Jameson, pastor.

The first workshop will be held 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Community Center Building, just off Winnsboro Road to the right on Tichelt Road.

SPEAKER

Captain James B. Scruggs Jr., civil defense director for the Monroe area will be featured speaker. He will use movies and other visual aids to help describe why family action "is so necessary for survival in case of a radioactive fallout disaster."

He also will take part in a workshop there October 24.

Rev. Jameson said, "all families should have a disaster kit that contains food and water sufficient to care for their needs for two weeks when they would be on their own in case of a nuclear disaster. First aid and home preparedness may mean that your own life will be spared and the life of your loved ones."

FUTURE SESSIONS

Future sessions will deal with family fallout shelters, first aid and light rescue. The meetings are open to the public.

Rev. Jameson stressed the point: "Prepare now to live then."

Martin Faces An Avalanche Of Film Offers

Nan has a tour de force with the novelist's various women.

Producer Jerry Wald was amazed to learn that she had never made a movie. "Where have you been?" he asked.

"Well," answered Nan, "I was born and reared in Santa Monica and took a bus from there to New York. It went through Hollywood but didn't stop."

Officers Named At Session Of Pastors' Group

In the session held at College Place Baptist Church, Rev. T. F. Traxler, pastor of the Lock Arbor Baptist Church, was named president. Rev. L. L. Morris, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, vice president and program chairman. Rev. Glenn Pippens, associate pastor at College Place Baptist Church, also in charge of North Monroe Chapel, secretary.

Membership in the Conference includes ministers of Baptist Churches east of the Ouachita River in Ouachita Parish. Twenty-two churches are included in this area. The group's next meeting will be November 13.

Classes Set In Christian Faith Study

Next week the Episcopal Churches of the Twin Cities will begin series of Inquirers Classes.

These classes are held for the purpose of presenting an introduction to the Christian Faith as believed and practiced by the Episcopal Church, to those who may be interested.

TOPICS

Topics covered in these classes will include Christian doctrine, Church History, the Scriptures, the Prayer Book, the Sacraments, prayer and discipline. A period will be provided at each class for questions.

Classes at Grace Church, N. 4th St., will be held on Mondays in the Church library, conducted by the rector, the Rev. A. Donald Davies. At St. Thomas, near the college, classes will also be held on Mondays, conducted by the Rev. Richard Wilson, Vicar. Classes at St. Patrick's, West Monroe, will be held on Tuesdays, and St. Alban's (on the South side) on Thursdays, both conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. W. Alan King.

All of these classes will begin at 7:30 p.m., and the course will continue until the end of December. At the end of that time, those whose inquiry has led them to an acceptance of the faith will be presented to the bishop for the Sacrament of Confirmation.

INSTIGATORS ARRESTED

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI) — The Indonesian army announced Friday that "several" persons have been arrested for instigating an anti-American demonstration by students at the U.S. Consulate in Surabaya in East Java last Oct. 4.

Largest Budget Is Adopted By Monroe Church

[illegible] of the Parkview Baptist Church adopted the largest budget in their 15-year history of the church in a brief business session recently. The new budget for 1962 totals $115,000.

Due to the present growth of the congregation along with a consideration of the anticipated needs for future growth, Parkview church acquired additional property and facilities for the sum of $55,000 earlier this year.

October 15 through November 5 has been set aside for the stewardship emphasis campaign with November 5 designated as Loyalty Day — a time for high attendance in the church organizations, and the worship services as well as the day for underwriting the 1962 budget.

Pastor is the Rev. H. L. Sampson, and Jack L. Madden Jr. is stewardship chairman.

Classes Set In Christian Faith Study

Next week the Episcopal Churches of the Twin Cities will begin series of Inquirers Classes.

These classes are held for the purpose of presenting an introduction to the Christian Faith, as believed and practiced by the Episcopal Church, to those who may be interested.

TOPICS

Topics covered in these classes will include Christian doctrine, Church History, the Scriptures, the Prayer Book, the Sacraments, prayer and discipline. A period will be provided at each class for questions.

Classes at Grace Church (N. 4th St.) will be held on Mondays in the Church library, conducted by the rector, the Rev. A. Donald Davies. At St. Thomas', near the college, classes will also be held on Mondays, conducted by the Rev. Richard Wilson, Vicar. Classes at St. Patrick's, West Monroe, will be held on Tuesdays, and St. Alban's (on the South side) on Thursdays, both conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. W. Alan King.

All of these classes will begin at 7:30 p.m., and the course will continue until the end of December. At the end of that time, those whose inquiry has led them to an acceptance of the faith will be presented to the bishop for the Sacrament of Confirmation.

INSTIGATORS ARRESTED

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI) — The Indonesian army announced Friday that "several" persons have been arrested for instigating an anti-American demonstration by students at the U.S. Consulate in Surabaya in East Java last Oct. 4.

Largest Budget Is Adopted By Monroe Church

Members of the Parkview Baptist Church adopted the largest budget in their 15-year history of the church in a brief business session recently. The new budget for 1962 totals $115,000.

Due to the present growth of the congregation along with a consideration of the anticipated needs for future growth, Parkview church acquired additional property and facilities for the sum of $55,000 earlier this year.

October 15 through November 5 has been set aside for the stewardship emphasis campaign with November 5 designated as Loyalty Day — a time for high attendance in the church organizations, and the worship services as well as the day for underwriting the 1962 budget.

Pastor is the Rev. H. L. Sampson, and Jack L. Madden Jr. is stewardship chairman.

Church Sets Meets Here On Survival

Home preparedness to survive radioactive fallout following an atomic attack, will be stressed in a workshop sponsored by the Monroe Seventh - Day Adventist Church, it was announced by the Rev. J. S. Jameson, pastor.

The first workshop will be held 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Community Center Building, just off Winnsboro Road to the right on Ticheli Road.

SPEAKER

Captain James B. Scruggs Jr., civil defense director for the Monroe area will be featured speaker. He will use movies and other visual aids to help describe why family action "is so necessary for survival in case of a radioactive fallout disaster."

He also will take part in a workshop there October 24.

Rev. Jameson said, "all families should have a disaster kit that contains food and water sufficient to care for their needs for two weeks, when they would be on their own in case of a nuclear disaster. First aid and home preparedness may mean that your own life will be spared and the life of your loved ones."

FUTURE SESSIONS

Future sessions will deal with family fallout shelters, first aid and light rescue. The meetings are open to the public.

Rev. Jameson stressed the point, "Prepare now to live then."

Martin Faces An Avalanche Of Film Offers

Nan has a tour de force with the novelist's various women.

Producer Jerry Wald was amazed to learn that she had never made a movie. "Where have you been?" he asked.

"Well," answered Nan. "I was born and reared in Santa Monica —and took a bus from there to New York. It went through Hollywood but didn't stop."

Officers Named At Session Of Pastors' Group

In the session held at College Place Baptist Church, Rev. L. E. Traxler, pastor of the Lock Arbor Baptist Church, was named president; Rev. L. L. Morris, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, vice president and program chairman; Rev. Glenn Pippens, associate pastor at College Place Baptist Church, also in charge of North Monroe Chapel, secretary.

Membership in the Conference includes ministers of Baptist Churches east of the Ouachita River in Ouachita Parish. Twenty-two churches are included in this area. The group's next meeting will be November 13.

On Dit'

by Doniso

When I go up to London
'Twill be in April weather,
I'll have a ribbon on my rein
And flaunt a scarlet feather;
And all the blossoming hedgerows
Will shake their hawthorn down
As I go riding, riding
Up to London Town.
Sing you rhymes, and ring, you chimes,
And swing, you bells of Bow,
When I go up to London,
All the world shall know.

Well, 'twas not in April, but the weather could not have been better. We had a glorious week of sunshine and not a bit of London fog. (Rather a disappointment, actually.) And we didn't come through blossoming hedgerows, but through a night spangled with stars above and vari-colored lights below, Thames winding through like a silver ribbon.

London Airport, and railway stations throughout the country, welcome visitors with carefully tended flower beds bordering walkways, tracks, stairs. Flowers are everywhere, the humblest cottage has a garden; city flats their window boxes. Seasons do not seem to affect the types of bloom as much as in other climates. We saw (usually with mixtures in the same beds) pansies, chrysanthemums, asters, snapdragons, nasturtiums, dahlias, gladioli, carnations of every color and the lovely English roses. In a courtyard we found a magnolia grandiflora in bloom.

For one's first few days in a new city, one can do no better than to ride the sightseeing bus. Here obtains a quick overall view, and one may return later to examine particular interests at leisure. Of course, as Clifton Fadiman says, England is not a strange country. To the lover of literature, all is familiar, well - loved. From Banbury Cross to London Bridge, all is as it should be.

So one starts out by bus to renew auld acquaintance. Buckingham Palace and the changing of the guard; Westminister Abbey with the Coronation Chair, tombs of early kings, poets's corner. Tower of London, former fortress, royal residence, prison and now depository for the crown jewels and royal regalia. St Pauls Cathedral, bomb damage covered by an exquisite chapel built by the British people honoring American dead in World War II. And as one travels, one passes other sites instantly recognizable. Trafalgar Square, Picadilly Circus, the statue of Boadicia on the Thames enbankment, Houses of Parliament, the Albert Memorial, Fleet Street with the newspapers, Temple Bar, Old Curiosity Shop.

Two concentrated days of this type of activity will hit the highspots, leaving several days of a week's visit for pursuit of special interests. Antique hunting, theatre-going, museum visiting, shopping, study of history—lack of time is the only limit on the variety. Spending hours where days were needed, we managed to catch glimpses of Magna Charta, medieval rolls of heraldry, the Wyclif Bible, the Rosetta Stone, the Elgin marbles, Greek, Roman, Assyrian and Egyptian sculptures at the British Museum. In the National Gallery, we lost ourselves in the French and the Spanish rooms, seeing works by Degas, Van Gogh, Renoir, Picasso, Seurat, Manet in one; Velasquez, Murillo, Goya, and El Greco in the other—before we realized we were headed for the National Portrait Gallery and now time was gone.

Britons themselves are seen in droves visiting their museums, exhibits and shrines. They also enjoy a holiday in the country. We spent three of our precious days out of town, seeing several distinctive types of places. Windsor Castle, grown from a hill-top fortress, with St. George's Chapel breathtaking example of perpendicular style, Eton college and its frock-coated students, Hampton Court, elegant Tudor mansion, Stoke Poges churchyard, shaded by ancient yew trees. . . . In Straford, buildings connected with the life and times of Shakespeare were small cottages with utensils and furniture of the era. 'Twas market day in Oxford, and we saw farmers in town with livestock, flowers and vegetables for sale.

Sulgrave Manor, ancestral home of George Washington, is typical of manor houses of the well-to-do of the period. The Wessington family, having been engaged in the wool business, were sufficently affluent to purchase the building, formerly a priory, after the dissolution of the monasteries, and lived therein for several hundred years. The Colonial Dames Society of America assisted with reconstruction and have provided an endowment for maintenance.

An entirely different type of country home is seen at Blenheim Palace, magnificent seat of the Dukes of Marlborough. Bestowed on the first duke after his great victory at Blenheim, the palace has been continuously occupied by the same family for over 200 years. It is the epitome of a "stately home." Visitors enter through the double front door (eighteen feet high and weighing several tons) and pass through a foyer with painted ceiling sixty - seven feet above the floor. Halls and a series of drawing rooms are filled with family portraits and tapestries depicting the first duke's victories. Long windows in the library overlook water gardens terraced down to the river.

While in Stratford we attended the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre company's excellent production of "Hamlet". Preceding the play, visitors may dine on the theatre terrace overlooking the Avon with its swans on the water . . . At the New Theatre in Oxford, Dame Sybil Thorndyke was appearing as "Teresa of Avila" a real treat . . . (For theatre lovers, England is filled with delights, both in town and out.)

In London itself, over twice as many legitimate theatres are in operation as are open in New York. At several of these shows brought over from Broadway were being presented: "The Miracle Worker," Van Johnson as "The Music Man," My Fair Lady," "Bye, Bye Birdie," "Sound of Music."

Your reporter concentrated on English-type productions: "The Bird of Time," starring Gladys Cooper, "'Ross'', story of Lawrence of Arabia; the hilarious comedy "The Irregular Verb to Love" . . . Theatre patrons may order coffee and sweets to be served in their "stalls" during the "interval." At the close of the performance, the audience stands for "God Save the Queen."

If asked to name the outstanding characteristic of England, visitors must remark on the extreme courtesy everywhere in evidence. "Please", "Thank You," and "Sorry" are words heard constantly. Even signs are polite. "Visitors are asked please not to walk on the grass", or "Please have the courtesy not to park here unless calling on these premises."

Truly, a visit to England is a treat "devoutly to be wished."

No other land or people has ever had the press agent that the English have had these three hundred years in William Shakespeare, who wrote:

This royal throne of kings, this scepter'd isle,
This earth of majesty, this seat of Mars,
This other Eden, demi-paradise,
This fortress built by Nature for herself
Against infection and the hand of war,
This happy breed of men, this little world,
This precious stone set in the silver sea,
Which serves it in the office of a wall
Or as a moat defensive to a house,
Against the envy of less happier lands,
This blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England,
This nurse, this teeming womb of royal kings,
Renowned for their deeds as far from home
For Christian service and true chivalry,
England, bound in with the triumphant sea,
Whose rocky shore beats back the envious siege
Of watery Neptune.

MR. AND MRS. Earl Baker of Crossett, Arkansas, announce the engagement of their daughter, Judith Lynn, above, to Charles Ray Keeth. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Keeth of Shreveport. A December wedding is planned to take place in the Crossett Church of Christ.

Bancroft Camp Is Setting For NLSC Autumn Outing

Bancroft's Camp was setting for an autumn outing Saturday evening, October 7 for more than 200 members of the Northeast Louisiana State College faculty, staff and their families.

Games of softball, badminton, horseshoes and croquet under direction of Jack Wilkes, John Goorley, J. D. Anderson, Howard Morton and Mrs. Clint Hanna, provided entertainment for the afternoon.

An old-fashioned smorgasbord supper was served from a buffet table, centered with a vertical mass arrangement of pyracantha and red apples. Guests were then seated at long tables, decorated with sprays of greenery, apples and berries.

Following supper Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Soulier showed movies to the young guests while their parents were entertained at games and dancing led by Mr. and Mrs. George Brian and Dr. and Mrs. Beryl Franklin.

Highlight of the evening was a community sing and marshmallow roast around a huge bonfire with Davis Bingham as leader.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Mapp were chairmen of the host committee, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Whatley, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Soulier, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Schutz, Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Speece, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Morton, Mr. and Mrs. George Herell, Dr. and Mrs. William Hammond, Dr. and Mrs. Prentice Gray, Dr. and Mrs. J. T. When I go up to London
'Twill be in April weather,
I'll have a ribbon on my rein
And flaunt a scarlet feather;
And all the blossoming hedgerows
Will shake their hawthorn down
As I go riding, riding
Up to London Town.
Sing you rhymes, and ring, you chimes,
And swing, you bells of Bow,
When I go up to London,
All the world shall know.

Well, 'twas not in April, but the weather could not have been better. We had a glorious week of sunshine and not a bit of London fog. (Rather a disappointment, actually.) And we didn't come through blossoming hedgerow,, but through a night spangled with stars above and vari-colored lights below, Thames winding through like a silver ribbon.

London Airport, and railway stations throughout the country, welcome visitors with carefully tended flower beds bordering walkways, tracks, stairs. Flowers are everywhere; the humblest cottage has a garden; city flats their window boxes. Seasons do not seem to affect the types of bloom as much as in other climates. We saw (usually with mixtures in the same beds) pansies, chrysanthemums, asters, snapdragons, nasturtiums, dahlias, gladioli, carnations of every color and the lovely English roses. In one courtyard we found a magnolia grandiflora in bloom.

For one's first few days in a new city, one can do no better than to ride the sightseeing bus. Here obtains a quick overall view, and one may return later to examine particular interests at leisure. Of course, as Clifton Fadiman says, England is not a strange country. To the lover of literature, all is familiar, well - loved. From Banbury Cross to London Bridge, all is as it should be.

So one starts out by bus to renew auld acquaintance: Buckingham Palace and the changing of the guard; Westminister Abbey with the Coronation Chair, tombs of early kings, poets's corner; Tower of London, former fortress, royal residence, prison and now depository for the crown jewels and royal regalia; St. Pauls Cathedral, bomb damage covered by an exquisite chapel built by the British people honoring American dead in World War II. And as one travels, one passes other sites instantly recognizable: Trafalgar Square, Picadilly Circus, the statue of Boadicia on the Thames enbankment, Houses of Parliament, the Albert Memorial, Fleet Street with the newspapers, Temple Bar, Old Curiosity Shop.

Two concentrated days of this type of activity will hit the highspots, leaving several days of a week's visit for pursuit of special interests. Antique hunting, theatre-going, museum visiting, shopping, study of history—lack of time is the only limit on the variety. Spending hours where days were needed, we managed to catch glimpses of Magna Charta, medieval rolls of heraldry, the Wyclif Bible, the Rosetta Stone, the Elgin marbles, Greek, Roman, Assyrian and Egyptian sculptures at the British Museum. In the National Gallery, we lost ourselves in the French and the Spanish rooms, seeing works by Degas, Van Gogh, Renoir, Picasso, Seurat, Manet in one; Velasquez, Murillo, Goya, and El Greco in the other—before we realized we were headed for the National Portrait Gallery and now time was gone.

Britons themselves are seen in droves visiting their museums, exhibits and shrines. They also enjoy a holiday in the country. We spent three of our precious days out of town, seeing several distinctive types of places: Windsor Castle, grown from a hill-top fortress, with St. George's Chapel, breathtaking example of perpendicular style; Eton college and its frock-coated students; Hampton Court, elegant Tudor mansion, Stoke Poges churchyard, shaded by ancient yew trees. . . . In Straford, buildings connected with the life and times of Shakespeare were small cottages with utensils and furniture of the era. 'Twas market day in Oxford, and we saw farmers in town with livestock, flowers and vegetables for sale.

Sulgrave Manor, ancestral, home of George Washington, is typical of manor houses of the well-to-do of the period. The Wessington family, having been engaged in the wool business, were sufficently affluent to purchase the building, formerly a priory, after the dissolution of the monasteries, and lived therein for several hundred years. The Colonial Dames Society of America assisted with reconstruction and have provided an endowment for maintenance.

An entirely different type of country home is seen at Blenheim Palace, magnificent seat of the Dukes of Marlborough. Bestowed on the first duke after his great victory at Blenheim, the palace has been continuously occupied by the same family for over 200 years. It is the epitome of a "stately home." Visitors enter through the double front door (eighteen feet high and weighing several tons) and pass through a foyer with painted ceiling sixty - seven feet above the floor. Halls and a series of drawing rooms are filled with family portraits and tapestries depicting the first duke's victories. Long windows in the library overlook water gardens terraced down to the river.

While in Stratford we attended the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre company's excellent production of "Hamlet". Preceding the play, visitors may dine on the theatre terrace overlooking the Avon with its swans on the water . . . At the New Theatre in Oxford, Dame Sybil Thorndyke was appearing as "Teresa of Avila": a real treat . . . (For theatre lovers, England is filled with delights, both in town and out.)

In London itself, over twice as many legitimate theatres are in operation as are open in New York. At several of these shows brought over from Broadway were being presented: "The Miracle Worker," Van Johnson as "The Music Man," My Fair Lady," "Bye, Bye Birdie," "Sound of Music."

Your reporter concentrated on English-type productions: "The Bird of Time," starring Gladys Cooper, "'Ross", story of Lawrence of Arabia; the hilarious comedy "The Irregular Verb to Love" . . . Theatre patrons may order coffee and sweets to be served in their "stalls" during the "interval." At the close of the performance, the audience stands for "God Save the Queen."

If asked to name the outstanding characteristic of England, visitors must remark on the extreme courtesy everywhere in evidence. "Please", "Thank You," and "Sorry" are words heard constantly. Even signs are polite: "Visitors are asked please not to walk on the grass"; or "Please have the courtesy not to park here unless calling on these premises."

Truly, a visit to England is a treat "devoutly to be wished."

No other land or people has ever had the press agent that the English have had these three hundred years in William Shakespeare, who wrote:

This royal throne of kings, this scepter'd isle,
This earth of majesty, this seat of Mars,
This other Eden, demi-paradise,
This fortress built by Nature for herself
Against infection and the hand of war,
This happy breed of men, this little world,
This precious stone set in the silver sea,
Which serves it in the office of a wall
Or as a moat defensive to a house,
Against the envy of less happier lands,
This blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England,
This nurse, this teeming womb of royal kings,
Renowned for their deeds as far from home
For Christian service and true chivalry,
England, bound in with the triumphant sea,
Whose rocky shore beats back the envious siege
Of watery Neptune.

Following supper Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Soulier showed movies to the young guests while their parents were entertained at games and dancing led by Mr. and Mrs. George Brian and Dr. and Mrs. Beryl Franklin.

Highlight of the evening was a community sing and marshmallow roast around a huge bonfire with Davis Bingham as leader.

Kiddy Coffee Break

On a rainy day, occupy the children's time by giving them coffee cans, scraps of paint, glue, bright pictures and shellac. Challenge them to make pretty containers for their various collections of stones, seeds, crayons, bugs, buttons, etc.

Match Jewelry

Jewelry can enhance your natural beauty even more if you harmonize your make-up with carefully chosen pieces to avoid clashing colors. When choosing jewelry, beauty authorities advise that you first consider your skin tone. Gold is ideal if your complexion has a creamy tone. If there is a good deal of pink in your skin, however, silver will flatter it and even tone down an overly ruddy complexion. Silver is also a perfect complement for women with gray or silver hair. If your jewelry is predominant in blue or green colors, try wearing matching shades of eyeshadow.

MRS. ROBERT LLOYD DOWNES

Miss Lynn Theus, Hugh McDonald Jr. Exchange Wedding Vows Saturday

In a twilight ceremony solemnized at 5 p.m. Saturday, October 14 in Jesus the Good Shepherd Catholic Church, Miss Katherine Lynn Theus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Kennedy Theus 2000 Island Drive, became the bride of Hugh Gibson McDonald Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Gibson McDonald, 1106 Riverside Drive.

Father William Provosty performed the double-ring ceremony before the altar which was decorated with gladioli, mammoth chrysanthemums and pompon mums arranged in gold vases. Lighted white tapers held aloft by a pair of seven - branched wrought iron candelabra completed the setting.

Preceding the ceremony Allison Salley, organist, played selections from Franck, Grieg and Bach. For the processional he played Gounod's "Marche Pontificale," and as a recessional Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

Altar boys were Frederick Fudikar III and Fredric Amman Jr.

Mrs. Jesse Lucas Adams III, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Anne Catherine McDonald, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. John Michael Gregory, cousin of the bride.

They wore identical dresses of jade green slipper satin, with fitted basques that featured scoop necklines and demi-sleeves. Soft pleats lent fullness to the short skirts and pleated cummerbunds in a slightly deeper tone ended in wide half bows with long sashes in the back. Their half hats were of jade green leaves topped by matching circlets of illusion and they carried cascade bouquets of white bridal roses and miniature [illegible]

Mr. McDonald attended his son as best man and groomsmen were Thomas Pope Fullilove of Shreveport and George Weaks Trousdale Jr. Serving as ushers were Edwin Kennedy Theus Jr., brother of the bride; Denis Henry McDonald, brother of the bridegroom, Dallas M. Girl Scout News

Favorable comment from many sources has been received on the Girl Scout display at the Ouachita Valley Fair. Arranged by Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Waren, Mrs. Courtlandt McCoy, Mrs. N. L. Huckabee, Mickie and Judy Varnado, the camp scene is realistic and attractive. Also, at the fair a tie-in of Girl Scouting with other activities is on display at the forestry exhibit, which contains booklets of leaf prints. These were made by girls of Troop 18 at Pine Wood day camp last summer.

Jayme Spencer, of Farmerville, now a student at L.S.U., who participated in the Girl Scout "Mississippi Mermaid" cruise last summer, writes that the boat, the Avalon, was at the Baton Rouge docks recently. University students and Senior Scouts in Baton Rouge had a reunion and a picnic supper on board.

Next week end Troop 23 will take advantage of the fall weather to have an overnight at camp. The West Monroe Neighborhood has made plans for a day at Pine Wood on Saturday, October 28.

Included in plans is a Court-of-Awards. This will be staged under the pine trees to conclude the day's activities. More details later.

Information has gone out to adults in the council concerning a meeting of Girl Scout adults in Jackson, Mississippi on November 9. Called "The Swing," it is one of five being held in Region V. "Focus on the Leader" is the theme. For fun and inspiration there is nothing quite like a gathering of adults working together in Girl Scouting. The local council is arranging for a bus. The trip will take just one day and promises to be well worth the time. The cost is nominal, there will be no driving responsibilities.

An enthusiastic meeting of adults held in Bastrop last week promises to result in several new troops. Mrs. Maurice Raphael, Neighborhood chairman, and Mrs. Frank Bishop, troop organizer, have planned to spread Girl Scouting to every part of the neighborhood. A training session for prospective leaders, assistants, troop committee members, will be held Tuesday from 9 until 11 a.m. at the Presbyterian church. Any interested adult is invited to attend.

Neighborhood meetings this week are Northside, St. Paul's Methodist Church, 9:30 Wednesday, and College at Memorial Methodist Wednesday at 1:15. In these neighborhood meetings plans will be made for fall and winter activities. Every troop should be represented.

Junior Girls Unit Adopts Service Project

The Junior Girls Unit of the Rodney J. Hobbs Auxiliary 1809 met Saturday October 7, at the post home. Presiding officer was Gail Perry.

In keeping with the National Junior Girls program, the local members will adopt one of the Homes for the Aged as a regular community service project. The girls distributed magazines to the home on Saturday October 14.

The Writing Contest entitled "America The Beautiful — How Long Without Clean Water?" sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary was explained by the president, Mrs. Odie Lee Gossett. Members were urged to participate in the contest.

Unit members will assist the parent organization with the annual Buddy Poppy Sale on November 11.

The program for November will be devoted to celebration of Veterans Day and Thanksgiving.

The Advisory Council of the Rodney J. Hobbs Ladies Auxiliary 1809 attended the meeting.

Miss Lynn Theus, Hugh McDonald Jr. Exchange Wedding Vows Saturday

In a twilight ceremony solemnized at 5 p.m. Saturday, October 14 in Jesus the Good Shepherd Catholic Church, Miss Katherine Lynn Theus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Kennedy Theus 2000 Island Drive, became the bride of Hugh Gibson McDonald Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Gibson McDonald, 1106 Riverside Drive.

Father William Provosty performed the double-ring ceremony before the altar which was decorated with gladioli, mammoth chrysanthemums and pompon mums arranged in gold vases. Lighted white tapers held aloft by a pair of seven - branched wrought iron candelabra completed the setting.

Preceding the ceremony Allison Salley, organist, played selections from Franck, Grieg and Bach. For the processional he played Gounod's "Marche Pontificale," and as a recessional Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

Altar boys were Frederick Fudikar III and Fredric Amman Jr.

Mrs. Jesse Lucas Adams III, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Anne Catherine McDonald, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. John Michael Gregory, cousin of the bride.

They wore identical dresses of Jade green slipper satin, with fitted basques that featured scoop necklines and demi-sleeves. Soft pleats lent fullness to the short skirts and pleated cummberbunds in a slightly deeper tone ended in wide half bows with long sashes in the back. Their half hats were of Jade green leaves topped by matching circlets of illusion and they carried cascade bouquets of white bridal roses and miniature ivy.

Mr. McDonald attended his son as best man and groomsmen were Thomas Pope Fullilove of Shreveport and George Weaks Trousdale Jr. Serving as ushers were Edwin Kennedy Theus Jr., brother of the bride; Denis Henry McDonald, brother of the bridegroom; Dallas M. Ward, of New Orleans; Fred Faulkenheiner, Vidalia; James A. Altick, Winnsboro; Dennis Hill, Baton Rouge and Patrick Sewell of Boyce.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Theus was wearing a seafoam green brocade sheath with short jacket, which featured a cummerbund of darker green satin. Her hat was of iridescent beads and she wore a white Japhet orchid. Mrs. McDonald, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of aqua chiffon, fashioned on slim lines with a side drape of self material. Her hat was of aqua and forest green velvet and she wore a white Japhet orchid.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Bayou DeSiard Country Club. Throughout the club the rooms were decorated with a profusion of white flowers and greenery. A large arrangement of white pompons and foliage graced a table in the entrance hall.

Mrs. Ronald Lee Davis, Mrs. Ronald Lee Davis Jr., Mrs. T. Arthur Grant Jr. and Mrs. Jesse Lucas Adams received guests at the door. The bride's book table in the hall, presided over by Mrs. A. L. Smith and Mrs. D. Y. Smith Jr., held a memory candle in a hurricane shade. A three-tiered fountain banked with magnolia leaves graced one corner of the lounge.

The bride's table, covered with a ruffled organdy cloth was centered with a silver epergne filled with white chrysanthemums, tuberoses and stock, and flanked by silver candelabra holding lighted white tapers. Serving here were Mrs. Thomas Leigh, Mrs. Stanton Huey, Mrs. Edward Seymour, Mrs. John Theus, Mrs. George Snellings Jr. and Mrs. W. Kennedy Abington. Twin cake tables for the bride and groom were also covered in ruffled organdy and garlanded with smilax foliage. Assisting at the cake tables were Mrs. Allan Guthrie, Mrs. Grayson Guthrie Jr., Mrs. Kent Breard, Mrs. Merton Abington, Mrs. Pierre Lauve and Miss Fran Guthrie.

After a short wedding trip the couple will reside at 519 E. Chickasaw St., in Brookhaven, Mississippi. For travel the bride wore a royal blue jacket ensemble of lightweight wool and a small toque of mink, with a white orchid corsage.

Girl Scout News

Favorable comment from many sources has been received on the Girl Scout display at the Ouachita Valley Fair. Arranged by Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Waren, Mrs. Courtlandt McCoy, Mrs. N. L. Huckabee, Mickie and Judy Varnado, the camp scene is realistic and attractive. Also, at the fair a tie-in of Girl Scouting with other activities is on display at the forestry exhibit, which contains booklets of leaf prints. These were made by girls of Troop 18 at Pine Wood day camp last summer.

Jayme Spencer, of Farmerville, now a student at L.S.U., who participated in the Girl Scout "Mississippi Mermaid" cruise last summer, writes that the boat, the Avalon, was at the Baton Rouge docks recently. University students and Senior Scouts in Baton Rouge had a reunion and a picnic supper on board.

Next week end Troop 23 will take advantage of the fall weather to have an overnight at camp. The West Monroe Neighborhood has made plans for a day at Pine Wood on Saturday, October 28.

Included in plans is a Court-of-Awards. This will be staged under the pine trees to conclude the day's activities. More details later.

Information has gone out to adults in the council concerning a meeting of Girl Scout adults in Jackson, Mississippi on November 9. Called "The Swing," it is one of five being held in Region V. "Focus on the Leader" is the theme. For fun and inspiration there is nothing quite like a gathering of adults working together in Girl Scouting. The local council is arranging for a bus. The trip will take just one day and promises to be well worth the time. The cost is nominal, there will be no driving responsibilities.

An enthusiastic meeting of adults held in Bastrop last week promises to result in several new troops. Mrs. Maurice Raphael, Neighborhood chairman, and Mrs. Frank Bishop, troop organizer, have planned to spread Girl Scouting to every part of the neighborhood. A training session for prospective leaders, assistants, troop committee members, will be held Tuesday from 9 until 11 a.m. at the Presbyterian church. Any interested adult is invited to attend.

Neighborhood meetings this week are Northside, St. Paul's Methodist Church, 9:30 Wednesday, and College at Memorial Methodist Wednesday at 1:15. In these neighborhood meetings plans will be made for fall and winter activities. Every troop should be represented.

In keeping with the National Junior Girls program, the local members will adopt one of the Homes for the Aged as a regular community service project. The girls distributed magazines to the home on Saturday October 14.

The Writing Contest entitled "America The Beautiful — How Long Without Clean Water?" sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary was explained by the president, Mrs. Odie Lee Gossett. Members were urged to participate in the contest.

Unit members will assist the parent organization with the annual Buddy Poppy Sale on November 11.

The program for November will be devoted to celebration of Veterans Day and Thanksgiving.

The Advisory Council of the Rodney J. Hobbs Ladies Auxiliary 1809 attended the meeting.

Mrs. McLemore Reviews Book For Study Club

Mrs. W. T. Ellis was a special guest of the October meeting of the Twin City Study club held in the home of Mrs. W. D. Albritton, with Mrs. R. P. McKay, as co-hostess.

Mrs. Eugene Scott, president, conducted the meeting which opened with the club collect followed by group singing of the club song, "Louisiana."

Mrs. Wallace W. Hinson gave the timely topic in a talk on the power of money in government and the material things it could buy. Using a fifty cent coin to demonstrate its loss in value if the government failed, she read the coin inscription, "In God We Trust," as basis of her topic, in urging women to spend wisely and assume more responsbility towards the leaders of the nations.

During the business session Mrs. Edward C. Whatley gave a report on the workshop conducted recently by Mrs. Thomas Jett. A discussion was held on the district meeting and luncheon to be held October 28 at the Paragon club.

Mrs. R. P. McKay gave a resume of an article on cancer from the Federated Clubs magazine and announced the cancer society had expressed appreciation of the federated women's part in their work.

The book review for the afternoon given by Mrs. Quinton McLemore was on "A Nation of Sheep," by William J. Lederer, in which he points out a more informed America is needed. She cited that according to Mr. Lederer, "ignorance, lack of knowledge and information make us a nation of sheep, following along like we have no shepherd." In conclusion she pointed out that accurate information by the press, TV and radio and capable leaders in the government are needed to keep the American people informed.

Refreshments were served at conclusion of the afternoon by the hostesses to Mrs. L. A. Branch, Mrs. Robert Cowen, Mrs. George Cox, Mrs. Perry Daniels, Mrs. D. F. Skiing Garb Goes Nautical

The sea language has been adopted as ski language.

International code flags used by sailors for visual communication across the waters, were successfully employed recently by a sportswear manufacturer as boat jacket designs.

Now the same manufacturer is using the nautical signals on ski jackets—possibly so that one snowbird can signal impending disaster to another, or at least to identify each other from slope to slope.

And in the event that the skier finds himself on a snowy highway instead of a byway, the jacket contains a toll ticket holder.

Mrs. McLemore Reviews Book For Study Club

Mrs. W. T. Ellis was a special guest of the October meeting of the Twin City Study club held in the home of Mrs. W. D. Albritton, with Mrs. R. P. McKay, as co-hostess.

Mrs. Eugene Scott, president, conducted the meeting which opened with the club collect followed by group singing of the club song, "Louisiana."

Mrs. Wallace W. Hinson gave the timely topic in a talk on the power of money in government and the material things it could buy. Using a fifty cent coin to demonstrate its loss in value if the government failed, she read the coin inscription, "In God We Trust," as basis of her topic, in urging women to spend wisely and assume more responsbility towards the leaders of the nations.

Skiing Garb Goes Nautical

The sea language has been adopted as ski language.

International code flags used by sailors for visual communication across the waters, were successfully employed recently by a sportswear manufacturer as boat jacket designs.

Now the same manufacturer is using the nautical signals on ski jackets—possibly so that one snowbird can signal impending disaster to another, or at least to identify each other from slope to slope.

Let's talk about Maternity Fashions

By LILLIAN ELIAS

PLAN AHEAD

NOW IS THE TIME

Don't be caught unprepared! Now is the time to take a good look at your wardrobe to determine whether or not you are adequately prepared. You'll need outfits suitable for evenings out either at a party at a friend's house or at the theatre or club. Then there will be the customary afternoon events calling for very dressy cocktail dresses. If you haven't seen the selection we have in our shop, you'll be surprised at what we have for you. We'll prove to you that you can be just as fashionable throughout pregnancy as you were before your figure expanded. Don't let pregnancy spoil any of your fun! SUNDAY, October 22 is the date chosen for their wedding by Miss Doll Moore and Burt Palmer, whose engagement is announced today. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. Evelyn Moore and Keith Moore, both of this city and Mr. Palmer is the son of Mrs. Vivian Palmer of DeRidder. The ceremony will be solemnized at 2 p.m. in Covenant Presbyterian church with Rev. Wayne Gray officiating.

Make-Up Keyed To Fall Fashion

With fashion designers using a variety of striking black fabrics in their most outstanding collections for fall and winter, make-up vogues for the coming season have also been tailored to spark the appearance of this most basic color.

One of the most important new make-up modes according to beauty authorities, is the style and use of eye make-up. When lining the eyes, use black or brownish-black fluid eyeliner. Brush on a wider band of color on the upper eyelid than has been the custom, and instead of extending the line apply only from corner to corner. The new effect will be a saucer shaped wide-eyed look.

The new powder eye shadow colors are especially striking when worn with black for it gives the eyes a dimensional look against the ebony background. Shape eyebrows slightly wider, but strive for a soft appearance. Give lips a full, generous look making the cupid's bow sharp and pointed. Facial make-up for black fashions is most flattering when worn in tones of beige to beige-rose.

Teach Tots

SAYS STEWART

Picture Quality With Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — James Stewart, a veteran of many years in Hollywood and many movies, said Saturday "You can't blame bad pictures on audiences."

In recent years, moviemakers have been complaining about lack of attendance at picture houses, blaming the decline in boxoffice receipts on everything from TV to night baseball. But Stewart says much of the responsibility lies right here in Hollywood.

"I think the best thing that has happened was Walt Disney paying a dividend," he said. "And, that dividend was on his pictures which you could take the whole family to. That's how this business started and we got away from it. Millions of people went to see those pictures."

Stewart analyzed the movie business and its problems.

"I've always been optimistic about this business and I still am," he said. "There had to be a change because we used to have it all to ourselves. About all the people had to do was go to movies for entertainment. Now there are TV and other activities. We had to find our niche in the battle for people's time."

In finding that niche, Stewart said, movie producers made at least one mistake. It's an error that's beginning to haunt Hollywood.

"I still think the one place we got into trouble was starting to make dirty pictures, or just making films for the big cities," he said.

For that reason, Stewart said, many people turned away from pictures and "the family audience was waiting for some place to go."

ADVANCES

Stewart cited technological advances that Hollywood brass thought were answers to the industry's problems.

"When cinemascope came along everybody thought all we had to do was set up a camera and shoot movies in ten days that used to take months," he said. "But, the audience couldn't see the actors' faces. So we went back to closeup shots.

HARD-TO-GET HORSE

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Dean Martin, appearing in "Soldiers Three," has grown so fond of the horse he rides in it, "Rusty," that he has tried to buy it from producer Howard W. Koch. But Koch won't seal. It's the horse ridden by John Wayne, Gary Cooper, James Stewart and other top stars in westerns.

Actors Fewer Than Producers

NEW YORK (AP) — Twice as many producers as actors are involved in Broadway presentatin of "Do You Know the Milky Way?".

Carney Again In Father Role

NEW YORK (AP) — TV Comedian Art Carney is making his second consecutive appearance in Broadway drama as a father — but he doesn't think he is becoming a victim of type-casting.

In 1957 Carney made his debut on the stage in "The Rope Dancers," as the fond parent of a little girl. In the upcoming "Age of Consent," his role is that of the father of two teen-agers.

AT PARAMOUNT

'Young Doctors' Opening Today

It was filmed on location at 3 hospitals in New York, under the supervision of the chief pathologist of a fourth, and with both the endorsement and cooperation of the American Medical Association. Phil Karlson directed from a screenplay by Joseph ("The Desperate Hours") Hayes, based on the best selling novel, "The Final Diagnosis," by Arthur Hailey.

AS DOCTOR

In the film Fredric March is cast, for the third time in his forty year career, as a doctor: the elderly chief pathologist who comes into conflict with Ben Gazzara, playing a young doctor with new ideas and modern methods. Ina Balin is an attractive nurse about whom the principal story line turns, for it is while on an ice-scating date with her that the young doctor first learns that she requires medical attention. It is the inability of Gazzara and March to agree on the final diagnosis of her disease that contributes to the dramatic crisis of the film.

SKATING SCENE

Tour Tryout Is Bypassed

NEW YORK (AP) — An out-of-town break-in for "Purlie Victorious" was dispensed with because the star of the show, Ossie Davis, was also the author.

The producer Philip Rose reasoned that rewriting — a major adjunct usually of tryout tour — would be impossible because Davis would be concentrating on performance. Extra effort was made before rehearsals began to whip the script into precise shape.

Married Couple In Strange Role

NEW YORK (AP) — A married couple, Joe Silver and Chevi Colton, are stepping out of character for roles in the off - Broadway musical, "O Marry Me."

The two are cast as father and daughter in the adaptation of Oliver Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer."

Comic Longs For Filmland Over Touring

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Comic Shelley Berman, whose gross from the lush civic auditorium circuit is better than $40,000 a week, wants to stay in Hollywood as an actor—even through it means a big cut.

"On the road, you go to sleep with a pill, you stay awake with a pill and you digest lousy food with a pill. Even at $40,000 a week, I can't live that way," he said. "The money's not worth it."

A drawback in the concert and night-club field, says Shelley, is the lack of good food after midnight.

Berman never eats before a concert and has trouble getting a good meal after one.

"There are only about five big cities in this country where you can get good food after midnight. It seems like a petty thing to gripe about, but actually there are things more important than money."

Berman now is making but a fraction of his concert gross to prove how serious he is about acting.

He's playing Nathan Detroit in the Civic Light Opera's local production of "Guys and Dolls." Coming up is a "Rawhide" television show in which he'll play an old Jewish peddler roaming the plains.

Critics hailed his "Guys and Dolls" performance here as an acting surprise—although Berman started out as an actor.

'Young Doctors' Opening Today

It was filmed on location at 3 hospitals in New York, under the supervision of the chief pathologist of a fourth, and with both the endorsement and cooperation of the American Medical Association. Phil Karlson directed from a screenplay by Joseph ("The Desperate Hours") Hayes, based on the best selling novel, "The Final Diagnosis," by Arthur Hailey.

AS DOCTOR

In the film Fredric March is cast, for the third time in his forty year career, as a doctor: the elderly chief pathologist who comes into conflict with Ben Gazzara, playing a young doctor with new ideas and modern methods. Ina Balin is an attractive nurse about whom the principal story line turns, for it is while on an ice-scating date with her that the young doctor first learns that she requires medical attention. It is the inability of Gazzara and March to agree on the final diagnosis of her disease that contributes to the dramatic crisis of the film.

SKATING SCENE

Tour Tryout Is Bypassed

NEW YORK (AP) — An out-of-town break-in for "Purlie Victorious" was dispensed with because the star of the show, Ossie Davis, was also the author.

The producer Philip Rose reasoned that rewriting — a major adjunct usually of tryout tour — would be impossible because Davis would be concentrating on performance. Extra effort was made before rehearsals began to whip the script into precise shape.

Married Couple In Strange Role

NEW YORK (AP) — A married couple, Joe Silver and Chevi Colton, are stepping out of character for roles in the off - Broadway musical, "O Marry Me."

The two are cast as father and daughter in the adaptation of Oliver Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer."

Comic Longs For Filmland Over Touring

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Comic Shelley Berman, whose gross from the lush civic auditorium circuit is better than $40,000 a week, wants to stay in Hollywood as an actor—even through it means a big cut.

"On the road, you go to sleep with a pill, you stay awake with a pill and you digest lousy food with a pill. Even at $40,000 a week, I can't live that way," he said. "The money's not worth it."

A drawback in the concert and night-club field, says Shelley, is the lack of good food after midnight.

Berman never eats before a concert and has trouble getting a good meal after one.

"There are only about five big cities in this country where you can get good food after midnight. It seems like a petty thing to gripe about, but actually there are things more important than money."

Berman now is making but a fraction of his concert gross to prove how serious he is about acting.

He's playing Nathan Detroit in the Civic Light Opera's local production of "Guys and Dolls." Coming up is a "Rawhide" television show in which he'll play an old Jewish peddler roaming the plains.

Critics hailed his "Guys and Dolls" performance here as an acting surprise—although Berman started out as an actor.

Centennial Observances At Churches

Special services will be observed in the 3,995 Churches of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. (Southern), today marking the observance of the 100th year of the church's existance as an independent body. This the only branch of the church which still preserves its regional character.

The history of the Presbyterian Church goes back 3,000 years to Abraham when God began to gather a "people of God" for a "covenant community" who would serve Him. Presbyterians share with all Christians faith in God as Father, in Christ as Savior, and the Holy Spirit as guide.

BELIEFS

Some emphasis of the Church are belief that all rule and authority in the organized Church belongs, under God, to the whole membership and is to be exercised by representatives called presbyters, or elders, in church courts — sessions, presbyteries, synods, general assemblies.

Presbyterians also stress first, in teaching and in preaching God's love and mercy and his rule over all of life, the soverignty of God, and secondly, human needs and duties.

These emphases are biblical, were prominent in the early centuries of the church after the resurection of Christ and then again were reaffirmed in the Reformation era when John Calvin in the 16th Century in France and Geneva and John Knox in Scotland, became leaders in the Reformation movement.

WORLDWIDE

Since the days of Calvin and John Knox, Presbyterianism has become worldwide Christian movement. The family of Presbyterian and Reformed Churches holding the Presbyterian order includes 78 denominations in 54 countries representing about 50 million Christians. The Presbyterians were among the first religious groups in America with their history going back to 1706.

In the Southern Presbyterian Church there are 16 Syods, 83 Presbyteries, 3,672 ministers and 3,978 churches with 885,524 members, according to most recent statistics. A strong spirit of missionary endeavor marked the first century of the church's life with work in Congo, Brazil, Mexico, China, Korea, Japan, Portugal, Ecuador, Taiwan (Formosa) and Iraq, with more than 1,300 missionaries being sent forth in a 50-60 million dollar enterprise to spread the Gospel.

A special offering will be received and a Communison service will be observed in all of the churches marking this occasion. The offering will go to the aid of Reformed churches in areas of the world which have been victims of disaster, war, distress and need.

Albert H. Cullen Guest Speaker

Albert H. Cullen will be the guest speaker at the Central Baptist church here today during services at 10:50 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Cullen, a native of Canada, has also served several churches here. He is a former pastor of Winnsboro, and of the First Baptist church of Evansville, Indiana for 22 years, has written several books, and is the son of a medical missionary, retired two years ago and is now living in Monroe.

Church Slates Layman's Day

Layman's Day will be observed today at the 10:50 a.m. services at Gordon Avenue Methodist Church, with local lay leader Lawrence Gibbs as main speaker, the Rev. W. M. Allen, pastor said.

Harold Riggs will be speaker at 7:30 p.m. services.

Centennial Observances At Churches

Special services will be observed in the 3,995 Churches of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. (Southern), to day marking the observance of the 100th year of the church's existance as an independent body. This the only branch of the church which still preserves its regional character.

The history of the Presbyterian Church goes back 3,000 years to Abraham when God began to gather a "people of God" for a "covenant community" who would serve Him. Presbyterians share with all Christians faith in God as Father, in Christ as Savior, and the Holy Spirit as guide.

BELIEFS

Some emphasis of the Church are belief that all rule and authority in the organized Church belongs, under God, to the whole membership and is to be exercised by representatives called presbyters, or elders, in church courts — sessions, presbyteries, synods, general assemblies.

Presbyterians also stress first, in teaching and in preaching God's love and mercy and his rule over all of life, the soverignty of God; and secondly, human needs and duties.

These emphases are biblical, were prominent in the early centuries of the church after the resurection of Christ and then again were reaffirmed in the Reformation era when John Calvin in the 16th Century in France and Geneva and John Knox in Scotland, became leaders in the Reformation movement.

WORLDWIDE

Since the days of Calvin and John Knox, Presbyterianism has become worldwide Christian movement. The family of Presbyterian and Reformed Churches holding the Presbyterian order includes 78 denominations in 54 countries representing about 50 million Christians. The Presbyterians were among the first religious groups in America with their history going back to 1706.

In the Southern Presbyterian Church there are 16 Syods, 83 Presbyteries, 3,672 ministers and 3,978 churches with 885,524 members, according to most recent statistics. A strong spirit of missionary endeavor marked the first century of the church's life with work in Congo, Brazil, Mexico, China, Korea, Japan, Portugal, Ecuador, Taiwan (Formosa) and Iraq, with more than 1,300 missionaries being sent forth in a 50-60 million dollar enterprise to spread the Gospel.

A special offering will be received and a Communison service will be observed in all of the churches marking this occasion. The offering will go to the aid of Reformed churches in areas of the world which have been victims of disaster, war, distress and need.

Albert H. Cullen Guest Speaker

Albert H. Cullen will be the guest speaker at the Central Baptist church here today during services at 10:50 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Cullen, a native of Canada, has also served several churches here. He is a former pastor of Winnsboro, and of the First Baptist church of Evansville, Indiana for 22 years, has written several books, and is the son of a medical missionary, retired two years ago and is now living in Monroe.

Church Slates Layman's Day

Layman's Day will be observed today at the 10:50 a.m. services at Gordon Avenue Methodist Church, with local lay leader Lawrence Gibbs as main speaker, the Rev. W. M. Allen, pastor said.

Harold Riggs will be speaker at 7:30 p.m. services.

Future Jobs In Gardening

By MILDRED SWIFT

Many people called last week about pruning and fertilizing roses, now. That job needs to be done in February. It is not time to fertilize or purne any shrubs or trees now, except your wisteria. Growers recommend October for feeding this vine. If you feed earlier, you'd only bring on growth which you don't want. As for pruning shrubs and trees now, take out only dead or diseased wood.

GARDEN JOBS

If you yearn for a large bed of verbena, work up the bed and plant seed this month. I've found October a perfect time for rooting verbena, too. Just place the six inch cuttings where you want them to stay. Plant two inches deep. Keep damp.

After the chrysanthemums bloom, cut off the old tops so plants will make good root growth for next year's plants. Divide and transplant these next spring.

Don't forget to divide daisies this month and next, if they are too crowded. In fact, any of your spring blooming perennials can be divided, now.

SPRING BLOOMERS

When planting your seed for spring bloom, many of you will want poppies because they are so colorful. There are several kinds. California poppy is the low yellow one that makes a nice border. Shirley poppy is the tall one that boasts such a gorgeous pink. It's doubled and ruffled and so pretty. Both of these bloom in early spring and die when the summer sun comes shining down.

Queenslace is an easy plant to grow. It is truly named because the blossom looks like fine white lace. Beautiful in arrangements and corsages. It grows tall so should be planted in the back of the bed.

MORE

Watch plants like susanqua that have set bud. If they get too dry, the buds will drop.

If you'll notice the crape myrtles that are still blooming profusely, you'll find they're in full sun. Also, those in the sun are not as subject to mildew. At present, a number of these crape myrtles are covered with this mildew. Dust with sulphur when the foliage is dry, getting under the leaves and on the stems and trunk.

I've read that if you plant the seed of the crape myrtle, you'll get plants that produce blooms of other colors. I've tried this, but never did even get one to come up. Maybe you'll have better luck.

COREOPSIS

Coreopsis is a perennial of easy culture. They begin to bloom in April and continue through June. The plants grow about four feet tall and require staking. They have double type blooms, some three inches across.

The long stem flowers, which are slightly fragrant, are a rich butter yellow color and have raised centers of the same hue. Petals have a toothed appearance. The long narow leaves are a yellow-green color. They last well when cut.

By cutting the plants back to within eight inches of the ground, after flowering, you get a second crop of blooms. The second round of flowers are not as large, however.

Coreopsis is not choosy as to soil. They grow in various soils and exposures and will even bloom in the shade. However, a western exposure with plenty of sun is best.

Except for aphids on the new growth, coreopsis seems pretty free of pests and disease. These seed may be planted any time in the fall and as late as January. Those who have plants usually give these away, as there are so many little ones that come up.

FALL FASHIONS

One of the more recent fashions, the popular overblouse, continues its sensational success right into fall. The newest necklaces offer a big surprise. They're made of fur. The last word in high fashion is a little ring of mink, sable or fox, made to wear with suits, dresses and coats.

In the costume jewelry departments, as well as in the jewelry shops and departments where they sell the real thing, the charms shown for fall are big and getting bigger. Flat, round spherical, they're so big that the jewelry experts report that they should be worn singly on a rigid bangle bracelet.

This is the greatest coat year in many a fashion season. Like most of us, you probably want to get at least three good years wear out of a coat, so you want something basic. The style people tell us then to look for stand away or fur collars, double rows of buttons, a softly indented waistline, a smashing new tween, and see that the length is right for the style you choose.

In fashion, the fall separates take a new turn to color. Two or three colors are combined in wonderful new harmonies or clashes that give the look of a complete costume without matching. The whole effect is smart and attractive, much more alive than the matched sets of the past.

COMBINATIONS

There are some luscious combinations like brown, pale blue and deep green. Brown beige and orange, and brown, beige and yellow, are two other favorite trios. Brown incidentally, will be a trend-setter of the fall season. It will be seen in a range of chocolate to carbon shades, often in two-tone combinations. Those who prefer sharp contrasts will welcome back black with white. This currently is considered the ideal fashion combination in Paris, used with striking effect in coasts, suits and dresses.

Neutral colors look wonderful for fall, especially the fur colors such as mink browns and fox grays. They go well together, too, in such combinations as a gray flannel skirt with a camel color jacket. Add a silk blouse in a print that has a little of each color in it.

With skirts short, stockings come in for major attention. With so much color being used in the new clothes, the opportunity to extend it to hosiery, to coordinate it with the costume, takes on extra importance.

NEW KITCHENS

Name us a woman who doesn't get a kick out of rearranging the living room furniture. It's one of the most exciting facets of keeping house. Well, here's good news. It will also be easy to rearrange the kitchen equipment of tomorrow. It will be mobile and versatile, with surfaces easier to keep clean. We have this cheerful word from a member of the Industrial Designers Institute. Predictions are that the home maker will build up a collection of units in her kitchen, just as she does in the living room.

Even the refrigerator and the kitchen stove will be easy to move about. At this point don't ask us how, but we certainly do like the idea. As the needs of the family increase or decrease, the homemaker can dispose of old kitchen units and add new ones. Portable pieces of kitchen furniture. They will be dedicated to the prepation of light meals. A collection of electric housewares, such as toasters, waffle irons, and coffee makers can be stored right in the cart which you just roll to any part of the house where you care to dine.

Our authority for this look into the future also believes that the washing machine and dryer belong in the bathroom, the logical place for laundry. This would make more room in the kitchen, and prove more convenient and time-saving anyway. New kitchen furniture, which will tend to be surfaced with wood or wood grain plastic, will be completely washable with soap or detergent suds.

On the fashion side, wood color furniture will tend to produce more accessories in beigey-brown tones, with only a few accents such as pink, turquoise, or yellow. And by the way, we understand that future emphasis will be on lower cabinets rather than those placed high up on the walls. This is because you expend less energy stooping than you do reaching. And how much easier it is to swab cabinets clean when they're easy to reach. All in all, the kitchen of the future sounds most attractive, don't you think?

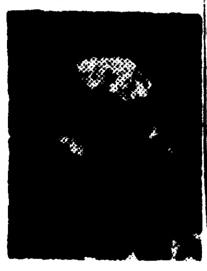
EXTENSION NEWS

Tree, Shrub Time Here



By AUDREY H. DAWSON

The fall season is a good time to plant and move shrubs and trees. Rains in the fall help plants get roots established, but of course watering is needed if the season is dry. If you are planting a new landscape and want sequence of bloom, here are some suggestions: For bloom in March, winter jasmine, winter honeysuckle, Japanese quince, forsythia, mahonia, peach, plum, redbud, Thumberg spirea and fragrant viburnum.

AUTUMN COLOR

Caladiums stop growing with the first frost and should be harvested at that time if you have not already dug them. Insects are not too troublesome in caladium production, however, if there is a sign of thrips or aphids attacking the plant the tubers should be dusted with DDT for thrips and nicotine dust for aphid control. Once the tubers are harvested they must be cured or dried. A very good way to store them is to use old nylon stockings and hang them from the ceiling of a storage room. The temperature should not go below 60 degrees F. When tubers are stored or held at temperature below 50 degrees, tuber rot is quite common.

HOMEMAKERS' HINTS

Save your worn out nylon hosiery to stuff the cuddle toys you plan to make for Christmas. Clipped into one inch pieces, the stockings make a light soft stuffing that is washable and dries quickly.

When removing spots from dark garments, apply the cleaning fluid or tepid soap mixture with a piece of old nylon stocking. It is excellent for this purpose as it leaves no lint.

Use a bit of organdie as a press cloth when you are especially anxious to see what you are pressing.

Vanilla will not evaporate if added to frostings after they are cooled.

STYLE REVUE

The Home Demonstration Council is sponsoring a style revue in cooperation with the Ouachita Parish High School Home Economics Department and a local piece goods shop. If you are interested in seeing the newest ideas of fashions for the holidays ahead you will surely want to contact a home demonstration club member or come by our office for a ticket. The home demonstration committee in charge of the revue consists of Mrs. Frank Buce, Mrs. O. J. Hamm, Mrs. Cleburn White, Mrs. Fred Riser, Mrs. T. G. Stockwell, and Mrs. James Fletcher.

WHITE COTTONS

White cottons make up a large proportion of the usual family laundry and homemakers often ask how to launder white cottons to keep them white. Recent studies showed that items washed in naturally soft or chemically softened water were considerably whiter than those washed in hard water. However, if soft water has traces of minerals such as iron, white cottons are likely to be discolored.

Garments remain whiter if washing water was up to 127 degrees F. This was found to be especially important if laundering was done in hard water. The study also showed that the low sudsing detergents gave somewhat more whiteness than the all purpose or sudsing detergents. An effective and inexpensive means of keeping garments whiter is to dry out doors, as the sunshine has a bleaching effect.

A THOUGHT

Holiday Season In Flower Show

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

The Patio Garden Club of Monroe, of which Mrs. Fred Huenefeld Jr., is president, had a lovely show last week. The feeling of the Thanksgiving season penetrated throughout their colorful arrangements.

Mrs. Joe Dixon made a line design using the colorful pyracantha berried branches to form the triangle line. These were placed in a brass footed shallow container. She cleverly concealed the pin point holder by placing small pebbles in the bowl around the base of the design. This is a long-lasting arrangement, one that is a pleasure for the busy housewife, and would be lovely for any place in the home where a bright spot is needed.

CREATED DESIGN

Mrs. Charles Ammon and Mrs. Hillory Sanders created the next design. This was a massed-line design made of aspidestra leaves, forming the overall pattern. These were beautifully rolled and polished and placed in a heavy dark gray container forming a pyramid design.

The focal area contained three large, exquisite dahlias. These were tied into the container by the placement of Japanese yew low in the design. This would make a very lovely buffett arrangement for the holiday dinner, or could be used on the patio for the seaonal parties.

Mrs. D. V. Loflin used variegated pittosporum to form a massed triangle design in a crystal tiered epergne container. She placed large pieces of oasis on each tier to hold the material used. For filler she used the clusters of light green hydrangea blossoms. For focal interest she places fresh green- yellow colored pears into the design on all sides. These brought out the harvest theme. Since this was a free - standing arrangement it would be lovely on the dining table for the holiday coffee.

MAN'S ROOM

Mrs. Jerry Ryan had the den or the man's room in mind when she made her arrangement using all dried materials. The overall line was formed by placing glycerinized eucalyptus branches, a dark brown color, in a horizontal pattern in a duck decoy container. For contrast of color she used the dried light tan colored bells of Ireland for a filler.

Also, throughout the line she placed the dried bittersweet. This is very colorful since the seed is a bright orange and gave a spark of life to the brown tones of the other dried materials. This, as I said, would be very appropriate for a man's den or the library and would be a permanent design for the whole season's length.

The horticulture was very interesting and consisted of the everblooming hydrangea, brought by Mrs. Jerry Rayan; the Charlotte Armstrong full blown rose and a bud, brought by Mrs. Fred Westrom; a very large marigold blossom, brought by Mrs. Jack Madden, and, a very unusual yellow ginger lily, brought by Mrs. J. O. Rhodes, who said this certain variety came from California.

SOUTHERN GARDNER

This Month For Asters

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

October is the month of asters, both wild and cultivated. From Maine to California, the fields and edges of woods in our country are smothered with billowing masses of purple, lavender and white, contrasting beautifully with goldenrods of many kinds.

In gardens, the Michaelmas daisies are the cultivated forms of several of our showiest wild asters. The English took them home three centuries ago, and the German and English perennial specialists developed the named varieties we know today mostly from the New England and the New York asters.

The gorgeous heads of lavender, pinkish lavender and white flowers of these perennials were used to decorate the churches in England at the celebration of Saint Michael and all Angels and soon came to be called "Michaelmas daisies."

Most of our gardens have a few Michaelmas daisies which some one gave us. They are so prolific that every new gardener inherits them from every older one. When they are set out with plenty of light and food in the new garden, they make a big display that delights both the novice and the visitor to his garden. As other plants grow, however, the Michaelmas daisies have to fight it out at the back of the border with encroaching shrubs and with other perennials. It is amazing how well they hold their own because they are gross feeders and need lots of food to develop the huge masses of flowers they produce.

Even the oldest varieties of these superb asters are beautiful, but many, many new and improved kinds have been introduced that really put the old ones in the shade. The lack of perennial nurseries in the south where so few good perennials have been developed forces us to go to northern catalogues for new plants. This is one perennial that is worth looking for, however.

Back in the twenties, the keepers of the military cemeteries in Europe developed some very dwarf asters. These beautiful plants were never a success here in the south because, in our long growing season, they bloomed themselves out during the hot months of summer. Incidentally, the dwarf or cushion chrysanthemums do the same thing.

Another type of aster that was developed in Europe, on the contrary, is a spendid plant for southern gardens. This one is called Wonder of Staffa. The large lavender flowers with yellow eyes keep opening in a continuous display from spring until frost if they are not allowed to suffer drouth. Since the flowers are sterile and cannot make seeds, the plants just keep on blooming, month in, month out. Like all plants which flower nearly continuously, Wonder of Staffa needs food. It is easy to forget and let this aster starve in your garden or get crowded out. The flowers are extremely valuable as cut flowers, however, so it is well worthwhile to keep the plants fed and cared for.

Future Jobs In Gardening

By MILDRED SWIFT

Many people called last week about pruning and fertilizing roses, now. That job needs to be done in February. It is not time to fertilize or purne any shrubs or trees now, except your wisteria. Growers recommend October for feeding this vine. If you feed earlier, you'd only bring on growth which you don't want. As for pruning shrubs and trees now, take out only dead or diseased wood.

GARDEN JOBS

If you yearn for a large bed of verbena, work up the bed and plant seed this month. I've found October a perfect time for rooting verbena, too. Just place the six inch cuttings where you want them to stay. Plant two inches deep. Keep damp.

After the chrysanthemums bloom, cut off the old tops so plants will make good root growth for next year's plants. Divide and transplant these next spring.

Don't forget to divide daisies this month and next, if they are too crowded. In fact, any of your spring blooming perennials can be divided, now.

SPRING BLOOMERS

When planting your seed for spring bloom, many of you will want poppies because they are so colorful. There are several kinds. California poppy is the low yellow one that makes a nice border. Shirley poppy is the tall one that boasts such a gorgeous pink. It's doubled and ruffled and so pretty. Both of these bloom in early spring and die when the summer sun comes shining down.

Queenslace is an easy plant to grow. It is truly named because the blossom looks like fine white lace. Beautiful in arrangements and corsages. It grows tall so should be planted in the back of the bed.

MORE

Watch plants like susanqua that have set bud. If they get too dry, the buds will drop.

If you'll notice the crape myrtles that are still blooming profusely, you'll find they're in full sun. Also, those in the sun are not as subject to mildew. At present, a number of these crape myrtles are covered with this mildew. Dust with sulphur when the foliage is dry, getting under the leaves and on the stems and trunk.

I've read that if you plant the seed of the crape myrtle, you'll get plants that produce blooms of other colors. I've tried this, but never did even get one to come up. Maybe you'll have better luck.

Tulip bulbs are coming in the stores. Put these in your refrigerator on the bottom shelf. Plant the last of November, through December.

Don't forget some Dutch iris bulbs. They bloom in early spring, colors of white, blue or golden yellow. These may be left in the ground for a number of years and they'll bloom for you each spring.

COREOPSIS

Coreopsis is a perennial of easy culture. They begin to bloom in April and continue through June. The plants grow about four feet tall and require staking. They have double type blooms, some three inches across.

The long stem flowers, which are slightly fragrant, are a rich butter yellow color and have raised centers of the same hue. Petals have a toothed appearance. The long narow leaves are a yellow-green color. They last well when cut.

By cutting the plants back to within eight inches of the ground, after flowering, you get a second crop of blooms. The second round of flowers are not as large, however.

The flowers drop seeds and the plant clumps increase in size. Clumps are best divided in January.

Coreopsis is not choosy as to soil. They grow in various soils and exposures and will even bloom in the shade. However, a western exposure with plenty of sun is best.

Except for aphids on the new growth, coreopsis seems pretty free of pests and disease. These seed may be planted any time in the fall and as late as January. Those who have plants usually give these away, as there are so many little ones that come up.

FALL FASHIONS

One of the more recent fashions, the popular overblouse, continues its sensational success right into fall. The newest necklaces offer a big surprise. They're made of fur. The last word in high fashion is a little ring of mink, sable or fox, made to wear with suits, dresses and coats.

In the costume jewelry departments, as well as in the jewelry shops and departments where they sell the real thing, the charms shown for fall are big and getting bigger. Flat, round spherical, they're so big that the jewelry experts report that they should be worn singly on a rigid bangle bracelet.

This is the greatest coat year in many a fashion season. Like most of us, you probably want to get at least three good years wear out of a coat, so you want something basic. The style people tell us then to look for stand away or fur collars, double rows of buttons, a softly indented waistline, a smashing new tween, and see that the length is right for the style you choose.

In fashion, the fall separates take a new turn to color. Two or three colors are combined in wonderful new harmonies or clashes that give the look of a complete costume without matching. The whole effect is smart and attractive, much more alive than the matched sets of the past.

COMBINATIONS

There are some luscious combinations like brown, pale blue and deep green. Brown beige and orange, and brown, beige and yellow, are two other favorite trios. Brown incidentally, will be a trend-setter of the fall season. It will be seen in a range of chocolate to carbon shades, often in two-tone combinations. Those who prefer sharp contrasts will welcome back black with white. This currently is considered the ideal fashion combination in Paris, used with striking effect in coasts, suits and dresses.

Neutral colors look wonderful for fall, especially the fur colors such as mink browns and fox grays. They go well together, too, in such combinations as a gray flannel skirt with a camel color jacket. Add a silk blouse in a print that has a little of each color in it.

With skirts short, stockings come in for major attention. With so much color being used in the new clothes, the opportunity to extend it to hosiery, to coordinate it with the costume, takes on extra importance.

NEW KITCHENS

Name us a woman who doesn't get a kick out of rearranging the living room furniture. It's one of the most exciting facets of keeping house. Well, here's good news. It will also be easy to rearrange the kitchen equipment of tomorrow. It will be mobile and versatile, with surfaces easier to keep clean. We have this cheerful word from a member of the Industrial Designers Institute. Predictions are that the homemaker will build up a collection of units in her kitchen, just as she does in the living room.

Even the refrigerator and the kitchen stove will be easy to move about. At this point don't ask us how, but we certainly do like the idea. As the needs of the family increase or decrease, the homemaker can dispose of old kitchen units and add new ones. Portable pieces of kitchen furniture. They will be dedicated to the preparation of light meals. A collection of electric housewares, such as toasters, waffle irons, and coffee makers can be stored right in the cart which you just roll to any part of the house where you care to dine.

Our authority for this look into the future also believes that the washing machine and dryer belong in the bathroom, the logical place for laundry. This would make more room in the kitchen, and prove more convenient and time-saving anyway. New kitchen furniture, which will tend to be surfaced with wood or wood grain plastic, will be completely washable with soap or detergent suds.

On the fashion side, wood color furniture will tend to produce more accessories in beigey-brown tones, with only a few accents such as pink, turquoise, or yellow. And by the way, we understand that future emphasis will be on lower cabinets rather than those placed high up on the walls. This is because you expend less energy stooping than you do reaching. And how much easier it is to swab cabinets clean when they're easy to reach. All in all, the kitchen of the future sounds most attractive, don't you think?

Tree, Shrub Time Here

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

The fall season is a good time to plant and move shrubs and trees. Rains in the fall help plants get roots established, but of course watering is needed if the season is dry. If you are planting a new landscape and want sequence of bloom, here are some suggestions: For bloom in March, winter jasmine, winter honeysuckle, Japanese quince, forsythia, mahonia, peach, plum, redbud, Thumberg spirea and fragrant viburnum.

AUTUMN COLOR

Caladiums stop growing with the first frost and should be harvested at that time if you have not already dug them. Insects are not too troublesome in caladium production, however, if there is a sign of thrips or aphids attacking the plant the tubers should be dusted with DDT for thrips and nicotine dust for aphid control. Once the tubers are harvested they must be cured or dried. A very good way to store them is to use old nylon stockings and hang them from the ceiling of a storage room. The temperature should not go below 60 degrees F. When tubers are stored or held at temperature below 50 degrees, tuber rot is quite common.

HOMEMAKERS' HINTS

Save your worn out nylon hosiery to stuff the cuddle toys you plan to make for Christmas. Clipped into one inch pieces, the stockings make a light soft stuffing that is washable and dries quickly.

When removing spots from dark garments, apply the cleaning fluid or tepid soap mixture with a piece of old nylon stocking. It is excellent for this purpose as it leaves no lint.

Use a bit of organdie as a press cloth when you are especially anxious to see what you are pressing.

Vanilla will not evaporate if added to frostings after they are cooled.

STYLE REVUE

The Home Demonstration Council is sponsoring a style revue in cooperation with the Ouachita Parish High School Home Economics Department and a local piece goods shop. If you are interested in seeing the newest ideas of fashions for the holidays ahead you will surely want to contact a home demonstration club member or come by our office for a ticket. The home demonstration committee in charge of the revue consists of Mrs. Frank Buce, Mrs. O. J. Hamm, Mrs. Cleburn White, Mrs. Fred Riser, Mrs. T. G. Stockwell, and Mrs. James Fletcher.

WHITE COTTONS

White cottons make up a large proportion of the usual family laundry and homemakers often ask how to launder white cottons to keep them white. Recent studies showed that items washed in naturally soft or chemically softened water were considerably whiter than those washed in hard water. However, if soft water has traces of minerals such as iron, white cottons are likely to be discolored.

Garments remain whiter if washing water was up to 127 degrees F. This was found to be especially important if laundering was done in hard water. The study also showed that the low sudsing detergents gave somewhat more whiteness than the all purpose or sudsing detergents. An effective and inexpensive means of keeping garments whiter is to dry out doors, as the sunshine has a bleaching effect.

MAY LAST GENERATION

Macmillan Sees Long Cold War

BRIGHTON, England (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said Saturday the cold war may last another generation or longer, and Britain needs political ties with continental European nations "as joint pilgrims on the road to peace and freedom."

A basic shift in British policy was disclosed with the announcement last Tuesday that Britain intends to participate fully in political as well as economic affairs of Western Europe if it joins the six-naton Common Market.

Macmillan touched on this prospective break with the past in a review of government policy before 5,000 delegates at the windup of a five-day conference of his Consefvative party.

The times require such a step, Macmillan said, to guarantee protection of the free way of life in Western Europe.

Among other highlights of his declarations:

THE COLD WAR: Berlin is a test case that will prove to all the world whether the Soviet Union really wants to ease international tensions. Patient diplomacy being exercised by Britain and its allies, he hopes, will provide a basis for negotiation. Nothing can bridge the gap between communism and any idealist philosophy based on belief in God. But in the fullness of time "the Communist countries may begin to develop into more normal civilizations, recovering a moral basis for their own life."

INDUSTRY: The prime minister threw his personal support behind proposals being evolved by Selwyn Lloyd, chancellor of the exchequer, to plan Britain's economic growth on a voluntary basis and fashion a policy of pegging wages and profits to the nation's productivity level. Macmillan warned all Britons it will be necessary to work harder and "to keep a close eye on our costs and prices."

DOMESTIC POLITICS: Reminding the conference that the Conservatives have held power fo a decade, Macmillan predicted the electorate will keep them in power at least 10 more years. The prime minister, 67, added with a smile: "I cannot promise to be at the helm during all that time."

He was interrupted once just before his windup remarks. A middle-aged man who had slipped into a corner of the hall shouted:

Stewards escorted the man from the hall. The empire loyalists, a small right-wing group, contend that Macmillan's regime has trown away Britain's imperial heritage.

What form Britain's closer ties with Europe will take was not detailed. But the prime minister referred repeatedly to hopes that Britain will join France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg in the Common Market. Negotiations are to be held in Brussels in November. The Conservative conference gave its approval Thursday.

Through the centuries Britain has regarded itself as standing somewhat outside the continent. This attitude has been modified in recent months by successes of the six Common Market nations in linking their economies and moving toward common tariff policies. In applying for membership the British propose reservations for protection of British farmers and Commonwealth trade.

Macmillan denied that Commonwealth ties would be weakened. But he said that once Britain linked itself with the six continental neighbors the industry of this island kingdom would find itself faced with fiercer competition. He described the move into the Common Market as a "bracing cold shower. Not a relaxing Turkish bath."

Outside there were demonstrations in the streets by opponents of the Common Market, advocates of nuclear disarmament, and members of the League of Empire Loyalists.

A chartered double-deck bus drove past the conference hall with signs reading: "The Common Market means the end of independence.

Czech Forces Mistaken For Americans

BERLIN (UPI)—Refugees reported Saturday that jubilant East Germans threw flowers at maneuvering Communist Czechoslovakian troops whom they mistook for liberating Americans.

Nine of the refugees fled East Berlin Friday under the heaviest Communist gunfire in the current crisis. They said the flower-throwing incident occurred at the town of Wuensdorf, 20 miles south of Berlin.

The town's residents, having seen few but Russian and East German uniforms in years, thought Czech troops ordered there as part of the 50,000-man maneuvering Warsaw Pact armies were Americans come to liberate them.

"The Americans are here," some shouted as the flower barrage began, the refugees said. When the Wuensdorfers discovered the troops were Czechs, they collected their bouquets and took them home, the refugees reported.

The nine refugees also reported a Russian rocket, apparently invoved in the East bloc maneuvers that started last weekend, fell in the village of Jueterbog, 5 miles from Berlin.

The rocket caused heavy damage, they said, but they did not know how many—if any—persons were killed or injured.

They reported heavy Soviet troop movements in East Germany. One Russian soldier friend of theirs, they said, was ordered home after a year of service instead of the usual three because he fraternized too much with Germans.

Top Specialist On Cancer To Check Rayburn

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—Another of the nation's top cancer specialists is scheduled to examine House Speaker Sam Rayburn, 79, Sunday to determine whether cancer-remission drugs are helping him.

The cancer will, in the end, kill Rayburn. But specialists hope that 5 fluoro-uracil and a derivative, FUDR, will slow the progress of the tumor enough for him to be returned to his Bonham, Tex., home to spend his last days.

His condition is about the same as it was. He is relatively comfortable and apparently fully recovered from a pneumonia attack Wednesday.

Dr. Anthony Curreri, director of cancer research at the University of Wisconsin, is expected to see Rayburn Sunday. Dr. David A Karnofsky of New York's Sloan-Kettering cancer center, saw him Friday.

Dr. Karnofsky said the drugs being given to Rayburn have been tried in 2,000-3,000 cases, with a benefit rate of about 15 per cent. The drugs are experimental.

Former President Harry Truman made a special trip to Dallas to visit Rayburn for five or six minutes Friday.

Truman and Rayburn are close friends. Rayburn was reported to have tried to climb out of bed Friday when he heard Truman was coming to see him.

The conference comprises professional staff from affiliates and chapters across the country.

Macmillan Sees Long Cold War

BRIGHTON, England (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said Saturday the cold war may last another generation or longer, and Britain needs political ties with continental European nations "as joint pilgrims on the road to peace and freedom."

A basic shift in British policy was disclosed with the announcement last Tuesday that Britain intends to participate fully in political as well as economic affairs of Western Europe if it joins the six-naton Common Market.

Macmillan touched on this prospective break with the past in a review of government policy before 5,000 delegates at the windup of a five-day conference of his Consefvative party.

The times require such a step, Macmillan said, to guarantee protection of the free way of life in Western Europe.

Among other highlights of his declarations:

THE COLD WAR: Berlin is a test case that will prove to all the world whether the Soviet Union really wants to ease international tensions. Patient diplomacy being exercised by Britain and its allies, he hopes, will provide a basis for negotiation. Nothing can bridge the gap between communism and any idealist philosophy based on belief in God. But in the fullness of time "the Communist countries may begin to develop into more normal civilizations, recovering a moral basis for their own life."

INDUSTRY: The prime minister threw his personal support behind proposals being evolved by Selwyn Lloyd, chancellor of the exchequer, to plan Britain's economic growth on a voluntary basis and fashion a policy of pegging wages and profits to the nation's productivity level. Macmillan warned all Britons it will be necessary to work harder and "to keep a close eye on our costs and prices."

DOMESTIC POLITICS: Reminding the conference that the Conservatives have held power fo a decade, Macmillan predicted the electorate will keep them in power at least 10 more years. The prime minister, 67, added with a smile: "I cannot promise to be at the helm during all that time."

He was interrupted once just before his windup remarks. A middle-aged man who had slipped into a corner of the hall shouted:

What form Britain's closer ties with Europe will take was not detailed. But the prime minister referred repeatedly to hopes that Britain will join France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg in the Common Market. Negotiations are to be held in Brussels in November. The Conservative conference gave its approval Thursday.

Through the centuries Britain has regarded itself as standing somewhat outside the continent. This attitude has been modified in recent months by successes of the six Common Market nations in linking their economies and moving toward common tariff policies. In applying for membership the British propose reservations for protection of British farmers and Commonwealth trade.

Macmillan denied that Commonwealth ties would be weakened. But he said that once Britain linked itself with the six continental neighbors the industry of this island kingdom would find itself faced with fiercer competition. He described the move into the Common Market as a "bracing cold shower. Not a relaxing Turkish bath."

Outside there were demonstrations in the streets by opponents of the Common Market, advocates of nuclear disarmament, and members of the League of Empire Loyalists.

A chartered double-deck bus drove past the conference hall with signs reading: "The Common Market means the end of independence.

Czech Forces Mistaken For Americans

BERLIN (UPI)—Refugees reported Saturday that jubilant East Germans threw flowers at maneuvering Communist Czechoslovakian troops whom they mistook for liberating Americans.

Nine of the refugees fled East Berlin Friday under the heaviest Communist gunfire in the current crisis. They said the flower-throwing incident occurred at the town of Wuensdorf, 20 miles south of Berlin.

The town's residents, having seen few but Russian and East German uniforms in years, thought Czech troops ordered there as part of the 50,000-man maneuvering Warsaw Pact armies were Americans come to liberate them.

"The Americans are here," some shouted as the flower barrage began, the refugees said. When the Wuensdorfers discovered the troops were Czechs, they collected their bouquets and took them home, the refugees reported.

The nine refugees also reported a Russian rocket, apparently invoved in the East bloc maneuvers that started last weekend, fell in the village of Jueterbog, 5 miles from Berlin.

The rocket caused heavy damage, they said, but they did not know how many—if any—persons were killed or injured.

They reported heavy Soviet troop movements in East Germany. One Russian soldier friend of theirs, they said, was ordered home after a year of service instead of the usual three because he fraternized too much with Germans.

Top Specialist On Cancer To Check Rayburn

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—Another of the nation's top cancer specialists is scheduled to examine House Speaker Sam Rayburn, 79, Sunday to determine whether cancer-remission drugs are helping him.

The cancer will, in the end, kill Rayburn. But specialists hope that 5 fluoro-uracil and a derivative, FUDR, will slow the progress of the tumor enough for him to be returned to his Bonham, Tex., home to spend his last days.

His condition is about the same as it was. He is relatively comfortable and apparently fully recovered from a pneumonia attack Wednesday.

Dr. Anthony Curreri, director of cancer research at the University of Wisconsin, is expected to see Rayburn Sunday. Dr. David A. Karnofsky of New York's Sloan-Kettering cancer center, saw him Friday.

Dr. Karnofsky said the drugs being given to Rayburn have been tried in 2,000-3,000 cases, with a benefit rate of about 15 per cent. The drugs are experimental.

Former President Harry Truman made a special trip to Dallas to visit Rayburn for five or six minutes Friday.

Truman and Rayburn are close friends. Rayburn was reported to have tried to climb out of bed Friday when he heard Truman was coming to see him.

Only three others were finalled throughout the entire 14-parish Monroe Oil and Gas District, though a total of 19 new locations were staked. Yesterday's report from the office of Manager Duncan S. Cook showed 661 locations over the district, of which 18 were drilling. Others were testing. Fourteen rigs were abandoned during the week, bringing the total on inactive sites to [illegible].

Representatives Of LP&L Attend Training Course

Walter E. (Tommy) Bond Jr., and John D. Grantham, sales representatives for Louisiana Power and Light Co. in West Monroe, are attending a five-week basic sales training course being held at the Company's West Bank Division office in Gretna, just across the Mississippi River from New Orleans.

Grantham is assigned to the Dubach district as well as the West Monroe district; Bond works solely in the West Monroe area. They are among 10 new LP&L salespeople from throughout the company's service area attending the course from September 25 through October 27.

Charles R. Brackin, sales training consultant for LP&L, is directing the training. Brackin explained that the course covers many facets of company operation, including basic selling principles, sales promotion and advertising, communications, area development, fundamentals of electricity, public speaking, the latest information on electric appliances and equipment, and other subjects.

F. C. McConnell, district manager for LP&L in West Monroe, training and the up-to-date information the course affords will make them more valuable to customers. Those customers needing help in designing lighting, kitchens or wiring—or selecting appliances or other electrical equipment—are invited to call them for this free service, McConnell said.

IN SEVEN STATES

Oil Price Slashes Bring Arguments

HOUSTON (AP) — There is disagreement over the significance of a wave of price cuts affecting crude oil in seven states.

The reductions so far have affected only 400,000 barrels of daily production.

Most independent operators disagree.

The Oil & Gas Journal had this to say:

"Buyers insist general crude market so far is firm, but none will predict how long it will hold if product prices persist in riding a toboggan."

The magazine's weekly market memorandum then added:

"Gasoline prices are getting sicker."

Wholesale prices of regular gasoline in the Mid-continent area, for example, ranged last week from 9¾ to 10¼ cents a gallon, to 1 cents.

States affected by the price cuts so far are Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Colorado, Nebraska, Wyoming, and New Mexico.

All of the price changes have applied only to specific fields in each area. Production from the East Texas field and the Denver-Julesburg basin area of Colorado and Nebraska accounts for nearly half the 400,000 barrels affected so far.

Humble Oil & Refining Co., the domestic affiliate of Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) is among the major purchasers insisting the price changes are adjustments reflecting the relative refinery values of the various grades of crude.

Humble officials said price increases since last Jan. 1 just about balance the price cuts. They said increases as of last Monday involved 324,000 barrels of daily production while decreases involved 380,000.

Last week Humble cut its posted price for the East Texas field from $3.25 to $3.10, an action affecting about 15,000 barrels a day.

The last general increase in crude prices got under way on Jan. 3, 1957, when Humble boosted Texas prices an average of 35 cents a barrel. This general hike boosted the 1957 average price of all crude sold east of the Rocky Mountains to $3.18. The average had dropped to $3.09 by 1959. It climbed to $3.10 last year but was back to $3.09 last month.

Wholesale gasoline prices averaged 12.06 cents a gallon in 1957. A drop to 11.57 cents was recorded in 1959, while 1960 closed at 11.69 after ranging as high as 12.20 cents. Gasoline prices declined during six of the first nine months of 1961, averaging only 11.25 cents in September.

The market situation at that time was in sharp contrast with today's world surplus of crude. The Middle East crisis had closed the Suez Canal and domestic producers were rushing oil to western Europe.

Domestic production reached its all time high of 7,818,400 barrels a day less than three months after the price hike. Last week's average was only 7,112,000.

Mart Jiggles Way To Loss During Week

It was the first decline in three weeks and came on the heels of a strong advance.

The Ford strike ended but auto production was cut by the work stoppage and its decline in 10 weeks, reflecting the shutdown of Ford's steelmaking facilities and the fact that new orders are not coming in as fast as expected.

At the same time, the foreign situation, while in a state of comparative calm, had ominous potentialities, heightened as the trading week ended by the firing of shots at U.S. military police by East German police.

The consequence was that the Friday session showed the week's sharpest loss as preweekend caution was accentuated. Enough speculative demand remained, however, to push up a selection of stocks.

The most sensational gainer was Honolulu Oil which spurted 16⅝ to close the week at 97. Buyers swarmed to this stock as a federal judge denied a request for an antitrust injunction to halt sale of Honolulu's assets. The company made immediate plans to complete the sale.

Tobaccos were strong early in the week, then retreated frantically as a federal appeals court ordered a retrial of a $1.25 million damage suit against Liggett & Myers by a lung cancer victim.

Makers of textiles and textile machinery had a flurry in mid-week as President Kennedy announced a faster tax-depreciation writeoff for textile machinery.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 1.30 to 257.30, falling off moderately from the historic high on 258.60 set in the final trading day of the previous week.

Volume for the week was 16,172,670 shares compared with 16,240,792 the previous week. Of 1,442 issues traded, gainers slightly outnumbered losers, 662 to 632, but the averages were depressed by losses of key stocks.

Corporate bond prices continued uphill slowly this week while U.S. Treasury issues went the other way.

Near the end of the week, top-grade corporate bonds yielded only 30 to 35 basis points more than long - term U.S. government issues.

The volume of corporate trading rose during the week to $29,760,000. It was $27,430,000 the week before and $30,200,000 two weeks previously.

Cotton Futures Decline With Irregular Moves

The softening of the market reflected early profit-taking attracted by last week's advances an subsequent hedge selling and commission house liquidation on a larger than expected official crop forecast.

On Friday, the May delivery was under pressure of long liquidation and the uncovering of stop loss orders, price fixing and scattered buying.

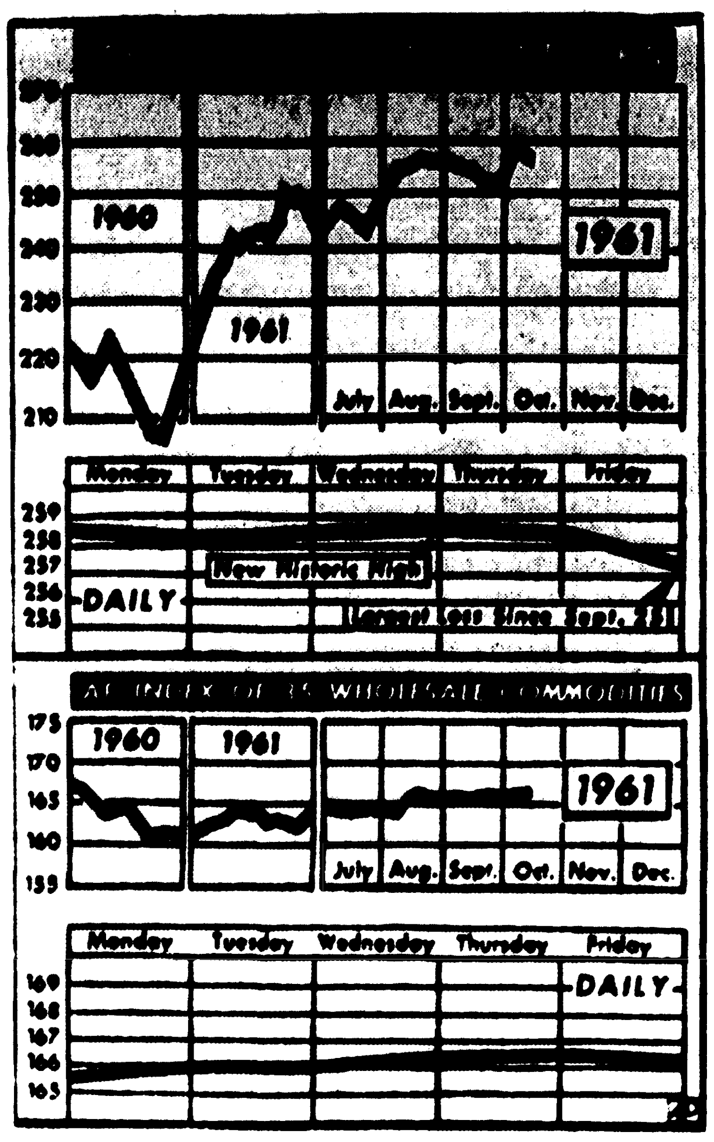
The trade had been expecting the official Oct. 1 crop forecast to show a moderate decrease but the Department of Agriulture forecast was for 14,334,000 bales, up 72,000 from its prediction a month earlier.

The Department of Agriulture announced a national acreage allotment for the 1962 upland cotton crop of 18,102,000 acres, compared with the 1961 allotment of 18,458,000. Trade organizations had been urging an increase.

Exports for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 106,000 bales, compared with 53,000 the previous week and 84,000 a year ago. For the season through Oct. 10, exports totaled 1,040,000 bales against 405,000 last season.

ADOPT NEW NAME

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet air force's monthly magazine "The Air Force Bulletin" will appear in January under a new name, "Aviation and Cosmonautics," Tass said today.



THE ASSOCIATED Press average of 60 stocks declined for the first time in three weeks, closing today at 257.3 from 258.6 a week ago. The Commodity Index, with grains showing the biggest gain, advanced for the first time in three weeks, closing at 166.2 from 165.6 a week earlier. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

ECONOMIC OUTLOOK

Auto Settlement Lifts Dark Cloud

NEW YORK (AP) — A dark cloud lifted from the economic outlook during the week when Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers Union agreed on a three-year national contract.

This major step toward complete labor peace in the industry enhanced the possibilities that the final months of the year will see business rolling along at a fast pace.

With General Motors and American Motors already having signed contracts with the UAW, the Ford agreement leaves only Chrysler Corp. to come to terms with the union.

The final Ford-UAW national terms were agreed upon Wednesday. That left only local grievances to be settled at 26 of Ford's plants. The company and the union were hopeful that production could be resumed at all plants Monday.

Ford operations had been shut down since Oct. 3.

A fly in the ointment developed when one big local rejected the precedent - shattering profit-sharing contract with American Motors. However the union was hopeful of getting that situation straightened out.

Auto production slumped as a result of the Ford strike. Output fell to an estimated 99,000 passenger cars from 102,098 during the week and 144,091 a year ago.

A spurt in car sales occurred in the final 10 days of September, when dealers delivered 172,750 new U.S.-made cars, compared with 163,400 in the like week last year. However, sales for all of September sagged to 350,958 from 422,707 a year ago.

The Ford settlement was good news to the steel industry, which has seen its hopes for a sharp pickup in demand early this fall go glimmering because of the GM and Ford strikes.

Steel production during the week declined for the first time in 10 weeks, reflecting the reluctance of automakers to place heavy orders. Output totaled 2,102,000 tons, off 1.4 per cent from the previous week's 2,131,000. Production is down 10 per cent for the year.

Nonfarm employment showed improvement in September, rising to a new high of 53.9 million, about 200,000 above the previous record set in September 1960. This was a gain of 500,000 over August and 2.6 million above the recession-low last February.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg said he was particularly happy to report that "a full half-million of the rise in wage and salary employment has occurred among the hard goods industries which bore the brunt of the recession."

"These facts, taken together with a more-than-season decline in adult male unemployment and long-term unemployment and involuntary part-time work we are reporting this month," he added, "show that we are beginning to make a recovery on the employment side, which always lags behind over-all economic recovery in production, gross national product, etc."

Retail sales of $18.166 billion in September were almost equal to the level of August and September 1960. Retailers of durable goods reported a one per cent gain over August, showing a better demand for automobiles, appliances and home and farm equipment.

The textile industry was heartened by a new federal tax depreciation schedule announced by President Kennedy. The estimated average useful life for most textile machinery was reduced from 25 years to 15 and in some instances 12.

The President said the action will help the industry to modernize, meet competition and provide jobs.

The government made another move against price-fixing and bid-rigging. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy asked 2,000 state and lo-

SAFE WATER

CHICAGO (UPI) — In event of nuclear war or an accident in an atomic plant, a mobile water purification unit described recently to the American Chemical Society could remove 97 per cent of the plutonium in contaminated water at the rate of 1,500 gallons per hour.

Maurice Pressman, a chemist at the U. S. Army Engineer Research and Development Laboratories, Fort Belvoir, Va., said the equipment is believed capable of reducing water contamination to safety levels set by the National Committee on Radiation Protection for 30-day emergency consumption.

4 New Gas Wells Are Competed

Four new gas wells were completed last week in Ouachita Parish, all of them in the Monroe Gas Field. Only three others were finalled throughout the entire 14-parish Monroe Oil and Gas District, though a total of 19 new locations were staked. There was one re-completion, that in the Richland Parish Big Creek Field, and a total of 16 other rigs were active, three in Ouachita Parish.

Yesterday's report from the office of Manager Duncan S. Cook showed 661 locations over the district, of which 18 were drilling. Others were testing. Fourteen rigs were abandoned during the week, bringing the total on inactive sites to 112.

Representatives Of LP&L Attend Training Course

Walter E. (Tommy) Bond Jr., and John D. Grantham, sales representatives for Louisiana Power and Light Co. in West Monroe, are attending a five-week basic sales training course being held at the Company's West Bank Division office in Gretna, just across the Mississippi River from New Orleans.

Grantham is assigned to the Dubach district as well as the West Monroe district; Bond works solely in the West Monroe area. They are among 10 new LP&L salespeople from throughout the company's service area attending the course from September 25 through October 27.

Charles R. Brackin, sales training consultant for LP&L, is directing the training. Brackin explained that the course covers many facets of company operation, including basic selling principles, sales promotion and advertising, communications, area development, fundamentals of electricity, public speaking, the latest information on electric appliances and equipment, and other subjects.

F. C. McConnell, district manager for LP&L in West Monroe, training and the up-to-date information the course affords will make them more valuable to customers. Those customers needing help in designing lighting, kitchens or wiring—or selecting appliances or other electrical equipment—are invited to call them for this free service, McConnell said.

Mart Jiggles Way To Loss During Week

It was the first decline in three weeks and came on the heels of a strong advance.

The Ford strike ended but auto production was cut by the work stoppage and its decline in 10 weeks, reflecting the shutdown of Ford's steelmaking facilities and the fact that new orders are not coming in as fast as expected.

At the same time, the foreign situation, while in a state of comparative calm, had ominous potentialities, heightened as the trading week ended by the firing of shots at U.S. military police by East German police.

The consequence was that the Friday session showed the week's sharpest loss as preweekend caution was accentuated. Enough speculative demand remained, however, to push up a selection of stocks.

The most sensational gainer was Honolulu Oil which spurted 16⅝ to close the week at 97. Buyers swarmed to this stock as a federal judge denied a request for an antitrust injunction to halt sale of Honolulu's assets. The company made immediate plans to complete the sale.

Tobaccos were strong early in the week, then retreated frantically as a federal appeals court ordered a retrial of a $1.25 million damage suit against Liggett & Myers by a lung cancer victim.

Makers of textiles and textile machinery had a flurry in midweek as President Kennedy announced a faster tax-depreciation writeoff for textile machinery.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 1.30 to 257.30, falling off moderately from the historic high on 258.60 set in the final trading day of the previous week.

Volume for the week was 16,172,670 shares compared with 16,240,792 the previous week. Of 1,442 issues traded, gainers slightly outnumbered losers, 662 to 632, but the averages were depressed by losses of key stocks.

Corporate bond prices continued uphill slowly this week while U.S. Treasury issues went the other way.

Near the end of the week, top-grade corporate bonds yielded only 30 to 35 basis points more than long - term U.S. government issues.

The volume of corporate trading rose during the week to $29,760,000. It was $27,430,000 the week before and $30,200,000 two weeks previously.

IN SEVEN STATES

Oil Price Slashes Bring Arguments

HOUSTON (AP) — There is disagreement over the significance of a wave of price cuts affecting crude oil in seven states.

The reductions so far have affected only 400,000 barrels of daily production.

Major purchasers say the price cuts are nothing more than adjustments dictated by competitive situations. They see no threat to the domestic crude price structure.

Most independent operators disagree.

"That's too much crude to adjust," said Johnny Mitchell, a Houston independent. "The price structure for crude is in great jeopardy. Everything avalanches.

The Oil & Gas Journal had this to say:

"Buyers insist general crude market so far is firm, but none will predict how long it will hold if product prices persist in riding a toboggan."

The magazine's weekly market memorandum then added:

"Gasoline prices are getting sicker."

Wholesale prices of regular gasoline in the Mid-continent area, for example, ranged last week from 9¾ to 10¼ cents a gallon. to 1 cents.

States affected by the price cuts so far are Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Colorado, Nebraska, Wyoming, and New Mexico.

All of the price changes have applied only to specific fields in each area. Production from the East Texas field and the Denver-Julesburg basin area of Colorado and Nebraska accounts for nearly half the 400,000 barrels affected so far.

Humble Oil & Refining Co., the domestic affiliate of Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) is among the major purchasers insisting the price changes are adjustments reflecting the relative refinery values of the various grades of crude.

Humble officials said price increases since last Jan. 1 just about balance the price cuts. They said increases as of last Monday involved 324,000 barrels of daily production while decreases involved 380,000.

Last week Humble cut its posted price for the East Texas field from $3.25 to $3.10, an action affecting about 15,000 barrels a day.

The last general increase in crude prices got under way on Jan. 3, 1957, when Humble boosted Texas prices an average of 35 cents a barrel. This general hike boosted the 1957 average price of all crude sold east of the Rocky Mountains to $3.18. The average had dropped to $3.09 by 1959. It climbed to $3.10 last year but was back to $3.09 last month.

Wholesale gasoline prices averaged 12.06 cents a gallon in 1957. A drop to 11.57 cents was recorded in 1959, while 1960 closed at 11.69 after ranging as high as 12.20 cents. Gasoline prices declined during six of the first nine months of 1961, averaging only 11.25 cents in September.

The market situation at that time was in sharp contrast with today's world surplus of crude. The Middle East crisis had closed the Suez Canal and domestic producers were rushing oil to western Europe.

Domestic production reached its all time high of 7,818,400 barrels a day less than three months after the price hike. Last week's average was only 7,112,000.

Cotton Futures Decline With Irregular Moves

The softening of the market reflected early profit-taking attracted by last week's advances an subsequent hedge selling and commission house liquidation on a larger than expected official crop forecast.

On Friday, the May delivery was under pressure of long liquidation and the uncovering of stop loss orders, price fixing and scattered buying.

The trade had been expecting the official Oct. 1 crop forecast to show a moderate decrease but the Department of Agriculture forecast was for 14,334,000 bales, up 72,000 from its prediction a month earlier.

The Department of Agriulture announced a national acreage allotment for the 1962 upland cotton crop of 18,102,000 acres, compared with the 1961 allotment of 18,458,000. Trade organizations had been urging an increase.

Exports for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 106,000 bales, compared with 53,000 the previous week and 84,000 a year ago. For the season through Oct. 10, exports totaled 1,040,000 bales against 405,000 last season.

ECONOMIC OUTLOOK

Auto Settlement Lifts Dark Cloud

NEW YORK (AP) — A dark cloud lifted from the economic outlook during the week when Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers Union agreed on a three-year national contract.

This major step toward complete labor peace in the industry enhanced the possibilities that the final months of the year will see business rolling along at a fast pace.

With General Motors and American Motors already having signed contracts with the UAW, the Ford agreement leaves only Chrysler Corp. to come to terms with the union.

The final Ford-UAW national terms were agreed upon Wednesday. That left only local grievances to be settled at 26 of Ford's plants. The company and the union were hopeful that production could be resumed at all plants Monday.

Ford operations had been shut down since Oct. 3.

A fly in the ointment developed when one big local rejected the precedent - shattering profit-sharing contract with American Motors. However, the union was hopeful of getting that situation straightened out.

Auto production slumped as a result of the Ford strike. Output fell to an estimated 99,000 passenger cars from 102,098 during the week and 144,091 a year ago.

A spurt in car sales occurred in the final 10 days of September, when dealers delivered 172,750 new U.S.-made cars, compared with 163,400 in the like week last year. However, sales for all of September sagged to 350,958 from 422,707 a year ago.

The Ford settlement was good news to the steel industry, which has seen its hopes for a sharp pickup in demand early this fall go glimmering because of the GM and Ford strikes.

Steel production during the week declined for the first time in 10 weeks, reflecting the reluctance of automakers to place heavy orders. Output totaled 2,102,000 tons, off 1.4 per cent from the previous week's 2,131,000. Production is down 10 per cent for the year.

Nonfarm employment showed improvement in September, rising to a new high of 53.9 million, about 200,000 above the previous record set in September 1960. This was a gain of 500,000 over August and 2.6 million above the recession-low last February.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg said he was particularly happy to report that "a full half-million of the rise in wage and salary employment has occurred among the hard goods industries which bore the brunt of the recession."

"These facts, taken together with a more-than-season decline in adult male unemployment and long-term unemployment and involuntary part-time work we are reporting this month," he added, "show that we are beginning to make a recovery on the employment side, which always lags behind over-all economic recovery in production, gross national product, etc."

Retail sales of $18.166 billion in September were almost equal to the level of August and September 1960. Retailers of durable goods reported a one per cent gain over August, showing a better demand for automobiles, appliances and home and farm equipment.

The textile industry was heartened by a new federal tax depreciation schedule announced by President Kennedy. The estimated average useful life for most textile machinery was reduced from 25 years to 15 and in some instances 12.

The President said the action will help the industry to modernize, meet competition and provide jobs.

The government made another move against price-fixing and bid-rigging. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy asked 2,000 state and lo-

SAFE WATER

CHICAGO (UPI) — In event of nuclear war or an accident in an atomic plant, a mobile water purification unit described recently to the American Chemical Society could remove 97 per cent of the plutonium in contaminated water at the rate of 1,500 gallons per hour.

Maurice Pressman, a chemist at the U. S. Army Engineer Research and Development Laboratories, Fort Belvoir, Va., said the equipment is believed capable of reducing water contamination to safety levels set by the National Committee on Radiation Protection for 30-day emergency consumption.

LANDLORD GOODBYE!

We've been paying you $110 a month for this apartment, which has been fine for you, but not so good for us. No closet space. Dinky kitchen. No yard for kids. No garden for the wife. No privacy. No security.

Today, we were riding around Monroe and West Monroe, College, Southside, and Lakeshore Area, and by sheer chance discovered a lot of nice homes in good family communities listed by Irene Reid for sale. You haven't seen them, have you? Well, Irene Reid Realty has always kept a big advertising campaign going, and it's a wonder you didn't make it your business to find out what kind of lovely homes she has listed, and do something about your outdated apartments. We found out that for a reasonable down payment and monthly payments, we can OWN our own 3 bedroom home. Now we will have big closets, glamorous tile baths, snazzy kitchen, AND a yard, AND a garden, AND privacy, AND security. We're going to be property owners, Mr. Landlord.

So, Landlord, Good-bye! No hard feelings, but we're telling all our rent-paying friends, our old-old-house friends, and our new-in-town friends to go see—and buy—Irene Reid's listings. They're fabulous and varied. Just any part of Monroe or West Monroe that you're looking for, and say, Mr. Landlord, maybe you ought to call Irene Reid's sales department yourself. The number is FA 3-1679 and FA 5-4373 or FA 5-4374. Ask anybody in her sales department, here they are:

LANDLORD GOODBYE!

We've been paying you $110 a month for this apartment, which has been fine for you, but not so good for us. No closet space. Dinky kitchen. No yard for kids. No garden for the wife. No privacy. No security.

Today, we were riding around Monroe and West Monroe, College, Southside, and Lakeshore Area, and by sheer chance discovered a lot of nice homes in good family communities listed by Irene Reid for sale. You haven't seen them, have you? Well, Irene Reid Realty has always kept a big advertising campaign going, and it's a wonder you didn't make it your business to find out what kind of lovely homes she has listed, and do something about your outdated apartments. We found out that for a reasonable down payment and monthly payments, we can OWN our own 3 bedroom home. Now we will have big closets, glamorous tile baths, snazzy kitchen, AND a yard, AND a garden, AND privacy, AND security. We're going to be property owners, Mr. Landlord.

So, Landlord, Good-by! No hard feelings, but we're telling all our rent - paying friends, our old-old-house friends, and our new-in-town friends to go see—and buy—Irene Reid's listings. They're fabulous and varied. Just any part of Monroe or West Monroe that you're looking for, and say, Mr. Landlord, maybe you ought to call Irene Reid's sales department yourself. The number is FA 3-1679 and FA 5-4373 or FA 5-4374. Ask anybody in her sales department, here they are:
IRENE REID, FA 3-1679

DAGWOOD, HOW DO YOU WANT YOUR EGGS THIS MORNING ?
FRIED-- NO--WAIT A MOMENT
THIS WOULD BE A GOOD MORNING TO HAVE EGGS-A-LA-FLORENTINE LIKE THE RECIPE IN YESTERDAY'S PAPER
I'M SORRY, BUT I GAVE YESTERDAY'S PAPER TO TOOTSIE WOODLEY
I'LL GO OVER THERE AND BRING IT BACK
TOOTSIE, I WANT TO GET A RECIPE OUT OF THE PAPER BLONDIE GAVE YOU YESTERDAY
LET ME THINK WHAT I DID WITH IT
I'M SORRY DAGWOOD I REMEMBER NOW-- I THREW THE PAPER IN THIS TRASH CAN WHEN I FINISHED WITH IT

HOORAY!
